

Committee Reinstates Interfraternity Ball

By BOB IRELAND
News Editor

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs voted Friday to allow the Interfraternity Council to reinstate its annual IFC Ball, tentatively scheduled for Saturday night, May 18, at the Turnpike Ballroom.

Action came after almost two hours of discussion Friday involving members of the committee and executives of the IFC.

In a prepared statement, the Student Affairs Committee stated that they had "voted to allow the Interfraternity Council to hold an IFC Ball on a weekend at the Turnpike Ball Room."

The Committee statement continued that the following stipulations concerning the IFC Ball were to be fulfilled:

1. IFC must obtain a signed statement from the management of the Turnpike that the management will cooperate with the University with respect to University regulations governing social affairs.

2. That the IFC will provide police for the dance.

3. That the officers of the individual fraternities will sign a statement of agreement to help police the dance.

IFC executives Dick Reische, president; Charlie Pike, vice-president; and Bill Dahl, treasurer, presented the council views to the committee, which met in open session at Ellen Smith Hall.

Council president Dick Reische stated that he felt all fraternity presidents would support the decision of the Committee on Student Affairs wholeheartedly.

"Action will be taken if fraternity members start to drink at the dance," Reische added.

Dr. Bertrand Schultz, faculty advisor to the IFC and a member of the Student Affairs Committee, stated that the Council wished to show their good faith by staging a successful dance in compliance with University rules.

During Friday's discussion which preceded the committee's decision, Reische stated that the IFC would be willing to sign a pledge of good faith with the student affairs office.

Dean of Student Affairs, J. P. Colbert, stated that he "felt the committee has shown by its actions that it stands ready to work with the students at all times helping them develop a satisfactory social and activity program within the framework of the laws of the state and rules of the University."

Reiche and Dahl met with the Committee on Student Affairs March 4, at which time discussion was also held concerning the possibilities of reinstating the dance.

The IFC petition to the Committee called for the dance to be part of "fraternity weekend, involving an IFC Banquet Thursday night at the University Club, and an open-house dance Friday night, sponsored by the Junior IFC."

The privilege of having an IFC Ball was taken away from the Council in 1955 by the Office of Student Affairs.

Last fall the IFC unsuccessfully petitioned the Office of Student Affairs asking permission to have the annual dance reinstated.

'King Lear' Slated For Howell Theater

The first Shakespearean play presented by the University Theater in the past five years will be staged this week at Howell Memorial Theater, beginning Tuesday.

Continuing nightly through Saturday, the play, "King Lear," will be directed by Dr. Dallas Williams, assistant professor of speech and dramatic art. Curtain time each night is 8 o'clock.

Sidney Kaplan, a graduate student, will play the lead role.

Others in the cast are: Bonna Tebo, Jacquie Miller, Phyllis Chard, Charles Weatherford, Bob Wells, Joe Hill, Eric Prewitt, John Crowell, Charles Alcorn, Len Schropfer, Bill Baker, Robert Schoenrock, John Thompson, Lyle Walthier, Bernard Skalka, Don Montgomery, Charles Richards, Bill Wagner, Robert Griffin, David Thomas, and Kirk Easton.

In the play, the King of Britain divides his realm between two of his daughters, who later abuse and treat him with disrespect, while a third daughter who really loves him is left with nothing.

Dueling scenes were staged by John Giele, a graduate student who coaches the University fencing team.

The production staff for King Lear includes:

Stephany Sherdeman, production; John Thompson, Anna Meyer and Diana Peters, scenery; Norman Francis, Lyn Greenberg, Kathleen Schmutte and Lyle Walthier, stage and hand property; Jim Copp, Bill Askamit, Joel McComb and Mary Thompson, sound; Noel Schoenrock, Duane DeHart, Myrna Mills and Judy DeVibus, costumes, and Karen Peterson and Bob Butcher, lights.

Tickets On Sale

The box office of the Howell Memorial Theater will be open every day this week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to accept reservations for the next University Theater production, King Lear. The Theater is located in the Temple Building.

Tuesday:

Mock Legislature Meeting Scheduled

The second mass meeting of interested participants in the NUCWA mock legislature will be held Tuesday at 7:30, in room 316 of the Union, according to Biff Keyes, NUCWA president.

Groups may register for districts at this meeting. Although many districts have been assigned, some are still available. This will be the last opportunity to apply for one. The granting of a district allows the group to elect a senator and an alternate.

They may also nominate one person for each of the three elected offices, governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of state, besides any number of lobbyists.

The final all-campus elections will be held on Tuesday, March 26. Later this week meetings will be held to acquaint the senators and lobbyists with their duties and obligations. A state senator and registered lobbyists will address the respective groups. Afterwards a question session will be held.

What constitutes a group? If the students belong to an organized house, fraternity, sorority or co-op house, they will represent that organization. In the case of independent students who do not live in what is known as an organized house, five or more interested students will constitute a group.

"The way the plans are developing, this conference promises to be as exciting and colorful as the Mock Political Convention last spring," according to Betty Parks, chairman.

The first session of the legislature will begin March 29 in the Union, and the second session will be at the capitol, Saturday, March 30.

Gustavson To Give Graduation Talk

Dr. R. G. Gustavson, former chancellor at the University and now president of Resources for the Future, Washington, D.C., has accepted an invitation to address the University's 86th annual commencement exercises June 10 at the Coliseum.

Dr. Gustavson served as chancellor of the University from September, 1946 to July, 1953.

Spring Fever Attacks Mar Study Attempts

Students can expect the warm spring weather to continue for the next few days, with no let-up in the sudden attack of spring fever. Partly cloudy skies will accompany the anti-studying season and a few light showers might mar the parties. The sun will rise at 6:28 a.m. tomorrow and will set at 6:47 p.m. The highs will range from 58 to 65 degrees in various parts of Lincoln and the lows are expected to be from 28 to 35 degrees.

Special SC Committee: Students Give Ideas Of Budget To Senators

Some 43 University students, working in conjunction with a special Student Council committee, have been meeting with their state senators for the past week and discussing the proposed NU budget.

The special "legislature committee" of the Student Council, which was formed to investigate what University students might do to express their own views to their state senators, is working under co-chairmen Dave Keene and John Kinnier.

According to Keene the committee obtained a list of all students enrolled in the University last semester. From this list, Keene stated, the committee selected a student from each legislative district whose responsibility it was to make an appointment with the senator from his district.

Keene stated that almost half of the senators have been contacted and that practically all of them will have talked with students by the time of the Budget Committee's hearing Wednesday.

"This program is not a lobbying one but rather designed to share with senators the student's own views and to gain a better understanding of the senator's views," Keene emphasized.

"Students were not presenting a pre-prepared statement from the Student Council but expressing their own views of the University and its needs to their senators," Keene added.

Each student working with the committee was provided with an enrollment list from his district plus some suggestions and ideas concerning the University's needs.

Included in the brochure provided by the Student Council were statistics from a recent survey of 4286 students taken during registration in January concerning the proposed tuition raise and the University budget.

The pamphlet stressed that each student should express his "own views concerning the University and its budget."

Members of the Student Council committee besides Keene and Kinnier, are Joanne Bender, Norma Wolf, Bev Deepe, Mary Houston, Don Beck, Art Weaver, and Bruce Brugmann.

University Film Given Award

A University film, "Highest Ideals," has won an honorable mention award in national inter-collegiate competition.

The Screen Producers Guild, sponsors of the competition, had announced earlier that the 30 minute film had been selected as one of ten finalists. A color-sound production, the film was produced by the University department of photographic productions.

"Highest Ideals" is the story of the Pershing Rifles, national honorary military fraternity which was founded at the University in honor of Gen. John J. Pershing who taught ROTC at the University.

Anthony Gorsline, former University staff member, wrote and directed the film and Gerard Schaefer, another former staff member, was production supervisor.

Link Sororities Ivy Sing Rules Set

Rules for the 1957 Ivy Day Intersorority Sing were announced today by Carol Link, president.

All groups who are planning to participate and have not yet made plans should do so immediately, she said.

All organized women's houses, except honoraries, having at least eight and not more than twenty-five singers including the director, may enter. All members must carry at least twelve hours this semester and have passed at least twelve hours last semester, she stated.

No professional person may assist in the preparation of the song, she stressed, although non-professional alumnae help may be used. The director of the group must be active in the group and represents and must be a regularly enrolled student in the University.

Medleys of songs, songs longer than five minutes in length, or songs used last year may not be used, Miss Link emphasized.

All groups must remain after their participation on Ivy Day for recall by the judges, she stated.
