NU Girls Win Beauty Crowns

Many beauty titles have been given to girls from Nebraska this year. These titles have been on the local, state, and even the national level.

In Atlantic City this year, Diane Knotek represented Nebraska in the Miss America contest. Her singing voice won her many honors in the talent competition. Besides her success at Atlantic City, Miss Knotek has just recently been named Outstanding Nebraskan.

Taking two titles of beauty this year was Shari Lewis, who represented Nebraska in the Miss Universe contest and who was crowned 1957 American Dairy Princess at the International Dairy Show in Chicago.

Besides winning a $1000 scholarship and a complete wardrobe, Miss Lewis will also travel through this country and Europe as a goodwill representative of the American Dairy Industry.

Miss Lewis is a junior in Teachers College and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Topping all of her other rodeo titles, Dallas Hunt was named Miss Rodeo America at the International Rodeo Association rodeo in Chicago on Oct. 9.

The winning of this title tops a long list of rodeo queen titles which include being named queen three times in the Sutherland and junior rodeos, twice in state and national rodeos, and three years in the International Rodeo Association district contest in Burwell. Added to this list is queen of the Ak-Sar-Ben six state regional rodeo honor this year in Omaha.

Besides being named queen in many rodeos, Miss Hunt also shows her own horses, and last year she won three first places in horsemanship in the American Royal.

Miss Hunt is a freshman in Teachers College and a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Queen Ak-Sar-Ben the Sixty-second is Sally Skutt. She was named queen at the Ak-Sar-Ben Ball in Omaha.

Miss Skutt came to Nebraska after attending Pine Manor Junior College in Wellesley, Massachusetts. She is a senior and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Seven of the sixteen young women selected to reign as countesses at the Ak-Sar-Ben Ball were students at the University. They were presented at Ball along with the King and Queen.

Students who were countesses include: Jean Aitken, Courtney Campbell, Janice Caldwell, Beth Keenan, Marilee Newell, Diane Peterson, and Miss Marial Wright.

Jeanne Elliott was a candidate for queen of the American Horse Show which was held in Kansas City.

She is a senior in Teachers College and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The winner of a state beauty contest sponsored by Cam Pans Sales Co. of Batavia, Ill., was Sharon Rain. She won the contest on a state level and then it will move on to regional and then national.

RAM Plans Free Dance For Benefit

A free, all-campus dance will be held Feb. 9, after the Kansas basketball game, according to Gary Widman, Social Director of the Residence Association for Men.

The dance will be a benefit type dance to raise money for the Hungarian Student Project. A free-will offering will be taken, Widman said. He pointed out that since the dance will be less than week before Valentine's Day, the dance, to be held in the Main Dining Room of Sellsack Quadrangle, will be decorated in a Valentine theme.

Widman announced that the Collegians Orchestra has offered its services free of charge for the benefit of refugee Hungarian college students. The group is led by Jerry Reed. The RAM will donate the expenses of decorations and use of all necessary facilities to the cause, Widman asserted.

The dance will begin immediately after the game and will be open to all. A complete announcement will be made at the game, also, he said.

Several entertainment numbers will be featured throughout the dance, according to Lee Miller, RAM representative to HSP. However, he said, any groups or individuals who are willing to donate their services to the project will be welcomed. He asked that they call him at 2-8853.

According to Lyle Hansen, president of RAM, the plan received enthusiastic support from the house presidents and executive officers of the 967-man organization. "I feel that our men are ready and willing to support a worthy cause of this type and I hope that many other students and visitors on the campus will take a couple of hours after the game to come over and help in this fund raising project," Hansen declared.

Booth Pool:

Students Register In Union

The book pool committee of the Student Council has opened a booth in the Union. This booth is being operated by council members, and students may register their books by filling out an official card, said Helen Gourley, chairman of the committee.

The card contains the following information: the book title, department, course number, author, date of edition, the owner's name, Telephone number, address, hours he may be reached, condition of the book, and the price of the book.

On Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 4 and 5, the first two days of second semester or longer if necessary, a student may come and see the cards for the books he wishes to purchase. He may then personally contact the person who is selling that book and they will make their own transaction.

After the students have registered their books in the Union, the cards will be filed with the Council.

"The book pool would provide a means for students in a larger group than present organizations to buy and exchange books without going through a middle man," stated Miss Gourley.

The book committee desires to operate a book exchange in the future in which students would actually bring in the books they wish to sell. This system is now in operation at Colorado and Missouri.

The booth will be open today, and any student interested in registering books may pick up cards in the Union. A Council member will be on duty to assist those registering to insure correct and swift service.

Kosmet were Al Dagget, Dyke Newcomer, Lowell Neibaum, Jim Murphy and Gordon Engert. Sweetheart finalists were Jane Jeffrey, Mary Huston, Sara Hubka, Arlene Hrbek and Marion Janda.

Kosmet Royalty

Don Smidt, junior in Arts and Sciences, and Charlene Ferguson, junior in Teachers, were crowned Prince Kosmet and Nebraska Sweetheart respectively at the Kosmet Klub Fall Review. Other finalists for Prince
