Fuenning;

Organized Houses To Consider Code

Samuel Fuenning, Professor of Health and Director of the Student Health Center and University Health Services, said Wednesday that the University would present a housing code to organized houses for their approval.

Speaking before the IFC subcommittee on health, Fuenning said, "All large communities should have a workable housing code; Lincoln has recently approved one, and University health officials have long felt that such a plan would benefit the University."

The code, as outlined by Fuenning, would establish rules for such things as the amount of minimum sleeping and study space for each individual, eating facilities and storage facilities. "We don't wish to release the proposed code to the general public until the houses have had a chance to look it over and offer suggestions," Fuenning said.

The proposed code will be distributed to member organizations of the Interfraternity Council, Co-op Council and Panhellenic Council as soon as possible according to Fuenning.

"The code is patterned after the code suggested by the United States Government Health Service. It is somewhat more strict than the code adopted by the city and we believe it eliminates some of the weaknesses of that code," Fuenning said.

"We hope houses will seriously consider this code and offer us any suggestions they have to make about it," Fuenning said in closing.

Mind Reading?

Telepathy Show Set Tonight

Joseph Dunninger, the Master Mind whose mental wizardry has baffled scientists and psychologists throughout the world, will appear at the Coliseum at 8 p.m. tonight.

Dunninger's ability to read thoughts amazed the great Harry Houdini, and Howard Thurston, the great magician, went to great lengths in his search for the secret of Dunninger's feats.

Some University skeptics will challenge Dunninger. Three students from Selleck Quadrangle, Ken Ash, Doug Watkins and Sanford McConnell, will present a test for his telepathic abilities.

They will present a sealed container of envelopes, each of which contains a thought, to Dunninger. He will be asked to determine the number of envelopes and the message of the combined thoughts.

According to Dick Shugrue, Daily Nebraskan editorial page editor, a member of the Daily Nebraskan staff, who will not be disclosed until the show, has memorized a four digit number from a news story of the October 22, 1937, Daily Nebraskan. By these two tests, the students will attempt to determine the authenticity of Dunninger's alleged mind-reading powers.

Tickets are on sale at Gold's and in the Union. Prices are main floor, $1.50; lounge, $1.50 and $1.25; balcony, $1.25 and $1.00; and main floor raised, $1.00 (for students only).

Since this is an audience participation show a temporary stage will be set up eight feet closer to the audience than the regular one. Students sitting in the special bleachers have as good seats as people on the main floor, according to Marilyn Heck, coordinator.

BABW Board Close Filings Friday Night

Filings for the BABW Board will close Friday for freshman, sophomore and junior independent women according to Marian Sokol, president.

Filings may be made at the BABW office in Room 309 in the Union. At the time of filing, sign for an interview.

The BABW Board consists of five sophomores, five juniors and two seniors besides the president and vice-president. Candidates for these positions will be selected following an interview of each girl filing for a board position.

New Faces Slated At Union Sunday

"New Faces" is scheduled for the Sunday night movie at the Union Ballroom this week, according to Dorothy Beechner, publicity chairman.

Featuring such songs as "C'est Si Bon," "Monotonous" and "Love Is A Simple Thing," this is the film version of the Broadway review that was the first appearance of such stars as Eartha Kitt.

May Queen Filings End Today

Filings for May Queen will close Friday according to Shirley McPeck, spring elections co-chairman.

All senior women who have a cumulative scholastic average of 5.5 and who are carrying twelve semester hours are urged to file in the main lobby at Ellen Smith Hall.

Community Education: Administrators Discuss Last Hope Of Democracy

Community education is "our last best hope to save democracy," Dean F. E. Henzlik of the University Teachers College said Monday at a meeting of school administrators at Atlantic City, N. J.

Speaking to a joint meeting of members of the American Association of School Administrators and the National Association of Professors of Educational Administration, Dr. Henzlik said the masses today rarely see life as a whole but rather as fragmented and specialized experience.

"Under such conditions," he explained, "confusion, muddle-headedness and even moral apathy often flourish. These are the conditions under which more and more people will be called to live in the future."

Dr. Henzlik warned that if we don't provide "the common man with the opportunity to develop the power to make free choices, to separate the truth from falsehood and to distinguish good from evil," then "we must give up the right to be free men and women."

He described the workings of the Nebraska Community Education Project being conducted by the University in Mullen, Syracuse, Sidney and York.

Dr. Henzlik called the Project an unique example of how communities are learning "to intelligently identify their needs and capitalize their resources in vitalizing and enriching the community living process."

He explained that the Project in each town involves large numbers of citizens "organized into working groups who voluntarily accept the responsibilities of determining the long term needs and setting up the long-term goals for community improvement."

Dr. Henzlik termed the ultimate reason for maintaining public schools as "improving the community."

And in this role, he pointed out, the school must "keep open the channels and develop and refine the living processes which constitute the cutting and growing edge of democracy."

Secondly, he added, "the school must stimulate and provide the educational experiences through which people young and old are enabled to live effectively and happily with themselves and with others."

He commented that the process of improving the community provides the best education for children and youth as well as for adults.

Refugee Students Arrive

Molnar and Steven Takacas, as they arrive for their first look at Lincoln and the University where they will live and study.

IFC Studies Cut In Grades For Initiation

The Scholarship Committee of the Interfraternity Council presented a set of statistics both for and against a proposed cut in the required initiation average from a 5 to a 4.5 at the IFC meeting, Wednesday.

The statistics are to be discussed in the fraternity chapter meetings. A discussion of a resolution to be presented in the University will take place at the next IFC meeting.

A motion was also suggested to have a system of scholarship regulation for active members of chapters.

A discussion of any regulation will take place at the next meeting of the Council, according to Dick Reische, president of the Council.

Five Students Now: 'Last Of Hungarians' Arrive Tuesday Evening

Three Hungarian refugee students Steven (Istvan) Takacas, Julius (Gyula) Szabo and Lajos Molnar, arrived Tuesday night. Their arrival brings the number of Hungarian refugee students now at the campus to five.

Greeting the three youths were members of the Hungarian Student Project committee and students from Sigma Chi, Theta Xi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities where the foreign students will live.

Charles (Karoly) Nemeth, another Hungarian student, translated greetings and messages to the newcomers, including a "welcome aboard!" from the Sigma Chi delegation to their new housemate, 20-year-old Takacas.

Takacas, who had enrolled in college to study engineering before his flight from Hungary, will continue with his plans at the University.

Molnar, 20, and Szabo, 23, both plan to attend the college of Agriculture after a semester's orientation on the English language. Molnar wants to study agronomy, plant cultivation and mechanized farming.

The three students toured the University and Lincoln Wednesday before starting classes on Thursday, according to Barb Sharp, Sally Flanagan, Terry Mitchem and Miss Sharp showed the three students around campus. The students also visited the capitol and were asked to speak before the legislature. Here they explained what the project was and how the Hungarian students felt about coming to the University.

No more Hungarian refugees will be sponsored at the University for

Jean Dibble: Cherry Blossom Princess Added To NU Royalty

Another name has been added to the lists of Nebraska royalty. Jean Dibble, senior in Arts and Sciences, has been chosen the Nebraska princess of the Cherry Blossom Festival. She will represent Nebraska in the Washington, D. C. program April 2-7.

Members of the Nebraska Ballroom Operators Association sponsored the contest.

"After being recommended and having a brochure of facts checked by the Association, the candidate is chosen by means of personal interviews," according to Victor Sloan, member of the Association.

While in Washington, Miss Dibble will participate in several parades, dinners, T.V. appearances and a large ball. At the ball, the queen, who is picked from among the princesses, will be announced.

The princesses are provided escorts to all events from West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen.

While in Washington, Miss Dibble will be entertained by the "Nebraska Delegation in Washington."

Miss Dibble is a member and recording secretary of Kappa Alpha Theta.

The All University Square Dance Club elected Don Herman, Sophomore in Ag College, to head the organization for the semester. Other officers are: Jim White, Ag College Freshman, Vice President; Carolyn Hall, Ag College Sophomore, Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Cole and Mr. and Mrs. M. G. McCreight, Advisors.

The next dance is March 1 at 8 p.m. in the Ag-Union gym according to Don Herman, president.

Mitchell Hearing:

Four Witnesses Give Testimony

Four witnesses appeared before the University committee on academic privileges Thursday afternoon.

The committee is investigating complaints made by Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell, former professor and chairman of the department of agricultural economics. Dr. Mitchell claimed that certain administrative officials of the University had threatened his academic freedom and that he was removed as chairman because of outside pressures.

Those appearing were: Dr. Howard Ottoson, chairman of the department of agricultural economics.

Dr. Ernest Feder, associate professor of agricultural economics. Bruce Brugmann, senior in Arts and Sciences, who was editor of the Nebraskan at the time of the announcement of Dr. Mitchell's removal as chairman in April, 1956.

Sam Jensen, senior in Arts and Sciences, who was a member of the Nebraska staff in the spring of 1956.

The committee also questioned Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture, who had appeared at the committee's earlier hearing Feb. 9.

Committee Chairman David Dow said another hearing is contemplated but probably not until the latter part of March.

Reische:

IFC Ball 'Possible' This Spring

Members of the University Interfraternity Council and IFC faculty advisor, Dr. Bertrand Schultz, conferred with Dean of Student Affairs, J. P. Colbert, Tuesday, concerning the possibilities of having an IFC Ball this spring, according to Dick Reische, president.

Reische stated that the IFC executive committee will appear before the faculty committee on student affairs to submit a written outline of the IFC Ball and other Council ideas. No definite date for the meeting has been set, Reische said.

The possibility of having several days of IFC activities with a dance to end the program will be presented to the student affairs committee, after the Council decides on definite plans, Reische added.

"I think that if such a program is planned right it will be a real success for the University fraternities," Reische commented.

The privilege of having a Ball was taken away from the IFC in 1955 by the office of student affairs.

Last fall the IFC unsuccessfully petitioned the office of student affairs asking permission to have the annual Ball reinstated.

Ag Ceres Club Offers $50 Scholarship

Ceres Club of the College of Agriculture is offering a $50 scholarship for meritorious effort in school life as well as scholastic attainments.

Any woman registered in Ag College who will have sufficient hours to graduate in June, 1958 or at the end of summer school may apply.

Conditions of the award are: (1) She must have earned at least one-third of her credit hours in home economics at the University; (2) She must have a scholastic average of not less than 5.5; (3) She must be wholly or partially self-supporting.

Candidates may secure application blanks at the office of Miss Margaret Cannell. Blanks should be mailed to Mrs. H. P. Davis, 3715 Holdrege St., before March 16.

Before making application, candidates are requested to give the Registrar's Office permission to send grades to the above address. It is also necessary to send two letters from references testifying as to need and character. Applicants will meet with the committee for personal interviews at a later date.

Phi Mu Alpha Smoker

Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia will have a rush smoker Sunday, Feb. 24, at 2 p.m. in Room 315 at the Union. Those who are interested in this national professional music fraternity may attend.

'Pot Luck' Buffet Supper Slated Sunday

The Ag Union and faculty committee of ten couples headed by Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McCalla are co-sponsoring the third "Pot Luck with the Profs" this Sunday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Ag-Student Union.

An "ice-breaker" preceding the buffet style supper will enable the faculty and students to become better acquainted.

Musical entertainment will be in the form of violin selections by Mrs. Joel Moss and piano numbers by her husband, Associate Professor in Home Economics at the University.

All Ag College students are invited to attend, according to Burt Weichenthal, Ag Union Committee chairman. Tickets may be picked up at the Ag Union Activities office, stated Weichenthal.

Other faculty sponsors are: Messrs. and Mmes. Don Hanway, Geo. Steinbrugge, Richard Warren, M. G. McCreight, Vincent Arthaud, L. F. Larsen, Everett Petersen, J. J. Moss and Paul Matern.

Snow, Cold To Continue In Nebraska

Light snow has been predicted for the state by the Weather Bureau. Skies over the state will be generally cloudy and temperatures will continue to be cold through today.

A light drizzle which began early Thursday turned into snow later in the day and in some parts of the state driving conditions are hazardous.

Snow depth in the Lincoln area will be one or two inches, according to Weather Bureau officials.

The mercury will stick close to the cellar with readings of from 5 to 15 degrees anticipated. Lincoln's low Thursday was 14.
