humor magazine, as it did in days of yore? The time spent trying to figure out double meanings for the jokes would keep students off the streets. And you know what happens when you get a bunch of

by Dick Bibler

students in the streets.

Daily Nebraskan Editorials:

Student Votes

The motion to allow student members of faculty committees the right to vote has been stalled off again by the Faculty Senate. The motion originally presented April 9 was not taken off the table, and a new motion presented by the Dean of Student Affairs was held from being discussed or voted on until the next meeting.

Frankly, we are getting tired of waiting.

Time and again the Daily Nebraskan has presented reasons why students should be allowed to regain their committee voting privileges. This vote gives the student the opportunity to express his views in a concrete manner, rather than giving a mere opinion that has no actual backbone to it.

Allowing students to vote on these committees-committees dealing directly with student affairs and student interests-gives decisions of the groups the weight of opinion from both faculty and students. It is vital to the interests of the faculty, the students and the University as a whole that decisions reached in these committees come through the honest exchange of views from both sides. Without the vote the student's side is not fairly represented.

The action by the Faculty Senate did not kill the motion to allow voting; it only postponed it. But with that postponement student representation will be held back still longer until that time the Senate will finally get the motion off the

The student vote has been absent for an entire semester now. Such committees as the Board of Student Publications and the final exam committee have been operating in very important areas of student affairs without the benefit of the votes of their student members. Aside from tribute opinions, student members of these committees have been wasting their time.

As the matter stands, the future of student voting has been postponed indefinitely. The Senate has taken no stand, and apparently is not ready to commit itself in any way. As the University prepares to retire to its summer session, important matters of the regular school year will be buried and forgotten.

Students now cannot be assured their vote will be returned them, much less even considered. Unless the Senate takes up the issue again in their special final week meeting, the motion will have to ride over the summer, and hope that it will be revived again next fall.

Meanwhile, tempers will change, personnel turnovers will go into effect and those most interested in the matter might pass out of the

The student committee vote has reached its second stalemate of the semester. Whether it will endure this setback is only speculation.

It would be a severe blow to faculty-student relations if this should be the case. It is up to the Senate to take action, before it is too late.

Report!

Don't Go West

fessors is $9,400.

present conditions."

prepared a report on the case of C. Clyde Mitchell, former chairman of the Department of Agricultural Economics who was relieved of the chairmanship of that department last year.

But the committee is bound that the student press won't have a chance to review the report this semester. It might even be hoped that by the time the report will be available for the student press the whole question will have "blown over."

This practice is to be condemned.

And particularly the Daily Nebraskan feels that the committee is slighting the student body.

When an issue as vital as the Mitchell case comes up, an issue which would challenge the integrity of the University, the student body has a right to know it as soon as possible and to comment freely on it.

We agree that a discussion of the report should be held by the Faculty Senate so that the teachers can know and perhaps voice opinions on the case and the investigation which has ensued.

been done since it is apparent that the report bewail any less.

While the University is seeking higher salaries

from the legislature for the faculty and administration they might well reflect on the situation

If the competition in the teaching field is so great as the statistics seem to indicate then this competition must be from the private schools who-because of large endowments-are able to offer good salaries commensurate with the education a teacher must have in this day

Colorado University is having the same prob-

Iem the University of Nebraska is faced with.

A few months ago the Colorado Daily bemoaned

the fact that the state legislature there had raised the tuition again and claimed that the government didn't appreciate the value of edu-

Now the Colorado paper has just come out with new signs of the times: a dean has resigned to accept a post "to do research in nuclear propulsion at the Los Alamos Sicentific

What was interesting to note in the story the Daily ran was the list of faculty salary increases

as it exists around the Big Seven,

The Committee on Privilege and Tenure has has been ready for some time. If the measure is of such import that there can be called a special Senate meeting on the matter when exams are well in progress and when the student press can't discuss the case we see no reason why the specialy meeting could not have been called before school is, for all practical purposes, "out."

> We look, of course, to the Senate and the Mitchell committee for a fair review of the case. But we believe that the students-as those most vitally interested in the future of the institution and as the greatest supporters of the institution-have a true right to know what is

> The Daily Nebraskan has always believed that a student-or a professor-has a right to face those who would make or discuss charges pertinent, to them. We believe that since this Mitchell case was brought to the public eye by the student paper that the student paper should be given as fair an opportunity as the local and state dailies to study the report and comment on it.

All the Daily Nebraskan asks is a fair deal But we see no reason why this could not have for its readers. We can expect no more; we

Tuesday the Daily Nebraskan commented that the proposed median for nine-month professors

is $8,100 and the figure for year-round pro-

The highest paid professors at Colorado-if the increase in salaries out there goes through-will be earning $9,356. So we can see that the University is just meeting the proposed median

But the ranking department chairman at the Colorado University had this to say when he submitted his resignation: I do not believe that a superior faculty can be held or attracted under

Truly a sobering thought for anyone in a po-

It is the hope of the Daily Nebraskan that the salary increases proposed for the faculty members on this campus will be obtained. We cannot hope to compete with the staggering salaries paid by some industries to top men in particular fields. But we can hope to keep those staff members who recognize a duty to the younger generation by giving them a decent wage.

sition to do some good financially for the Uni-

salary of a sister school in the Big Seven.

DENGIS ENLEGATE

in the antics of the pups are brilliant supplements to the actions of

Is this much ado about nothing?

I think not. The man who invented

the comic strip was a sheer gen-

And by the way, why doesn't

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

the iconoclast ...

-steve schultz

Week by week I lose faith in this "cultural desert" thing, and I'm pretty happy about it. The blow to my pessimism this week came Sunday night when I heard "Manfred", clipped British accents and all. Anytime you can get that many kids together to sing that well, the oasis is growing so large that it theatens to engulf the aridity. So congratulations to Foltz and his erowd.

One of the incidental pleasures of the evening was seeing that many NU coeds radiating that much class. Very lovely, tho' my appreciation had little or nothing to do with aesthetics.

The time has come, the walrus said, to pull my foot out of my mouth. Last week I made some remarks about a free movie I saw at the Union some weeks ago. Unfortunately, I had my problems with my prose, and the result looked like a slam, Really, fellows, I dion't mean it that way at all. In fact, only God and I knew what it was about. Now only God knows.

As an apology and an appreciation, I'll credit the Film Society with a fine series, Bro. Spence and I trudged downtown every Wednesday night for a bout with the arts, and almost every time we were well pleased with the results. Particularly did we enjoy The Sheep Has Five Legs. Again, the enjoyment was not entirely aesthetic. They tell me there was something in one sequence about a fly, but I was distracted.

I am in one of my rare and treasured amiable moods. My next praise is for Harry Belafonte, who needs my tribute like he needs another bank account. Belafonte has restored to prominence a worthy American contribution to world (dammit, here's that word again) culture, the folk song. I thought this sort of thing was dead when Burl Ives started appearing in Tenressee Williams's dramatizations of barber shop stories.

But no, here's Harry bringing back songs like "Mark Twain" which prove that American controbutions are not limited to the comic strip and the wide-screen musical

This is not without its unfortunate facets. We now have this rash of calypso songs with their attempts to see how little words can sound alike and still sort of rhyme. Now understand that I have nothing against calypso per se. I worked. with a bunch of Jamaiicans once who had a wonderful time with this sort of thing. But there are very few Jamaiicans in Tin Pan Alley, and that is where most of the program service calypso got its start. It's depressing, at least, to listen to this self-consciously primitive guff.

I mentioned the comic strip in passing. I mentioned it rather disparagingly. But on second thought, wondrous works can be done with a four panel daily strip. I do not refer to "Mary Worth" or "Rex Morgan, M. D." Those who want to read that sort of thing should confine themselves to True Confessions or The American Medical Journal.

But the comic strip as an art form is secure from all prostitutions like those two. If you look overhead, you'll see a perfect example of what a comic strip should be: a means of humorous communication in which the pictures are of vital importance. Peanuts without the pictures would be ridiculous; with pictures, it is a jewel of rare price. The same is true of Pogo (who will be elected some day). And of Blondie, where-

College can only be restricted to those who are unable to cope with the curricula they choose to

I feel that the greatest fault with proposing that college might be restricted on the grounds that a student can't pass a certain entrance exam is that the high schools don't prepare everyone to

In other words, the reason many fail to make a success of college is that everyone cannot get the proper preparation and this is the fault of the high schools and even the grammar schools and hardly

Of course a University such as the one we have here in Lincoln can't be a tutoring institution. And of course the state can't afford to pay the highest salaries to those who would like to teach in high

So where does the answer to the question lie? Well, if the legislature can come up with a sound

solution I will accept it with joy.

legislative committee which will study the situation will decide that the state just can't afford to educate everyone and so college doors

will slam in the faces of many

This would be a shame. Perhaps if the resolution the senators are faced with at the present time

composing such a study committee is passed we will have a decent investigation into this major

But before the legislative committee begins any work I feel that the people of Nebraska are entitled to know on what grounds they are working. Do they feel that everyone is entitled to a fair trial in college? Do they feel that the importance of higher education is great enough in our world to

It would be interesting to see

Concerned

how these questions will be an-

demand proper facilities?

sincere young people.

More than likely, however, the face college squarely.

the students themselves.

ORDINARILY 120

'YES I'M GOING TO PASS YOU BECAUSE I'M TIRED OF HAVING

TO MAKE UP NEW TESTS FOR THIS COURSE EVERY, YEAR!"

LANGUAGE MADE SIMPLE: No. 2

Exams loom closer and closer. The sands run out; the chips are down. This, you will agree, is no time for levity.

Accordingly, I have asked the makers of Philip Morris whether I might not dispense with jesting in today's column and instead devote it to a cram course in languages.

Their consent was cheerfully given, for they are fine, great-hearted men, the makers of Philip Morris, just as full of natural goodness as the cigarettes they turn out, just as friendly, just as jolly, just as regular, just as unfiltered, just as agreeable. "Why, bless you, child!" cried the makers. "Of course!" Then they rumpled my chestnut curls and somebody cried "Not it!" and before you could say flip-top box, a game of Squat Tag was on, and we played 'til the moon was over the yardarm, and then, pink and tousled, we all went inside and had flagons of temperance punch and Philip Morris cigarettes and fell into our trundle beds and slept the clock around!

But I digress. Today let us turn our attention to the study of languages.

Do you realize how important languages are? I must confess that, until recently, I did not. "What good will Spanish ever do me?" I kept asking.

Well sir, I found out. Recently I took a trip to Latin America, and every day I thanked my lucky stars for having learned Spanish in college. While my fellow tourists stumbled and bumbled, I was perfectly at home.

Masta la Vista, Senorita

I recall our first stop in Mexico City. I stepped from the airplane, walked over to the nearest colorful native, and said, "Hasta la vista, senorita. (Good morning, sir.) ¿Pero las lastimas y calimadades se agravaban mas y mas cada dia?" (Has thy footman finished sweeping out thy chamber?)

"No, sir," he replied in Spanish. "He is an idle rogue." "How is thy footman called?" I asked.

"He is called Diego," replied my friend, "and the little daughter of his fat sister is called Juanita. She has two small books, one gray cat, three black dogs, 24 red chickens, one fat pig, eight pewter mugs, and a partridge in a pear tree.

"Wilt thou have a Philip Morris cigarette?" I asked. "Gracious," he said thankfully.

We lit Philip Morrises and smoked contentedly the better part of the day.

"Perhaps by now my footman shall have finished sweening my chamber," he said. "Wilt thou not come to my house?'

Arm in arm we walked to his house, but, alas, his

"Gracious." I said.

footman had not yet swept out his chamber. So we each took a barrel stave and beat the impudent scamp until it was time for my airplane to take off.

Aloha, Mexico, brooding land of enchantment!

@ Max Shulman, 1977

Farmell, Mexico . . . Hello, U.S.A., land of the long size and regular, the flip-top box, the fresh, natural, zestful smoke-Philip Morris, of corris! - whose makers bring you this column throughout the school year.

Nebraskan Letterips

study.

schools.

problem.

swered.

To the Editor

The recent R.A.M. elections show, in my opinion, an increase in the political maturity of the Quadrangle. The existence of an organized and directed effort to provide concrete issues in the election is heartening.

An election based upon personalities might be necessary when there is fundamental agreement upon all issues, but such is not the case in this residence hall.

We are at the present undergoing a period of evolution from relative political impotence and social misplacement to a position of influence and social standing which the Quadrangle should have since it represents the number of men that it does. It not only represents 900 men, but in a real sense, it speaks for other independent groups with whom it shares the same problems.

Evolution is not in fact the product of a single group or man, Rather it is a result, nine times out of ten, of accumulated forces at work. The existence of a governing body and-or leader who recognizes this movement and seeks to guide it to its logical end is of utmost importance if the full potentialities of this evolution are to be realized.

The recent R.A.M. elections would seem to indicate that such guidance is being provided. However, it appears to me that unless continuity keeps the effervesces Party alive and unless a strong opposition party is organized there is a danger of the Quadrangle politics not providing the guidance necessary to bring the Quadrangle (and thus indirectly the independents on campus) to full flower.

Rex. W. Menuey

To the Editor: It should be apparent to those senators who will look into the questions posed by the ir reasing college enrollments that each and every young person in a society such as ours deserves a fine college education.

Hey Gang . . . THE POOL'S OPEN Come out after classes to relax and get that sun tan started . . Pool Open At Noon ★ RIDES — GAMES — AMUSEMENTS ★ BRING a picnic and enjoy The lovely picnic grounds . . . Park Open 7 P.M. Week Days, 2 P.M. Sundays & Holidays Catch the Beach Bus at 10th and "O" Streets

From The Editor's Desk: A word or two before you go.

By FRED DALY After a two-year absence,

Laboratories in New Mexico."

cation for all.

the IFC Ball is returning to the campus. The festivities will be held Saturday at the Turnpike.

The Ball was given back to the fraternities by the Office of Student Affairs under the assumption that the houses would enforce University rules prohibiting drinking at functions involving University groups, Fraternity presidents signed a pledge earlier this semester that calls for them to enforce these rules, and to see that the members of their respective houses abide by the law. How much has been forgotten since the pledge was annual dance?

This is no assumption that fraternities are planning to break the rules-it is only a warning. The IFC and the Office of Student Affairs acted together in good faith in allowing the IFC Ball to be put on. With the Ball only a few days away it is time for signed, and the IFC agreed to keep drinking away from their

Since then, many houses have elected new officers, perhaps some that are not fully aware of the seriousness of the no-drinking rule, and who do not remember that the Ball was banned after the 1955 affair when there was little or no control over drinking.

fraternity men to remember the vows they made a few months ago about adhering to regulations

If the fraternity system sincerely wants the IFC Ball back as a permanent institution, and it is logical to assume that it does, then fraternity men must show they are willing and able to assume the responsibility to back the University rules. Inter fratres!

The happiest person in the world: A graduating senior watching underclassmen struggling over schedule books for next fall.

It is the little things that make life worth living, after

The Daily Nebraskan

FIFTY-FIVE YEARS OLD Member: Associated Collegiate Press Intercollegiate Press Representative: National Advertising Service. Incorporated Published at: Room 20, Student Union Lincoln, Nebraska

14th & R airy Nebraskan as published Stonday. Tuesday, as and Friday during the school year, except aentions and exam periods, and one issue is during august, by students or the University sike, under the authorization of the Committee at Arfairs as an expression of student opinion, one under the jurisdiction of the Subcommittee at Fuhications shall be free from editorial p on the part of the Subcommittee of the function of the function of the committee of the first part of the Subcommittee of the following the part of the Subcommittee or on the lay member of the faculty of the University, or any organ outside the University. The of the Nebraskan clary are personally reforming 8, 1955. ions confler at the post office for the act of August 4, 1912.

| EDITORIAL STAFF |
|---|
| Editor Fred Daty |
| Manualing Editor |
| Editorial Page Editor |
| News Editors |
| Sports Editor Bob Martel |
| Copy Editors Art Blackman, Carole Frank George Moyer, Ron Warholoski |
| Night News Editor |
| Ag Editor Waiter Patterson Staff Photographer Date Lewis Office Secretary Julie Dowell Society Editor can Farrell |
| Heporters Diona Maxwell, Mary Patterson, Emmie Limpo, Ketth Smith, Bob Grimmit, Sam Hall, Jack Cartin, Mike Lough, Larry Ketilson |
| Staff Writers Cynthia Zschau, Bob Wirz, Gary Rodgers, Sian Widman |
| RITEINTER STAFF |

Business Manager Larry Easistant Business Managers. Tom Neff, derry S. Jack