Afterburner Display

Kappa Sigma won the large display slogan "Get 'em in the Afterburner" which shows a hawk being sucked into a Nebraska jet flying over the state.

HC Display Winners Announced

Kappa Sigma fraternity and Alpha Chi Omega sorority were named top winners in the University Homecoming display competition.

The winners were awarded traveling trophies at intermission of the Homecoming dance Saturday.

Alpha Chi Omega was winner in the women's division for the second year in a row with their display, "Corset's a Cinch." It showed an "N" corset being tightened on a Kansas Jayhawk.

Kappa Sigma was named winner of both the men's large house division and men's grand championship. Beta Sigma Psi took top honors in the men's small house division with their display, "Husker Jets Get the Jayhawks."

The Kappa Sigma display theme was, "Got 'Em in the Afterburner."

Second and third place honors in the women's division were awarded to Pi Beta Phi and Gamma Phi Beta, with Alpha Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta receiving honorable mentions.

Sigma Nu fraternity won second place in the men's large house competition, and Delta Tau Delta was third. Phi Delta Theta won honorable mention.

Pi Kappa Phi won second in the men's small house division and Theta Chi was awarded third place.

Farmhouse fraternity was named winner of the men's float competition and Alpha Gamma Sigma won second place.

Fedde Hall took top place in the women's organized house float division and Towne Club placed second.

Honorary Takes Five

Five pledges were formally initiated into the Delta Chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national earth science society, Monday night.

The new members are: Ron DeBord, Richard Engberg, Wendell Frantz, Robert Schrott, and Ken Wehrman.

Flu Bugs Vanishing From NU

There are still over 100 University students with flu, according to Dr. Samuel Feunning, Student Health director.

The 100 cases included 21 cases in Student Health, 41 cases in organized houses, and others who have gone home.

The Health Center only holds 26 beds and there is an over flow with the flu cases, Feunning said.

Flu cases on the campus are decreasing and are expected to keep decreasing as the days goes by. At this time a week ago there were 142 cases compared to 217 at the peak of the outbreak here at Nebraska.

On the matter of vaccine, Dr. Feunning said by Friday the Health Center should have sufficient quantities of the vaccine for anyone who wants it. He emphasized that students who haven't had the flu yet and who haven't had a shot should get the vaccination.

Since the flu is caused by more than one strain of organism, some students may get the flu again.

At Union College six out of 12 student illnesses were diagnosed as Asian flu, but so far no cases at Nebraska has been definitely reported to be of this variety.
