

Loop's Top Passer To Meet Huskers

"This will be as tough a team as we'll face here in Ames this year," is Jim Myers' estimate of Nebraska, Iowa State's Big Eight foe next Saturday.

"Bill Jennings has done a fine job of bringing Nebraska along through the toughest schedule any of our teams has faced," Myers added. "His club is begging to hand out the lessons it has learned from Army, Pittsburgh and Syracuse. On top of that he has been getting his early injuries and sick men back. We look forward to our toughest game Saturday."

Myers indicated a number of changes for the Cyclones this week. Some of them were hinted at or used briefly before but they will be for good this time.

First one sends No. 2 center, Frank Powell, to the No. 1 blocking back spot. Powell played there briefly before but has to make the shift now since Marv Walter has a pair of broken ribs.

Gale Gibson will move to right tackle and will have Lyle Carlson as his alternate. Myers needs more physical power there and has not been able to get it from Don Metcalf.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers will be looking up into the skies Saturday. They won't be looking for Sputnik II. They'll be keeping their eyes peeled for passes that will be thrown by the Big Eight's leading passer, Dwight Nichols. He has completed 32 of 64 passes thrown for a total of 440 yards. Five of his tosses have been intercepted. He will be aiming his deadly throws at his favorite and second leading Big Eight pass receiver, Brian Dennis. Dennis has caught 13 passes for a net gain of 183 yards.

If any of the previous games played between these two schools mean anything, this one could be a real thriller. A year ago, the Cyclones were leading 7-6 but a fumbled pitchout gave the Huskers possession and George Harshman kicked a field goal with 43 seconds remaining to give the Huskers a 9-7 edge.

Don Erway' field goal had turned the trick the year previously at Iowa State when the Huskers came out with a 10-7 decision.

The Huskers came out of the Kansas game in good shape physically. Doug Thomas, whose foot was stepped on, should be ready to play Saturday. His foot was X-rayed and the results proved negative. Don Rhoda was bruised a bit but should also be ready to play.

Lewandowski Announces Ticket Sales

All Sports tickets which admit to all winter and spring sports at the University of Nebraska will go on sale Monday, November 25, Business Manager A. J. Lewandowski announced. Student prices are $3.00 for the season and faculty price is $4.00.

Basketball tickets to the general public will be $16.50 for season tickets (11 games). Single game reserved tickets will be $1.50 and general admission $1.00. There will be knothole and student tickets at $3.50. These tickets are all available at the Coliseum Ticket Office.

Sig Ep's Meet Phi Psi's For Frat I-M Title

In the second round of the intramural touch football championships, Sig Ep's beat Cornhusker Co-op 22-0, the Phi Psi's squeaked by AGR, 6-0, and Canfield beat Gus II 8-6.

Sig Ep will vie against the Phi Psi's for the fraternity championship while Canfield will go against Burr B for the Men's Residence Hall championships. Newman and the Dents will play for the Independent Championships.

The winner of the Sigma Phi Epsilon-Phi Kappa Psi tilt will meet the winner of the Canfield-Burr B clash which will determine the Men's Dorm champs. The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Dent-Newman game which draws a bye for the All-University winners in touch football.

Cosmopolitan Club

Cosmopolitan Club will hold a mass meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Room 316 of the Union, according to Sydney Jackson, president.

Flu Victim

Husker Joe Mullins will miss the Big Eight cross country run this weekend because of the flu. Mullins has won every race in which he has run and will be missed.

New Coach Smith Greets NU Matmen

Under the direction of the new mat coach at the University, Head Coach Bill Smith, the Husker wrestling team is prepping for their 1957 season.

Smith so far has 25 men out for the mat sport and is expecting several members of the football squad to start working out as soon as the grid season is over. Fifteen of these 25 were down with the flu but they are now beginning to reappear, Coach Smith said.

Buffaloes, Stransky Lead Loop Rushing

Statistically, champion Oklahoma has the edge both offensively and defensively on Missouri as the two teams head into their game this week-end that will determine the Big Eight football leader. Both are undefeated in league play.

Conference tabulations following last week's games show the Sooners, defending national champions and second-ranked team in the country last week, have six-game total offense average of 342.6, as compared with Missouri's 215.8 for seven games.

Oklahoma has allowed its opponents an average of 208 yards, while Missouri has given up 287.7.

Even in losing its 6-9 squeaker to Missouri, Colorado and Bob Stransky maintained dominance in the league. The Buffaloes now have a seven-game average of 392.7 in total games, Kansas State is third with 275.8, and Missouri is fourth.

Stransky, who for two straight weeks has been the national rushing leader, picked up 75 yards against the Tigers to swell his total to 764 yards. On 128 carries that gives him a 5.1 average, a drop from last week's 6.4. Although he didn't tally Saturday, Stransky retained his individual scoring leadership with 57 points.

Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma advanced to the No. 2 rushing spot, replacing Eddie Dove of Colorado. The Sooner halfback has 443 yards on 79 trips. Dove has 59 for 434, and Dwight Nichols of Iowa State slipped back with 140 for 423 yards.

Nichols held on to forward passing honors with 32 completions in 64 pitches for 440 yards. Wally Strauch of Kansas replaced Phil Snowden of Missouri as runner-up with 18 of 41 for 290. Snowden has the same number of tosses and completions but for 243 yards.

Still the top pass receiver is Boyd Dowler of Colorado with 16 for 219, with Brian Dennis of Iowa State taking over second with 13 for 183. Homer Floyd of Kansas dropped to third on 8 for 149.

Missouri's Bob Haas remained the top punter with 16 averaging 42.4 yards, while Thomas of Oklahoma moved in behind him with 23 averaging 40.3. Harry Tolly of Nebraska dropped to third with 39.9 on seven kicks.

Thomas of Oklahoma moved from far down the list into the lead as a punt returner. The Sooner has carried six back for an average of 26.2. Jackie Sandefer, also of Oklahoma and last week's leader, is next with eight averaging 18.3.

Behind Stransky in individual scoring is his cohort, Dove, with 42. Thomas with 36, and Hank Kuhlmann of Missouri with 30.

Frosh Travel With Hopes For Victory

The University of Nebraska freshman football team goes to Kansas State Friday, November 8, where they will try to pick up their first win in their second and last game of the season. Last week, they were turned back 33-19 by the Iowa State frosh.

Both Husker quarterbacks were hurt in the Iowa State fracas but Dean Cozine should be ready for the game Friday.

Five freshmen, Bob Daniels, Sid Cookerly, Pat Fischer, Don Fricke and Richard Podlashes, who missed the first Husker yearling test because of injuries also will be sitting this one out. Dick Place and Clay White, who also missed the Iowa State contest, should be ready for Friday, however.

Frosh Basketeers Start Cage Practice

University of Nebraska basketball freshmen reported for their first workouts of the season this week.

Among the top prospects for the cage sport in the freshman ranks were Albert Maxey, Indianapolis, Indiana; Bob Garretson, Peoria, Illinois; Mel Harmon, Hebron; Gayle Peterson, Newman Grove; and Jim Kowalke, Sioux City, Iowa.

Many of last year's prep standouts around the state were also on hand for the first workout of the season. Some all-state selections were on hand as well as top names from other states.

Attila Ozbek, a native of Turkey, is also among the young Husker basketeers.
