Promotion:

Faculty Ratings Surveyed

The basis of promotion of faculty was the subject of a limited survey held at the University.

The survey of both students and faculty members revealed that student evaluation of the abilities of a faculty member should be taken into consideration but not weighed too heavily.

Boyd Breslow, sophomore in Arts and Sciences said, "the level of academic knowledge and tenure of an instructor should be given primary consideration."

Mrs. Rita Adier, French Department, felt that student evaluation is beneficial to the professor but not a basis for promotion.

James Miller Jr., Chairman of the Department of English, thought, as the majority of the group, that a choice based on a combination of criteria would be ideal.

Five bases of promotion were proposed and discussed in the interviews. They were: faculty evaluation, student evaluation, research in the field of the instructor, creative work and tenure.

The problem is being considered in the College of Arts and Sciences prompted by a letter to the faculty of that college suggesting possible criteria of judgment and requesting their opinion.

Scholarship Fund:

Orin Stepanek Memorial Donations Total $1,546

Contributions to the Orin Stepanek Memorial Scholarship Fund have reached a total of $1,546, according to Herb Potter of the University Foundation.

The fund was initiated by the English Department last March as a memorial to the late Professor Stepanek, who died in the spring of 1955. His death ended 35 years of service to the University as an English and language professor.

The English Department felt that the most fitting and permanent memorial was a scholarship fund in the name of Professor Stepanek, according to Wilbur Gaffney, assistant professor of English.

The fund raising campaign was directed first to the faculty and then extended to alumni and non-University people. It is hoped that a goal of approximately $2,000 will be reached.

Most of the donations have been by members of the English Department, former students of Stepanek, alumni and others who admired his teaching.

Income from the contributions will be used to produce a scholarship for English majors. If possible, the scholarship will be presented annually.

Gaffney pointed out that little newspaper publicity has been used to secure donations, although The Daily Nebraskan has been a major agent. Most of the contributions have been the result of personal contacts by members of the committee composed of faculty members and interested friends.

Stepanek came to the University in 1929 as assistant professor of English and Slovenian languages.

...Riggins, Barber, Hill, Coonrad, Linsay Selected

By GEORGE MOYER

Norman Riggins, Cynthia Barber, Jack Linsay, Barbara Coonrad and Joe Hill have been chosen to head the cast of the Kosmet Klub spring show, South Pacific to be presented May 24 & 25 according to Jerry Brownfield, Kosmet Klub Publicity Chairman.

Riggins will play Emile DeBeque, a role which Ezio Pinza made famous on Broadway. Riggins is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, Sinfonia, Theta Xi and University Singers.

This winter he played the title role in the University laboratory production of "The Marriage of Figaro." He was also a member of last year's Kosmet Klub spring show cast, and has sung in the "Messiah." Riggins is a senior in the college of Music.

Miss Barber, who will play the part of Nellie Forbush which was taken by Mary Martin in the original production, is a sophomore in the School of Music majoring in voice. She is a member of Singers, Madrigal, Sigma Alpha Iota music honorary and Kappa Alpha Theta. She also had a part in last spring's Kosmet Klub show, "Kiss Me Kate."

Linsay brings the experience of a senior in the School of Music to his role as Lt. Joseph Cable. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, Sinfonia, Singers and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Linsay has appeared in the 1954 Kosmet Klub show as well as the 1955 show, "Bloomer Girl." He has sung in the "Messiah" and has appeared on television in his home state, Idaho. His last appearance in Lincoln was in the Haywith a major in dramatics. Hill is most familiar to University audiences for his work in University Theater where he has had several leading roles. He appeared in summer stock last year and is a member of Sigma Alpha Mu.

She has sung in Handel's "Messiah" and is a member of Kappa Delta.

Brackett Jane Odell - Liat, Bill Raecke - Jerome, Bob Robson - Sertop, Charles Richards - Lt. Harbison, Noel Schoenrock - Henry, and Steve Schultz - Professor.

The show, "South Pacific" is a Rogers and Hammerstein musical version of the original book of the same title by James Michener. The story concerns two love affairs, that of Lt. Cable for Liat and of the middle aged planter, DeBeque, for Nellie Forbush.

The show will be held for the first time in the new Lincoln Pershing Memorial Auditorium. The last time a Kosmet Klub show was held in the municipal auditorium was 29 years ago. Raise In Salaries Feared Inadequate Chancellor Clifford Hardin reported that he was concerned that the salary increases requested in the University's biennial budget now pending before the Budget Committee may prove to be wholly inadequate.

He said that 60 percent of University employees, including a substantial number of faculty members, are now earning on the average of less than $4,500 annually.

"Our faculty is being approached almost daily by other institutions and industry offering them higher salaries and better working conditions. "If this keeps up," Dr. Hardin continued, "my estimate of losing 200 of our faculty and professional staff in the next two years may be short of the mark. I have never seen anything like this before."

The Chancellor said salary pressures were greatest in the faculty area, but that other professional and skilled employees, who constitute 65 per cent of the total University staff, were "becoming apprehensive."

Chancellor Hardin said the following figures of proposed increases for the faculty, if the legislature appropriates the University's budget request, must be regarded as averages and as tentative.

Some key staff members will be granted increases higher than the average merit increase, but all ranks are in need of upward adjustment "if we are to keep these people in Nebraska." The present median salaries of teaching and research personnel compared with the proposed figures follow:

Rank	1956-57 1956-57 Median	1957-58 Proposed Median
Professors	$7,100	$8,100
