

Chancellor Stresses Chance For Learning

Less than five hundred students turned out to hear the annual Chancellor's address to the University Thursday, according to estimates by the Department of Public Relations.

The sparse crowd heard the Chancellor declare that the University's support of "a quality teaching program assures its students of the best possible learning opportunity."

"I have no hesitancy in reporting to you without any qualification whatsoever that this University is providing you with an excellent learning opportunity," he said.

"What use you make of this opportunity is, of course, up to you, and I am sure that you have great interest in using it or you would not be here," he said.

The opportunity for higher education is especially valuable now, he said, because the nation's need for young people with university experience is steadily increasing.

Business and industry, the Chancellor said, are keenly aware that the nation faces a shortage of trained young people and that the shortage will continue for several years to come.

"Between now and 1965," he said "our U.S. population of the working age, 18 through 65, will increase only nine per cent. Meanwhile, the proportion under age 18 will increase 20 per cent and the proportion over age 65 will increase 18 per cent."

These statistics make clear, he said, that the nation must rely heavily on the services of young people and that those services must be more efficient than in the past if the national standard of living is to continue its advance.

"At no time in its history has the University been able to offer a better opportunity for the student interested in higher education," Chancellor Hardin said, "and at no time has the future depended more heavily on how thoroughly a generation of young people avail themselves of their opportunity."

Members must have a 5.5 cumulative average, according to Ann Pickett, president.

Teachers College Board Meeting Held

The Teachers College advisory board under the direction of Dean Henzik held its first meeting Monday at University High. The advisory board, which meets every Monday noon, is composed of a representative from each department in the Teachers College.

Among the topics under discussion was the compiling and distribution of Teachers College information booklets to be sent to high school students throughout the state. Similar bulletins were sent to Regent Scholarship winners and alternates, last year.

AU Money Buys Cheap Good Will

The financial aid sent by the United States for the construction of Ataturk University in Turkey, Dr. A. C. Breckenridge commented at the first Nebraska Council of World Affairs meeting, is an inexpensive method of improving international relations in comparison to the present cost of military equipment.

Dr. Breckenridge, who recently spent ten days touring in Turkey, reported at the Tuesday night meeting that the University's sister institution plans to open next fall, provided adequate facilities and a teaching staff are available at that time.

Preceding a short discussion on the present situation in Algeria, President Biff Keyes presented the NUCWA program for the year and introduced the officers and committee chairmen. Members chose the committees on which they would like to serve.

The next mass meeting will be held Tuesday evening, October 8. A meeting for all members of the NUCWA board will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 1.

Open House

The University Theater open house will be held tonight in Howell Theatre beginning at 7 p.m.

Highlight of the evening will be various skits similar to types of entertainment presented from the stage.

Also included in the evening program is a tour of Howell Memorial Theater, one of the most modern theater plants in the Mid-west.

Charles "Skip" Weatherford will act as master of ceremonies and Dave Meisenholder will provide background music at the organ.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

Ag Alfalfa Day Speakers Named

University faculty members who will speak at the Alfalfa Research Day, Oct. 8 on the Ag College campus have been announced.

The event will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the College Activities building. A luncheon will be held at noon and a field trip to the Agronomy Farm in the afternoon.

W. R. Kehr, U.S. Department of Agriculture agronomist at the University will preside over the morning session and will present a talk. He and W. L. Howe, USDA entomologist, will report on spotted alfalfa aphid research.

Other University faculty members who will speak include: John Matsushima, associate professor of animal husbandry; R. L. Ogen, assistant biochemical engineer; R. E. Green, assistant in agronomy; E. M. Brouse, assistant agronomist; D. G. Hanway, chairman of the Agronomy Department; and Dr. E. F. Frolik, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, who will preside over the luncheon.

NU Students Given Discount For Show

A fifty cent discount on tickets to the Black Watch, royal Highland regiment, will be given to all University students, who present their student identification cards.

The Black Watch, consisting of the regimental band, massed pipers, and highland dancers, will be presented at the Pershing Municipal Auditorium, Monday, October 21, at 8:15 p.m.

Regular prices for the performance are $3, $2.50, $2 and $1.50. All seats are reserved.

Slim Waists

The Zeta Xi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, Raymondville, Texas figured to pad its treasury by making each member forfeit one penny for every inch of waistline.

Both the members and the pickings were pretty slim. At most they forfeited 30 cents. The minimum was 23 cents.

Asian Flu Situation Explained

Student Health authorities held an orientation session Tuesday evening for student house representatives to give them, in the words of Dr. S. I. Fuenning, "an appreciation of the situation if and when an influenza epidemic strikes here."

At this meeting the representatives were told what the student health department would do and what they, as representatives of student houses, would be expected to do.

The status of influenza was reviewed, how the disease developed and its present situation in the U. S.

Dr. Fuenning said that we "definitely can expect a fairly wide spread outbreak over the country either this fall, winter, or in the spring.

The plan for combating the disease was a major part of the discussion.

The primary object will be to combat influenza epidemics in the individual housing units.

Records of temperatures will be kept by members in the houses and nurses will visit the houses regularly.

At present, Dr. Fuenning said, the supply of influenza vaccine is limited and that it will be distributed in order of priority.

Council Sends Request For Rally, Vote Action

The Student Council will send letters to the Corn Cobs and the Dean of Student Affairs requesting action in two matters involving student interest, according to Helen Gourlay, president.

The Council voted unanimously to request the Dean of Student Affairs in writing to take necessary steps to obtain the vote for student members of faculty committees.

Robert Knoll, council advisor, explained that the vote had been given to student members "about five years ago" on a trial basis. The trial time ran out, he said, and the vote was never officially given the students.

"Since then the Faculty Senate has tied itself in parliamentary knots trying to get the vote back to the students" Knoll stated.

Students have been unable to vote on the committees since the Jan. 18, 1957, meeting of the Board of Publications.

Committees involved include the sub-committee on student organizations, student publications, social affairs, and the committees on calendar, honors convocation, final exams and commencement.

The Council also unanimously passed a motion to send a letter to the Corn Cobs concerning the actions at the pep rally Friday night.

The text of the letter is as follows:

"The Student Council deprecates violent actions of some of the members of the student body at last Friday's pep rally.

"We request and encourage the Corn Cobs to take immediate steps to forestall any further recurrence of such actions".

Dave Keene, senior hold-over member, pointed out that according to Article II, section D, of the Student Council constitution, control of pep rallies and pep demonstrations lies with the Council.

The Council delegated that authority to the Corn Cobs several years ago, Keene said.

In further action, Gary Frenzel, Engineering College representative, suggested that the Council check the possibility that the Engineering College be allowed one more Council member because of increased enrollment. The Chair directed the Elections Committee to handle this matter.

Keene reported that the Campus Police Department appreciated the help of the Student Council with registration of cars during New Student Week.

Kinnier explained the procedure for filing for positions on the Board of Publications.

John Kimmier, senior holdover member, reported that 88 per cent of the students who attended the Council Orientation Session last Thursday thought that the session was of value and 90 per cent thought the session ought to be held annually.

Members were selected for Student Council standing committees at the meeting held Wednesday, according to Helen Gourlay, president.

The committees and their new members are:

Pub Board Positions Available

Applications for student representative on the Faculty sub-committee on Student Publications may be obtained in Room 305 of the Union from Saturday to Wednesday, according to John Kinnier, Student Council vice-president.

Applications should be turned in to the same room before Wednesday and students should sign up for an interview at the time the blanks are turned in, he said.

Interviews by the Student Council Nomination Committee will be Oct. 5, according to Kinnier.

Upperclass students are eligible who have a 5.7 or better cumulative average and who are not paid staff members, columnists or section heads of the Cornhusker or the Daily Nebraskan.

The nomination committee will consider those applicants who have an interest in publications, the ability to express ideas, the ability to work with faculty members and a knowledge of the managerial aspects of publications, Kinnier explained.

The nominations committee will nominate two students from each class. Those nominated must appear before the entire student Council for the final interview, Kinnier said. Nominations from the floor of the Council will be taken from those students who have applied, he added.

The Board of Publications has jurisdiction over all student publications, Kinnier explained.

NU Scholarship Winners Named

Winners of 36 top donor scholarships for University undergraduate students have been announced by Dean Marjorie Johnston, chairman of the general scholarship committee.

Marvin D. Keller and Don Epp were among the top freshman students receiving General Motors scholarships. The four-year scholarships range in value from $200 to $1,300 per year.

Keller and Epp previously were awarded Regents scholarships. Their GM awards were based on high scholastic achievement and leadership qualities.

The top donor scholarships awarded this year range in value from $200 to $1,050. The general scholarship committee also awarded 162 donor scholarships and 748 regents scholarships and education grants of lesser amounts.

Ronald R. Smith, a senior in the College of Engineering and Architecture, received a $750 Good-year Foundation scholarship. It was awarded on the basis of academic standing, character and leadership qualities.

Winners of scholarships valued at $500 or more:

Raymond Balfour, junior, General Motors.
James Bors, senior, Continental Oils.
Darlene Ernst, sophomore, General Motors.

Harold E. Hoff, sophomore, General Motors.

Rhodes Grants Forms Ready For Applicants

Students interested in studying abroad who possess some definite quality of distinction, intellect or character may apply for the Rhodes Scholarships.

Winners will enter Oxford University in Oct. 1958.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a candidate must:

1. Be a male citizen of the United States, with a least five years residence.
2. Be between the ages of 19 and 25 on Oct. 1958, or have had at least 90 days of active service in the Armed Forces since June 27, 1950.
3. Have at least junior standing at some recognized degree-granting college or university in the United States.
4. Received official endorsement of his college or university.

Each scholarship is worth $1,680 per year. Recipients of the scholarship are entitled to its benefits for two years with a possible third year if scholar's record and course of study warrant such an award.

Candidates may apply in either their home state or in the state where they received their college education. Applications must be received by the secretary of the state committee not later than Nov. 1, 1957.

Application blanks may be obtained from Dean Wright, 204 Burnett, before Oct. 4.

Overcast Skies, And Light Winds Forecast For Area

The weatherman forecasts partly cloudy skies for Lincoln and surrounding area today, with gentle to light northeasterly winds. The predicted high for today is the reading of near 70.

Frost hit the state last night as the temperatures dipped to between 35 and 40 in northeastern Nebraska.

A cold front has been moving into the state, into the northeastern area Tuesday and beginning to cool the temperatures over the state late Wednesday.

A few showers are expected in the southwest today, as the cold front moves in and begins to turn the skies cloudy.

SC Approves More Space For Parking

An appeal by students who live within eight blocks of the campus to use the parking lots on 16th and Vine has been granted by the Student Council Parking Board of Appeals.

However, due to a mistake in the parking regulations map, all appeals will hereafter be denied.

The mistake appears in the color of the parking area on 16th and Vine. This area, which now appears green on the map should appear red.

"All students are expected to read the parking regulations which they received with their parking sticker," stated Herb Friedman, chairman of the Student Council Parking Board.

Right Place

A father and his college son were posing for a picture and the photographer suggested that the boy stand with his hand on the father's shoulder.

"If you want it to look natural," said the parent, "he should put his hand in my pocket."
