

Top Ballet Stars

Lupe Serrano and Erik Bruhn will be seen in the Lincoln Community Concert Association's performance by the "American Ballet Theater." Lupe Serrano has brilliant technique, fiery temperament, and beauty and has a special interpretation of classical and contemporary roles. Erik Bruhn is one of the first-rank male dancers of classical roles.

The Outside World:

Judge Replaced

Federal District Judge Roy W. Harper disclosed he has been assigned temporarily to Little Rock, Ark. presumably to replace Judge Ronald Davies. Davies handed down the ruling for integration of Central High School and will retain jurisdiction in the case. When asked whether he knew the reason for his assignment to Little Rock, Judge Harper said: "I have no information. Judge Davies has a docket of his own and he's the only one in his district. I would assume he's got to get back (to North Dakota) to hold his court."

Budget Increase

The U. S. government announced yesterday that federal spending will rise to 72 billion dollars this year, which is 200 million dollars above President Eisenhower's January budget estimate. This trend is foreseen despite the extensive congressional economy drive. Government income will be 73 1/2 billion dollars, an amount 100 million less than was anticipated. This will result in a reduction in the surplus of 300 million dollars to 1 1/2 billion dollars balance. The changes will hamper all hopes for any substantial tax relief next year, as was hoped earlier. As for the fiscal year 1959, the administration is now aiming for a reduction of two billion dollars, to a total of 70 billions.

Beck's Home

Bouncy, irrepressible Dave Beck, retiring Teamsters Union president, isn't quite ready to abandon the palatial home his union has provided him rent and tax free at Seattle, Wash. Beck is leaving the union's top post following his involvement in scandals developed before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark). One of the things the Senate investigators have charged to Beck is that he used Teamsters union funds to build his Seattle home, then sold it to the union for $167,000 and still occupies it.

Japan Wins Seat

Despite a strenuous Soviet campaign to win the seat for Czechoslovakia, Japan has been elected to the U.N. Security Council. With the backing of the U.S., Japan received 55 votes to 25 for Czechoslovakia. Japanese Ambassador Koto Matsudaira called the vote "a clear expression of the confidence and expectation of the member nations toward Japan."

Haitians Told To Shoot

The ruling military junta told the people of Haiti to shoot any of the men the provisional government has listed as enemies of that state. This order, including women terrorists as well as men, was made to avert a possible political rebellion.

Little Rock

The regular Army troops at Little Rock's Central High School were replaced by Federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen last Tuesday. For the first time since integration began at the school last Wednesday, the six Negro girls and three boys walked into the school without a military escort. Governor Faubus, still considering the possibility of calling a special legislative session to deal with integration, said he expected to decide "this week or next."

Atomic Agency

The new International Atomic Energy Agency opened its first general conference with predictions being made that the agency would advance world peace and lift the level of human welfare. The Soviet Union is seeking the approval of Red China as a member, and is also trying to block the election of U.S. Rep. W. Sterling Cole as the agency's director general. The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said the United States was seeking to control the agency for purposes of "atomic colonialism."

Tax Evasion

An Omaha executive was fined, yesterday in U.S. District Court, $10,000 on two counts of evading payment of $37,215 in taxes. John A. Swanson, president of Standard Blue Print Company at Omaha, pleaded no contest to the charges.

Concert Tickets Now On Sale

The University students will have an opportunity to purchase tickets for the Lincoln Community Concert Association productions at a special reduced rate for a limited time.

The tickets are available to University students for $4 per ticket, the price is $7.50 for all others. The tickets at this special price will only be available between Oct. 2 and Oct. 12.

The University sales are under the direction of Marilyn Heck, senior in Arts and Sciences, who heads a committee of 60 workers with a representative in each house.

The Lincoln Community Concert Association is a non-profit organization formed by civic-minded citizens of Lincoln. It will bring some of the world's finest musicians and musical ensembles to the city.

Five attractions will be presented the first year of the community concerts. All performances will be held in the Pershing Municipal Auditorium.

The first attraction will be "La Traviata" by Verdi, on Oct. 22. La Traviata will be presented in English by the NBC Opera Company. This NBC opera has been seen by more people than any other opera in history. Its television version has been seen by millions of viewers.

Under the guidance of producer Samuel Chozinoff, musical director Peter Herman Adler, and a talented group of young American singers, the NBC opera has become a reality for the first time in the United States with an English translation.

Last year the company visited 47 cities giving 54 performances of "The Marriage of Figaro" and "Madame Butterfly," receiving acclaim everywhere. The tour of last season led to an expanded tour of 55 cities for the 1957 season with "La Traviata" added to the two operas of last season.

Starring in this production will be Elaine Malbin and Igor Gorin, with Kirk Oreste, Phillip Maoro, Maria Di Gerlando, John Alexander, Frank Poretta and Cecil Ward. The musical conductor will be Herbert Grossman.

On Nov. 13, the American Ballet Theater, the concert association's second production, will be given. It will be presented by the American Ballet Theater, the world's most traveled company which has performed in four continents; Europe, Asia, North and South America. Since its debut in 1940, the company has performed in 29 foreign countries and has appeared in every one of the 48 states.

This internationally-famous company is headed by world acclaimed stars and is accompanied by the American Ballet Theater Symphony, an organization which has made many popular recordings.

Among the stars of the American Ballet Theater are: Nora Kaye, John Krize, Erik Bruhn, Scott Douglas, Lupe Serrano, and Ruth Ann Koesun. Supporting these great stars will be Michael Lland, Christine Mayer, Fernand Nault, Enrique Martinez, Vernon Wendorf, Joan Foman, Leo Dugan and Leslie Franzos.

During its engagement here, American Ballet Theater will present ballets selected from a repertoire that critics everywhere have praised as the most varied, complete and vital of any of the major companies.

American Ballet Theater will contain one of the classical works of the Russian Ballet such as "Swan Lake," "Giselle," or "Princess Aurora" from "The Sleeping Princess." It is likely also to feature a work by a foreign choreographer, for example: "Winters Eve," "Pillar of Fire".

Every important American choreographer is represented in the company's repertoire works by at least one ballet: Agnes deMille, Jerome Robbins, William Dollar, Michael Kidd and Herbert Ross. A contemporary ballet will be selected from: "Fall River Legend", "Fancy Free", "Rodeo", "The Combat", "Theme and Variations", "Interplay", "Billy the Kid" and many others.

Three other programs will be presented in the spring and will be chosen from such as: "Oberkirchen Children's Choir", one of the outstanding children's choirs in the world today from Germany; "Vareil et Billy", famous men's singing group from Paris, France; "Vienna Boys Choir", the original Vienna choir that swept the nation several years ago, "Paul Whiteman's Orchestra", all new with a guest soloist and other outstanding artists presenting an all-Gershwin program.

Witnessed Army Game: Visiting Huskers Comment On West Point Grid Spirit

Much has been said about the Army spirit which prevailed at West Point last Saturday, the scene of the University's most recent football game.

Jack McBride, director of KUON Television, stated Thursday that he witnessed a lunch at the military school which saw 700 freshmen "plebes" march into the mess hall, stand at attention, and chant "Beat Nebraska" in endless choruses.

"It's unfair to compare the student body of West Point with the typical college campus," McBride commented.

According to McBride and other Huskers who attended the game last Saturday it's a standing rule at the Point to relax Plebe restrictions at the occasion of an Army victory.

"Life is pure hell for a plebe," one Husker commented after spending the weekend on the West Point campus.

The hazing is tremendous and everywhere a freshman goes he must run, the Husker football fan went on to say.

In regard to the chanting demonstration which occurred during the Saturday noon meal, another West Point visitor surmised that "the plebes had apparently been ordered" to cheer.

"There is a tremendous amount of school spirit at West Point. The whole place is steeped in tradition," the Husker fan stated.

"Army has a tremendous football team," the fan went on to say, and "we felt no disgrace in losing."

"They have one of the most underrated football teams in the country," he reported.

A Nebraska ROTC student who flew out for last Saturday's contest with the Black Knights of the Hudson, commented that all 2400 West Point cadets "live in common interest."

"Football games are the only place they have to let off steam," he added.

"The spirit out there gets you after awhile — it penetrates," the student stated.

During the pre-game rally held at West Point, one avid Army fan while addressing a large group of cadets, told of a visiting football team who was quartered above the Mess Hall, the student said.

Apparently the Plebe chanting went on from Thursday until the opening kickoff and the visitors lost the game to the cadets by a rather large score.

The losing coach was heard to say after the game that he would never bring his team back if it had to stay in the mess hall again.

Girls Want Marriage, Not Career

Girls at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, New York, like most of those in colleges throughout the country want to get married as soon after graduation as possible, and expect to work for a few years either before or immediately after marriage.

Few of them plan long term careers. And many are indignant when told that current statistics show that they will probably face a stretch of 25 years at paid jobs, whether they get married and have children or not.

In spite of this general inclination toward romance and domesticity, there are half-a-dozen job opportunities for every graduate.

A Buffalo, N.Y., student, who is engaged to an Air Force lieutenant stationed in Germany said, "we're getting married right after graduation and we'll be living in Germany for a while, at least."

"I want to work—I'd feel useless if I didn't. But I want to have children, too, and when the first baby comes I want to stay at home. I want to raise my own kids."
