The Interfraternity Council Wednesday night postponed election of executive officers until Thursday after two hours of debate.

Dick Reische, president of Beta Theta Pi, was elected temporary chairman after Bill Krommenhoek, Delta Upsilon president, resigned because of scholastic commitments.

A committee consisting of IFC faculty advisors Dr. Bertrand Schultz, Bill Orwig, and Dr. William Gilliland and Jim Feather, president of Farm House; Krommenhoek, and Don Beck, president of Alpha Gamma Rho will present a list of nominations for the four Council executive positions at Thursday's meeting. Nominations will also be made from the floor.

The compromise decision came after efforts to hold both immediate elections and to delay voting until March failed.

Richard Knudsen, chairman of the Alumni fraternity advisors, announced that his committee is still in the process of investigating the resignations of three IFC officers. Knudsen stated that the IFC

IFC Misquote

The following statement which appeared in Wednesday's paper: "The resignations came, according to a statement by (Ben) Belmont, because the revolting fraternities did not approve of the University drinking policies which were supported by the resigning officers," is erroneous.

Board of Control will probably "take action on the matter next Wednesday."

Marvin Breslow, president of Sigma Alpha Mu, moved that elections be held at a special meeting Thursday after a motion to vote for new officers immediately failed.

During the discussion Dr. Gilliland suggested that the executive election be held during March. Gilliland explained that such procedure was authorized in the IFC constitution.

Gilliland stated that "there are politics involved in my opinion and in the opinion of a great many people." Gilliland urged the Council to "cool off" before elections were held.

Speaking for the motion to hold executive elections immediately Beck urged the Council "to get things rolling."

"We can't do anything constructive if we don't have any leadership," Breslow commented.

Bob Ingram, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon, withdrew his name for executive consideration and denied that any politics was involved in recent IFC action.

In other Council action temporary chairman Reische announced that the election for an IFC representative on the Student Council would be held at the Thursday meeting. The IFC position on the Student Council was vacated in January.

Annual Photo Exhibit Now On Display

The traveling exhibit of the 13th annual "News Pictures of the Year" competition is now on display in the basement of Burnett Hall at the University. The show will continue through Feb. 19.

The public is invited to attend.

The exhibit, co-sponsored by the National Press Photographers Association and Encyclopedia Britannica, features all of the top prize winners and finalists in this year's contest — the largest of its kind in the world today.

Two prints in the exhibit, which contains a cross section of about 125 prints, are by leading photographers from Lincoln. The exhibit will also include representative prints from the portfolio of Grey Billet of Life Magazine, which has been awarded the title "Magazine Photographer of the Year."

This year's show will tour 75 cities throughout the country, being exhibited in leading colleges, universities, public libraries and museums. It is sponsored at the University by Kappa Alpha Mu, honorary photographic fraternity.

Dr. William Hall, director of the School of Journalism, said that this is the first time a salon of this type has been possible at the University because in past years proper facilities for displaying the prints were lacking. This year KAM completed a four-year project of installing wall cabinets in the basement of Burnett Hall.

The project is one of many sponsored by KAM for the advancement of photography. Last year the fraternity received the 1956 Activities Award for the outstanding chapter in nation-wide competition.

University Film 'Awards' Finalist

The film, "Highest Ideals," produced by the University department of photographic production is one of 10 finalists in the annual Intercollegiate Awards competition for campus-produced films.

"Highest Ideals," produced for the National Society of Pershing Rifles, was written and directed by Anthony Gorline. Its purpose was to outline the background and aims of Pershing Rifles, honorary military organization.

The annual competition is sponsored by the Screen Producers Guild and Look magazine.

RAM Puts Final Arrangements On Hungarian Benefit Dance

Final arrangements were made Thursday for the Hungarian Student Benefit Dance and Valentine Frolic to be held Saturday night, according to Gary Widman, Social Director of the Residence Association for Men.

The dance, to be held in the Main Dining Room of Sellen Quadrangle, will begin immediately after the Kansas-Nebraska basketball game.

It will be open to the public and there will be no admission charge. Each person attending is asked to donate to the Hungarian Student Project fund, however.

In addition, Widman said, all profits from the Sellen Quadrangle Snack Bar for the evening will be contributed to the fund through action of the RAM Council which derives its income from Snack Bar profits.

The dance area will be decorated in a Valentine theme including a large centerpiece and an entire ceiling of hearts. The cost of decorations is being donated by RAM also.

Another organization which has agreed to contribute its services is the Collegians Combo. This student group has played at many campus dances and is popular at such events. The group reportedly canceled a paying engagement to play for the benefit dance.

The dance will have as its master of ceremonies, Larry Epstein, an experienced MC. Epstein is a member of the Yell Squad and the Red Cross College Unit. As a Red Cross worker, he has MC'd variety shows presented by the RCCU at the Lincoln veterans hospital.

Entertainment will be provided at intermission by the RAM Glee Club. This group has gained wide popularity on the campus and in outstate areas in the last two years.

Regional: LSA Plans Mid-Winter Conference

The Lutheran Student Association will be host to the Mid-Winter Conference of the LSA Midwest Region Friday evening through Sunday at the Lutheran Student House, 535 No. 18th.

Representatives of the LSA from 15 Kansas and Nebraska schools will attend the conference which is directed toward developing leaders within the campus groups.

Using "A Willing, Working Witness" as the theme of the conference, the featured speaker, Pastor Don Hertzler, Lutheran campus pastor at Iowa U, will deliver three main addresses. His keynote address will open the conference at 9 p.m. Friday.

Five workshops on Saturday morning comprise the core of the three day session. Dr. Paul Bierstedt of the Division of College and University Work, Chicago, will direct the Bible Study Techniques section, with Hertzler guiding the discussion of Christian Art. Workshops on Programing, Stewardship and Campus Economics complete the morning session.

The remainder of the conference includes a business meeting and address on Saturday afternoon, the KU-NU game followed by a Vesper service Saturday night. The conference concludes with Bible study and Holy Communion Sunday morning.

Under the direction of Dick Oehring the Glee Club has appeared on several radio and television broadcasts, and has sung in several Lincoln churches.

The University of Kansas basketball team may be present for an interview, but this aspect of the dance has not yet been confirmed.

Lee Miller, president of Manatt House and RAM representative to the Hungarian Student Project, is making arrangements to have Miss Sara Laszlo, the first Hungarian refugee student to arrive on the University campus, present at the dance.

If possible, Miller said, he would have an interpreter present so that Miss Laszlo, who reportedly speaks no English, can be interviewed and meet some American students at the dance.

Widman pointed out that the benefit dance combines three functions into one. It will incorporate the traditional open house dance sponsored each February by the RAM and a Valentine party in addition to its fund-raising aspect.

All recreational areas of the Quadrangle will also be available to persons attending the dance, including the TV lounges, ping pong equipment, the music room and Snack Bar.

Second Hungarian To Arrive Friday

The University's second Hungarian refugee student will arrive in Lincoln Friday night, according to Barb Sharpe, chairman of University Hungarian Student Project Committee.

Karoly (Charles) Nemeth will be met at 6:40 p.m. at the Burlington Depot by members of the University Hungarian Student Project committee, which has raised funds to bring him here to study.

Nemeth is a native of Acts Komarom Megye, Hungary.

His parents died when he was a small child and he was raised by friends. He was graduated from a gymnasium (high school) and attended medical school in Hungary. He was thrown out of school because his parents, if they had been alive, would have been considered capitalists. He was reinstated last September under the de-Stalinization program.

Nemeth was a member of the army but was required to do forced labor in the mines because he was not considered politically reliable as a Communist soldier.

He has studied English for four years and just completed a short course in controversial English at Bard College in New York. He escaped from Hungary on Nov. 14 and arrived in the United States on Dec. 12.

He plans to take pre-medical courses at the University. He will live at Cornhusker Co-op, men's cooperative house.

Opera 'Interesting,' 'Entertaining'

If operas were judged exclusively on the basis of music and acting, the Department of Music's presentation of "The Marriage of Figaro" would score nearly 100 percent. The eight member cast — under the direction of Leon Lishner and Earl Jenkins — gave Mozart's classic everything they had, which was quite a bit.

Thus we saw fine examples of the actor-singer combination in performers like Rodney Walker as Figaro, Jodene Kuhaus as Susanna and Phyllis Malony as Cherubino. Miss Malony, in particular, gave her role a good humor, grace, and sparkling personality which pleased the opening night crowd. As the thespians the entire cast displayed some weaknesses — shyness in making gestures and lack of motivation in responses —

Student Votes:

SC 'Requests' Senate Action

The Student Council passed a motion Wednesday "respectfully requesting the Faculty Senate to allow the student representatives on the Senate Committees the right to vote at the discretion of the individual committees."

The motion, made by Council vice-president Marvin Breslow, will be delivered to Dean of Student Affairs, J. P. Colbert.

Colbert, in a formal letter to faculty committees with student representation dated Jan. 17, pointed out that a Senate resolution of Dec. 13, 1955 removed the right for students to vote on faculty committees.

Faculty committees with student representatives include the Senate Calendar Committee, with two student members; the Commencement Committee, with two student members; the Committee on Semester Examinations, two student members; and the Senate Committee on Student Affairs, subcommittee on General Organizations, which has two student members; Social Affairs, two student members and Student Publications, three student members.

Student members of the publications board were not allowed to vote in the Jan. 18 interviews for this semester's Nebraska staff because of the Dec. 13, 1955 Senate resolution.

In other Council action a motion introduced by John Kinnier to form "a committee with the purpose of investigating the possibility of and to make plans for the presentation of student views to the legislature of the state of Nebraska concerning the University's budget."

Dave Keene, chairman of the University Parking Appeals Board, read a letter from Dean Colbert to Chancellor Hardin recommending the formation of a central planning committee for the study for the parking problem.

President, Bruce Bruggmann, announced that elections for Council treasurer and a new junior member of the publications board would be held at the next meeting.
