Cadets Woolley, Keenan, Dawson; by Colonel Chester J. Diestel, professor of military science and tactics.

Army:

ROTC Rifle Team Wins First Match

The Army ROTC rifle team won the first annual University of Nebraska rifle championship match which was held last week.

The Army team posted an 1857 score to better the Navy team which posted 1852. The AFROTC team was third with a 1812 score.

John Landers of the Navy led the match with a 380. Ron Dawson was high man for the winners with a 378. Dawson recently received national recognition when he fired a 392 in a Big 7 match. His score in that match was one point under the National Intercollegiate record.

The scores of the Army team were Conley Cleveland's 372, Roy Keenan's 371, Dick Woolley's 369 and Dave Mossman's 367.

The winning Army team will receive a traveling type plaque, which will be awarded by Colonel Chester J. Diestel, professor of military science and tactics.

Carnival Of Entertainment:

All University Stag Scheduled Tonight

It's "Stag time" at 7 p.m. tonight when the Union holds its first All University Stag party.

A carnival of entertainment, including wrestling, judo, magic acts, pistol shooting, smorgasbord and free door prizes will be on tap.

Prizes—which will be awarded by Husker football coach Bill Jennings—include a Michael Stern suit valued at $67.50; Roblee shoes, valued at $15.95; a Van Heusen shirt valued at $5, a Wimbley tie valued at $1, and two belts, valued at $2.50 each. Other prizes include four McGregor sports items: Baby Ivy slacks valued at $7.95, a bay Cardigan jacket valued at $7.95, a pair of bay Bermuda shorts valued at $5.95 and a bay knot T-shirt valued at $4.

Tickets for the entire program and smorgasbord cost 75 cents each and can be purchased at the Union or at the door Wednesday evening before the show starts.

An added attraction nine attractive coeds have been selected to help serve at the smorgasbord. Girls who will help serve are Mary McKnight, Kay Nielson, Ellen Stokes, Joan Riha, Sally Wengert, Jackie Miller, Sharlene Anthony, Jody Carlson, and Ann Wade.

The program will be MC'd by Lincolnite Bill Morton, better known as "Morton the Great." Morton worked his way through the University with his magic act. For 22 years Morton has been performing magic throughout the nation. The Lincoln showman claims doing over 10,000 shows during his career.

All tickets and money for the Stag, must be turned into the Union Activities Office before 5 p.m., according to Jon Bicha, ticket sales chairman. House representatives who have not returned their tickets by that time will be charged for the number of tickets issued them, Bicha said.

The Ag YM-YWCA are under taking a service project Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Malone Community Center.

Everyone is invited to help with the painting for either the complete day or a portion of it. Cars will leave the student house at 34th and Holdrege at 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. for those who wish to participate.

Blizzard Stalls NU Group:

YW, YM Members Spend 32 Hours On The Road

By BARB SHARP
Special Staff Writer
YW and YM members could very well write a sequel to John Greenleaf Whittier's classic "Snowbound."

After attending a Y conference at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, the Y members were completely "snowed" on the return trip home.

The three cars carrying the Y members home were marooned at various places—all of them small—and all of them within 30 miles of the Capitol City with no way to get home.

Approximately 22 students left the NU campus Friday for Lawrence to participate in KU's Y Week-end.

The conference started with preliminary meetings Friday night. Saturday evening, the students

Miss Cornhusker!!:

Coeds To Compete For Beauty Queen

For the first time, the University will submit a representative in the Miss Nebraska contest for the Miss United States title, according to Sam Jensen, member of the Innocents Society.

The Innocents will select "Miss Cornhusker" from 12 finalists. Any University coed may enter this contest. Application forms may be obtained in the Union Activities Office.

Brief interviews will be held by the Innocents on April 2 from 8:00 to 10:30 a.m. in the Union. Applicants will be contacted for the time of their interviews.

"Miss Cornhusker" will be chosen on the basis of beauty, poise and personality. Shari Lewis, the winner of the Miss Nebraska contest last year, will crown the winner.

Union: Style Show To Feature Nine Queens

Nine of the twelve beauty queen finalists and Nebraska Sweetheart will model for the Union Spring Style and Talent Show. This event will occur March 31 in the Union Ballroom at 8:00.

The models are: Charlene Anthony, Jody Carlson, Mary Jane Coe, Elaine Eggen, Mary Heppeler, Reba Kinne, Carolyn Torrence, Francis Van Houten, Sharon Quinn and Charlene Ferguson.

Fashions include sportswear, bathing suits, formal attire and casuals, all pointing towards spring's newest design.

Nebraska Supreme Court:

Moot Court Competition Moves Into Final Rounds

The final round in the University Allen Moot Court competition will be held before Nebraska Supreme Court justices Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The contestants are: Dominico Caporale and Willard

Lorenson versus Marshall Becker and Norman Krivosha.

Hearing the arguments in the Supreme Court Hearing Room at the Capitol will be Justices Paul Boslaugh, Fred Messmore, and Adolph Wenke.

The public is invited to attend the session.

The case will involve the questions of whether a city may prefer local businessmen in awarding contracts even though an out-of-town bidder makes a lower bid and whether councilmen should reimburse a city for money paid out by them on an illegal contract.

Also beginning Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the Law College's Moot Court room will be the quarter-finals of the competition. Those sophomores competing are:

Wednesday—William Dill and Robert Hill, versus Joseph Baldwin and Francis Barrett.

Friday—Philip Sorensen, Thompson Snyder, and Richard Valentine versus Dwain Jones and David Keene.

The two winning teams will compete next spring in the finals.

Winning freshman teams in the first round of the Moot Court which was held last week, were:

Harlan Hubka and Wincel Nelson; James Duggan and Charles Kokes; Charles Beal and Richard Fellman; Tony Winey and James Winter; Thomas David and Dick Hartsock; Gretchen Christopher Arlyss Welch and Rose Green; Edward Heitman and John Mingus; Lawrence Sandberg and Butler Shaffer; Dr. William Swindler and Gwendell Hobensee; Alvin Rose, Fieftinger and William Anderson; and Edward Vacovsky, Frederick Wanek and Richard Whitman.

'Reprints' Explained

Due to the limited circulation of The Daily Nebraskan Monday because of the blizzard, several stories were reprinted in Tuesday's edition, accounting for the unusually large number of stories run both days, according to Fred Daly, editor.

Cancer: Cromwell Wins Honor For Study

A University professor of chemistry has received additional recognition for his pioneering research activities along the lines of anti-cancer drugs.

Dr. Norman Cromwell, has been selected to be chairman and discussion leader of the opening session of an international conference on anti-cancer drugs, scheduled in New York City Thursday through Saturday.

Attending the conference will be internationally recognized basic scientists and physicians engaged in cancer research. Among the speakers will be Alexander Hadow, director of Chester Beatty Research Institute, Royal Cancer Hospital, London, and C. P. Rhoads, director of Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, regarded as the two top authorities in their field.

The conference is being jointly sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences and Cancer Chemotherapy National Service Center of Washington, D. C.

It is hoped that a review of the anti-cancer drugs will aid the attending scientists in evaluating the real effectiveness of the drugs now being used and help suggest steps to be taken to improve their effectiveness in the treatment of cancer.

Dr. Cromwell, who has done considerable research in the field of cancer chemotherapy, said that none of these anti-cancer drugs, called alkylating agents, have yet proven to be a cure for cancer. But, he said, several have been found which show a temporary effect on some forms of the disease in man.

Schramm:

Geologists To Honor NU Professor Emeritus

E. Schramm, professor emeritus of the University department of geology, will be honored in St. Louis next Tuesday for "distinguished service to petroleum geology."

Associated with the University for nearly 50 years, Professor Schramm will receive an honorary membership in the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Having a membership of 12,500, the association has honored only 22 other geologists with an honorary membership.

Professor Schramm, a native of DeWitt, joined the University in 1908, and became professor and head of the geology department in 1936, serving until 1953.

He obtained his bachelor degree from Oklahoma University and his master's from the University. Mr. Schramm also took two additional years of work in the University's Law College, specializing in mining law.

The Nebraska educator has served for many years with geological surveys and consulting geologists for various independent companies and organizations.

Many of his high students trained at the University of Nebraska have reached high executive positions with American oil companies.

Living in Lincoln, he is serving as curator of mineral and rocks for the University's State Museum and is consulting geologist for oil and mining companies.

Faculty Members Attend Workshop

Two University of Nebraska home economics faculty members took part in a meeting of the Education for Family Finance Workshop Alumni in Kansas City, Kan., last week.

Hazel Anthony, assistant professor of vocational education, and Dorothy Larery, assistant professor of home economics, both have participated in summer workshops in Family Finance Education sponsored by the University of Denver and the Institute of Life Insurance.

Teaching materials and procedures were discussed at the meeting.
