

Huskers Walloped See Page 3

the DAILY NEBRASKAN

Two New Grid Assistants Named—Page 3

Vol. 31, No. 44

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Tuesday, February 5, 1957

Sunday:

RE Week To Feature 8 Speakers

Eight prominent speakers of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths are scheduled for Religious Emphasis Week, to be held Feb. 10-14, according to Dave Rhoades, publicity chairman.

They are Rev. D. F. Hetzler, Lutheran student pastor, University of Iowa; Rev. T. G. Orville; Miss Marriet Willingham, Director of the Baptist Student Foundation of the University of Minnesota; Rev. L. P. Cowley, Director of Newman Club of the University of Minnesota; Rev. Myrvin DeLapp, Presbyterian Secretary of Campus Christian Life; Rabbi Max Ticktin; Dr. Doris Webster Havice, University of Colorado; and Rev. Orville Zabel.

Religious Emphasis Week, which promotes religious growth and analysis of religious beliefs, is sponsored by the University Council on Religion.

The speakers will participate in discussion groups in organized houses, dormitories, classrooms, faculty and student seminars. "The Eternal Dimension" has been elected as the theme for Religious Emphasis Week, with Joan Norris as chairman.

Courtesy Sunday Journal and Star

Lishner Directs

Lionel Lishner (right), director of the University Opera workshop production of "Figaro", stresses

getting the exact expressions from dene Kuxhaus, Monty McMahon (from left) Rodney Walker, Jo and Shirley Halligan.

Wednesday: Players To Present Opera, Mozart's 'Marriage Of Figarro'

Double-casting will be a feature of the University of Nebraska opera workshop production of "The Marriage of Figaro" opening Wednesday.

The workshop program will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday at Howell Memorial Theater.

Rodney Walker will appear in the title role on Wednesday and Friday nights. Norman Riggins will play the same part on Thursday and Saturday.

Other members of the Wednesday-Friday cast are: Jodene Kuxhaus, Susanna; Phyllis Malony, Cherubino; William Hatcher, Count Almaviva; David Mullin, Basilio; and Shirley Halligan, Countess Almaviva.

Thursday-Saturday cast members include: Lucy Webster, Susanna; Paula Roehrkasse, Cherubino; Monty McMahon, Count Almaviva; Richard Voth, Basilio. The part of Countess Almaviva will be played by Myrna Grunwald, on Thursday and by Norma Bossard on Saturday.

Carol Asbury will appear as Marcellina all four nights. Myrna Mills also will take part in all productions as Barbarina.

Mozart's opera tells the story of the difficulties encountered by the count's servant Figaro when he plans to marry Susanna, the countess's maid. The count himself is in love with Susanna and enlists the aid of the music teacher to prevent the marriage. At the same time, the countess plots to regain the count's love through a ruse with Susanna. The page boy, the housekeeper and the gardener's daughter become involved and add to the merriment.

The workshop production will consist of several scenes sung in English. Leon Lishner, associate professor of voice, will narrate portions of the opera to complete the entire production picture.

Lishner will direct the staging and dramatics. Earl Jenkins, assistant professor of voice, is musical director.

Patricia Alvord will serve as accompanist on Wednesday and Friday nights with Joy Schmidt taking over on Thursday and Saturday.

Supervising the production staff will be: John Moran, instructor in music, costumes and make-up; James Copp, lights, and Gerayne Swanson, stage property.

Pub Board:

1955 Senate Ruling Bans Student Vote

Student members of the publications board were not allowed to vote in the Jan. 18 interviews for this semester's Nebraskan staff because of Dec. 13, 1955 Faculty Senate ruling.

Dean of Student Affairs J. P. Colbert, notified the Publications Board of the Senate stipulation in the form of a letter.

"The resolution was not enforced until this month through an oversight on my part. It simply didn't occur to me to notify the sub-committees," Colbert said.

The action is no reflection on the help given by the student representatives. We have welcomed their opinions and ideas and hope that they will keep giving them," Colbert continued.

When asked if the Faculty Senate might be induced to return voting privileges to the students Colbert answered, "I am not going to comment because I don't know what the opinion of the Senate is at present. However, I do think that support could be found in the Senate for returning voting privileges to the students."

Hoffman: NU Student Said Missing For Week

Jerome Hoffman, sophomore in Teachers College, is still missing, according to Lincoln police officials.

Hoffman was last seen in Lincoln the morning of Jan. 24 by his brother David who is a sophomore in Business Administration.

Dean of Student Affairs, J. P. Colbert stated that he knew of "nothing to indicate" why Hoffman should disappear.

Colbert said that Hoffman had a high average and he was sure "nothing scholastic was involved."

"Everyone thought very high of him," Colbert emphasized.

"If anyone knows anything concerning the boy's disappearance I hope they will contact the police or my office," Colbert stressed.

Hoffman was an assistant manager of the Lincoln Theater. He was six feet two inches tall, weighing about 180 and has dark brown hair and eyes. He is of medium complexion and has a crew cut.

He is presumed to be wearing a light grey overcoat, dark brown wool trousers, light tan sport coat and long-sleeved sweater, knit tie and black, crepe-soled shoes.

Staff Chosen: Fred Daly Named To Head Nebraskan

Fred Daly was chosen as second semester editor of The Daily Nebraskan by the faculty-student Board of Publications, on Dec. 18. He succeeds Sam Jensen, a senior from Grand Island.

Staff Chosen:

Fred Daly Named To Head Nebraskan

Fred Daly was chosen as second semester editor of The Daily Nebraskan by the faculty-student Board of Publications, on Dec. 18. He succeeds Sam Jensen, a senior from Grand Island.

Courtesy Lincoln Journal

George Madsen was named business manager for the fourth semester.

Daly, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, is president of Sigma Delta Chi, Journalism Fraternity, a member of Innocents Society and Beta Theta Pi.

Madsen is a senior in the College of Business Administration, vice-president of Kappa Alpha Mu, professional photography fraternity, and past president of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity.

Richard Shugrue was named editor of the editorial page. He is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, in debate, and a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Managing editor is Jack Pollock, a junior in the College of Business Administration. He is a member of Sigma Nu, Sigma Delta Chi, Professional Journalism Fraternity, and NU Young Republicans.

Bob Ireland and Sara Jones were chosen as news editors. Ireland, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, is a member of Sigma Chi, IFC, and a Kozmet Klub worker. Miss Jones is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, on the debate team, in YWCA, and a member of Alpha Xi Delta.

Art Blackman, Carole Frank, George Moyer, and Ron Warholowski were named copy editors.

Blackman, a freshman in the College of Business Administration, is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Miss Frank, a freshman in Teachers College, is in Red Cross, AWS, and a member of Sigma Delta Tau.

Moyer is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, debate, NUCWA, Campus YMCA, and a member of Kappa Sigma.

Warholowski is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences is a member of Alpha Tau Omega and Newman Club.

Richard Hendrix, a freshman in the College of Agriculture, was named Ag editor.

Scholastic:

Boettcher, Vachal Earn High Honors

Two men, Donald Boettcher and Elvin Vachal, Saturday morning received the highest scholastic honor which the University can bestow.

They were awarded their bachelor's degrees "with high distinction." Nine other students received their degrees "with distinction."

Boettcher received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration. Vachal, received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering.

Both men attribute their high grades to lots of study and hard work. Boettcher said "late hours" helped, also. Vachal said his intense interest in the electrical engineering field made him want to study.

Boettcher, a veteran of six and one-half years in the Army, majored in accounting. He now will be employed as an accountant by the Bendix Aviation Corp. in Teterboro, N. J.

Vachal will work for Convair Aircraft Co. in San Diego, Calif. Saturday morning he also was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve and will enter service early next summer.

These two outstanding students previously have been recognized for high scholarship by selection for membership in honorary organizations.

Boettcher is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary scholastic fraternity in business administration. Vachal is a former Legislature To Consider:

No 'Formal' Action On Bill To Up Fees

By GARY RODGERS Staff Writer

A bill to raise tuition rates at the University and the four state teachers colleges has been introduced in the Legislature by Sen. Terry Carpenter.

Carpenter said the bill would direct tuition boosts large enough to make up all the money asked by the schools but not recommended by Gov. Victor Anderson.

Anderson recommended $3.2 million of the $5.5 million increase the University asked. The four teachers colleges will receive $800,000 of the $1.5 million increase they requested if the governor's budget is adopted.

Senator Carpenter's bill would make tuition at the University $360 and $180 per semester for out of state and Nebraska students respectively. The bill would double the present tuition of $180 and $90 which students now pay at the University and the tuition at the Teachers College would also be doubled, from $60 to $120 per semester.

Carpenter said his bill would direct the rates to be the same at the University and the Teachers Colleges.

Tuition at these schools should be high enough to encourage some students to attend church colleges in the state, Carpenter said. Tuition at the private schools is now higher than at the tax-supported institutions.

Carpenter said church colleges in the state could absorb about 2,500 more students with existing facilities.

The University Regents are opposed to action by the Legislature that would drastically increase the tuition at the University.

The Regents, meeting in regular session Saturday, took no formal action on tuition hikes, but the committee which has been appointed to study the matter did convene following the meeting.

Regent Clarence Swanson Monday said that this committee would make a complete study of the proposed bill within the next ten days, and occurred with Regent Frank Elliott's earlier statement that if the tuition is to be doubled, the Legislature, and not the Regents, is going to have to do it.

"You can't run the University according to the whims of the weatherman," Regent C. Y. Thompson said. "If the Legislature is going to earmark funds, what's the use of having a Board of Regents?" he asked.

Regent Frank Foote said that if action is going to be taken, it should be done in the near future by the Regents and not by the Legislature.

Sen. Carpenter explained that while the University Board of Regents and the State Normal Board have discretion to set tuition rates, they get their power from the Legislature. They would be bound to comply with any increase ordered by the lawmakers, he said.

Dean Adam Breckenridge, head of the budget committee, said Monday that the University budget committee and Regents will be represented at a Legislature hearing on February 14.

Chancellor Clifford Hardin said he would have nothing to say until he had seen a copy of the bill. Senator Carpenter said he realized the tuition boost "might leave some kids at home."

"But if I had to choose between that and forcing some people out of their homes, I'd raise the tuition," he stated.

He said that if taxes on real estate continue to climb to support the schools, many people will not be able to afford to own their homes.

Weaver:

Regents Approve Faculty Appointees

The University Board of Regents Saturday afternoon approved the appointment of Dr. John Weaver, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences at Kansas State College, as dean of the Graduate College.

Chancellor Hardin said Dr. Weaver's appointment, effective June 1, "culminates a search that has been going on for about a year by a faculty committee and the administration."

"Dr. Weaver has an outstanding record in his own profession—geography—and has excelled in administrative matters. The University is fortunate that Dr. Weaver has elected to join us."

Other appointments include: Dr. L. L. Claypool of the University of California's department of pomology, as fruit and vegetable specialist for a two-year assignment on the University staff in Turkey. At the University of Ankara, Dr. Claypool's research and teaching program will deal primarily with the handling and storage of fruits and vegetables. A staff member for 20 years of the University of California, he is considered one of the leaders in his profession.

Marius Fossenkemper, noted clarinetist, and guest professor of woodwind instruments as temporary replacement for Donald A. Lentz, professor of woodwinds, who is on leave in the Orient during the second semester. Fossenkemper has been first clarinetist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for the past 30 years and has served as principal clarinetist under the batons of Leopold St-

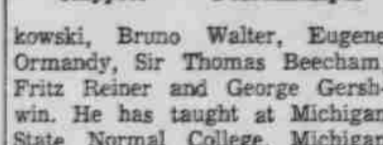

Tom Gable. Gable is resigning to accept a joint position with the Allegheny County Health Department and Graduate School of Public Health at University of Pittsburgh. Simpson obtained his master's degree in public health from University of Michigan in 1947.

Courtesy Lincoln Journal DR. JOHN WEAVER

Courtesy Sunday Journal and Star

Courtesy Sunday Journal and Star

Refugee Fund: Plans Made For Feb. 16 Work Day

Plans are under way on the University campus for an All-University, All-Lincoln Work Day to raise money to bring additional Hungarian student refugees to study on the campus, sponsored by the Hungarian Student Project committee.

It is hoped 500-600 University students will offer their services for odd jobs in the Lincoln community. They will charge no set rate, but employers may pay them what they believe the job to be worth, according to Marijane Craig, chairman of Work-Day.

Work-Day will be held all day Saturday, Feb. 16. Calls for jobs will be taken Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 11, 12th and 13th.

All profits will go into the Hungarian Student Project funds, which now stands at approximately $1600.

Link Opens AWS Board For Filings

Carol Link, AWS president, has announced that filings for the AWS Board will open Tuesday in Rosa Bouton Hall for freshmen, sophomore and junior women interested in the work of AWS. Deadlines for filing will be at 5 p.m. on Feb. 12.

The AWS Board includes seven sophomores, seven juniors and five senior members in addition to the president and vice-president. Candidates for these positions will be chosen following an interview of each girl and thorough consideration of individual leadership qualities, interest, personal standards and sincerity.

To be eligible for membership on AWS Board, a candidate must meet the eligibility requirements for participation in extracurricular activities as set up by the University. She must also be a bona fide member of the class which she proposed to represent.

A candidate must have a weighted scholastic average of at least 5.7. Members of AWS will be asked to resign if their weighted average drops below 5.7.

Mercury 'Rise' Slated Today

Lincolmland will enjoy slightly warmer temperatures Tuesday with the high expected to be in the low 40's. The low tonight is predicted to be around 17.

Partly cloudy skies will prevail Tuesday. The state low, around 30, is expected to be in the northern part of the state.

Monday's registered high, 46, was recorded at Scottsbluff. Lincoln reported a Monday high reading of 40 and a low of 16.

Chadron had the state low Monday with a reading of 4.

Book Pool

Tuesday, February 4, is the last day of the student book pool. Students who wish to utilize this service may still fill out cards on the books which they wish to buy or sell.

Hungarian Student Arrives

A petite brown-haired refugee from Hungary, Sara Laszlo, arrived in Lincoln Saturday night from New York City and Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, to start a new life as a student at the University.

She is the first student refugee to arrive under the sponsorship of the Hungarian Student Project Committee of the University. The group hopes to bring a total of ten refugees to study on the campus. Both of Miss Laszlo's parents are in Hungary, where her father is a farmer.

The smiling 19-year-old was greeted at the Burlington Depot by Barb Sharp, chairman of the project committee; Luci Switzer, assistant chairman and Mrs. LeRoy Laase, president of the YWCA advisory board.

Sara plans to study chemical engineering and has indicated that she plans to file for citizenship papers.

Miss Laszlo has visited with University assistant professor of Journalism, Dr. L. J. Martin, who speaks fluent Hungarian. He discussed the University with her and explained what would be taking place in the next few days. Courses in English will be first on the list for the refugee student.

Members and all Lincolniters who have met her can be summed up in one word—"wonderful."

"We can certainly learn a lot from Miss Laszlo," commented one committee member, "while she is learning about the American way of life."

Courtesy Sunday Journal and Star

Refugee Arrives

First refugee of the recent Hungarian uprising to arrive in Lincoln is Sara Laszlo (center), who'll begin a new life as a University of Nebraska student in the second semester. She is greeted by Mrs. L. T. Laase, (right), University YWCA director, and Barbara Sharp of Omaha (right), chairman of the University Hungarian relief program.