School Hours:

Suggest Class Day Extension

Chancellor Clifford Hardin said Friday that the University faculties are being asked to consider whether it would be feasible to extend the length of the teaching day to help relieve the University's shortage of classroom and laboratory space.

The matter will be discussed at a special meeting of the University Senate on Tuesday.

Urgency of finding additional space pending further development of the University's building program, the Chancellor said, is emphasized by a report from Dr. Floyd Hoover, University registrar.

The report declares that unless prompt action is taken the University will have "upwards of 2,000 more students within the next three years with no place to put them."

Dr. Hoover said that "everytime our enrollment increases by 500 students we must find, on an average, 20 or more rooms to be used anywhere from 10 to 20 hours a week."

Classrooms in Andrews hall, one of the principal teaching buildings on the Lincoln City campus, are now being used from 80 to 91 per cent of the time, based on a 44-hour week, and Dr. Hoover said that pressure for space is also serious in Social Sciences hall and in the engineering laboratories in Bancroft hall.

Chancellor Hardin said he believes that some extension of the classroom day is inevitable but that such action will increase the need for additional staff and cannot be expected to materially reduce the University's immediate need for additional buildings.

Next Week: Lecturers To Visit University

Two lecturers—an Italian translatort-poet and the director of the Hispania Foundation of the Library of Congress—will visit the University campus this week.

Prof. Alfredo Rizzardi of Bologna, Italy, will deliver a public lecture Monday, at 11 a.m. in the Love Library auditorium, on "American Literature in Italy." He also will visit informally with students Monday afternoon and Tuesday.

Professor Rizzardi is in this country as visiting professor at Johns Hopkins University. In the past, he has been visiting professor at Harvard, Chicago, and Notre Dame Universities.

He has published many volumes of criticism, translations, and original verse. In addition to his work on Emily Dickinson, he is the author of studies of Melville and other 19th Century American writers.

His visit is sponsored by the University Research Council and the English department.

The other lecturer, Dr. Howard Cline, will give two lectures Friday: "Cultural Relations of the U.S. and Latin America," 10 a.m., Room 206, Burnett Hall; and "Research Resources of the Library of Congress in Specialized Areas," 3 p.m., Room B-16, Burnett Hall. Dr. Cline has served as a member of the department of history at Harvard, Yale, and Northwestern Universities. He was selected as Sheldon Prize Fellow, 1939-40, Social Sciences Council Fellow, 1942-43.

All's Changed: Prediction Says Good Weather

All the rain, snow and colder weather that the Weather Bureau had predicted for Friday and Saturday have been called off.

Instead of any general rains, the bureau said that the precipitation would be confined to the extreme southeastern portion of the state.

Originally the prediction said that the entire state would experience a fast drop in temperatures which would result in either rain or snow.

In the changed prediction, the temperatures are expected to register a mild 40 to 50 degrees. This is considerably above what previously had been expected for the weekend. The skies will be only slightly cloudy with the south and southeastern sections having more overcast than the rest of the state.

New Set-up Utilized

Bob Martel, KNUS disk jockey, presents his program "The Bob Martel Show" from the new studio set-up in the basement of the Temple Building. The new arrangement, without increasing floor space allows the station another studio and greatly facilitates the organization. The studio, student operated, broadcasts every afternoon, providing news, music and sports designed especially for the University students.

Sunday: NU Band Concert Planned

The 80-piece University Symphonic Band will conclude its spring tour with a concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Union.

Soloists for the concert will be Jack McKie, trumpet, who will play Haydn's "Concerto for Trumpet"; and Wendell Fries, trombone, who will play Rimsky-Korsakov's Concerto for Trombone and Band."

Other pieces on the program will include:

Overture to La Forza del Destino, Verdi; Les Preludes, Liszt; Suite for Concert Band, Kechley; An Original Suite for Military Band, Jacob; Peachtree Promenade, Gillis; Kentucky-1800 Grindman; and Beguine for Band, Oser.

Today the band is presenting concerts at Stanton High School and Albion High School. Thursday they made appearances in Bellevue and Louisville.

Kosmet Klub

The first staging rehearsal of "South Pacific" has been called for Saturday in the Union Ball Room at 2 p.m. by director Norm Leger. Attendance of all chorus members and persons with speaking roles is required. Minor men's and women's roles will be assigned, and work will be started on the production numbers of "Bloody Mary" and "There Is Nothing Like A Dame," Leger said.

He has published many volumes of criticism, translations, and original verse. In addition to his work on Emily Dickinson, he is the author of studies of Melville and other 19th Century American writers.

His visit is sponsored by the University Research Council and the English department.

The other lecturer, Dr. Howard Cline, will give two lectures Friday: "Cultural Relations of the U.S. and Latin America," 10 a.m., Room 206, Burnett Hall; and "Research Resources of the Library of Congress in Specialized Areas," 3 p.m., Room B-16, Burnett Hall. NUCWA Mock Legislature:

Candidates For Governor State Views

By ART BLACKMAN

The five candidates for Governor of the Mock Legislative Session sponsored by NUCWA, have expressed their platforms to the Daily Nebraskan. The elections for the officers of the session will be held Tuesday in the Union from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

John Nelson

John Nelson, Innocents, president of Corn Cobs, Secretary of Kosmet Klub, CCRC, and a senior in Arts and Sciences, stated, "I believe in a conservative, republican form of state government with no federal intervention in those areas reserved for the state. If elected, I would promote economy and efficiency at all levels."

Nelson stated that he was in favor of "Maintenance of taxes at the status quo for the next biennium; a Highway Department budget which, in addition to our state highway program, will provide for the matching of federal funds for the interstate highway programs."

A $4,750,000 University budget increase, with the reduction in the estimate coming from agricultural activities, the University Hospital at Omaha, and operating costs; immediate construction of a self-park student parking garage; a voluntary system of constructive student criticism aimed at making instructors aware of weaknesses an ineffective presentation of material.

Retention of two-week examination periods only if there is intent to maintain the present 3-hour final. Nelson is not in favor of any raise in tuition at the University, Friday morning.

unless it is voluntary on the part of the students, and any action of this sort should remain in the hands of the Regents; transferring the Union building fund to salary increases thereby wrecking a long term project in favor of a temporary, insufficient remedy for low salaries.

Increasing our present number of state senators, and lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 years of age are other of Nelson's views. "I have always held this view that eighteen-year-olds are physically and mentally capable of carrying arms, but they are rarely ready to vote intelligently," Nelson stated.

Miss Larsen added that these taxes would enable the state to pay higher teachers' salaries, to have better roads and highways and a more adaptable education.

All students interested in a showing in the Dairy Royal Showmanship contest can sign up in the Dairy Industry Building, Room 208, between 8 a.m. Monday and 1 p.m. Wednesday, according to Terry Howard, varsity dairy club member.

"Students who sign up first will have first choice of the breed of cattle they wish to show," Howard said. Drawing lists will be posted Friday morning.

He is against any raise in tuition because this might keep many people who want a college education out of the University because of financial difficulties. He is also against a garage being built. This would cost the University quite a bit of money right now when there are more pressing needs.

Sara Alexander

Sara Alexander, Home Ec Club, YWCA cabinet, member of Pi Beta Phi and a junior in Agriculture, is in favor of a full adoption of the University budget which is before the legislature because of the many things that the University needs that can only be obtained by such an increase.

She also favors the proposal that 18-year-olds be allowed to vote and a garage to relieve the parking problem on the campus.

Miss Alexander expressed herself as being against any increases in taxes throughout the State and the proposed State income and sales taxes.

Janice Larson

Dave Mossman, AUF Board, Student Council, Kosmet Klub, member of Phi Delta Theta and a junior in Teacher's College stated that he was in favor of the entire University budget increase being passed by the Unicameral.

Mossman also endorsed voting at eighteen years of age provided there was adequate instruction given to the voters before they could vote. This could be done through the high schools by setting up courses on current events and basic governmental policy. The University could also set up similar courses for freshmen.

Mossman is also in favor of changing the activity setup at the University so that the functions of many of the activities would not overlap each other as many of them do now. He added that a good way for this to be done would be through the Student Council. He said that both the function and processes of many activities were coinciding.

Seventh Year:

Farm House Cops Scholastic Honors

Farm House for the seventh consecutive year has topped the men's organized houses for last semester with a 6.244, as announced by Frank Hallgren, Associate Dean for Men.

Only one other men's house, Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity, with a 6.011 average, scored over the 6.000 mark.

Ag Men's Club led the men's co-op houses with a 5.864 while

Gustavson House I with a 5.503

led the Men's Dorm.

The all-fraternity average this semester edged the all male average, 5.247 to 5.223. This was a change from second semester last year when the all male average was slightly higher than the all fraternity average, 5.418 to 5.400.

The women's organized house averages have not been correctly listed and will appear in Monday's paper, according to the Student Affairs office.
