Library Listening Room Boasts Varied Music

By LARRY BROWN
Special Writer

Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms. These are but a few of the famous classical composers that classical music lovers can listen to in Love Library's listening room.

The listening room was opened originally several years ago to give University students the opportunity to listen to some of the world's oldest and finest musical selections. It was the joint co-operation of the music college and Love Library's administration that made the room possible.

The listening room is located on the third floor, at the far end of the east hallway in the campus library. It is under the direction and supervision of the library's humanities department on second floor.

Any University student may check out earphones in this department to listen to the records without charge. However, music students on assignment have first priority on the use of the records and players.

The reasons that everyone must check out earphones to listen to the records are that the earphones eliminate distracting sounds in the library and they also allow more than one record to be played at the same time by different persons.

The bright, well-lighted room has windows along the entire south wall and has sufficient tables and chairs to make this room a pleasant place to listen to recordings. It has two turn-tables and hundreds of records from which to choose. The records are neatly and conveniently arranged in a black metal cabinet along the west wall.

World War II Films Set Wednesday

Army films of World War II battles will be shown in Room 107 of the Military and Naval Science Building Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m.

Films to be shown are "Capture of Saipan," "Cleanup of Peleliw and Attapeu," "Operations in the Philippine Islands."

There will be two continuous showings of the films.

Eisenhower Requests Action

President Eisenhower yesterday told the NATO powers that mighty new forces are beginning to "cast a pall over our world." He also called on the Atlantic Alliance for, what he termed, heroic efforts to build its military strength in the missile race with Russia while the margin of power is still ours.

The Eisenhower request for action was coupled with a declaration that the U.S. and its satellites stand ready to join Russia in an effort to bring the forces threatening the world "under rational control."

The NATO conference has opened with a brief public session at noon, at which Eisenhower spoke. It then went into a closed session, but statements were made public by government officials.

Secretary Norton Testifies

The assistant Secretary Garrison Norton testified Monday that the Navy research has suffered from budget limits on defense spending before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Norton termed the spending cut-back "The Dollar straitjacket in which we must operate." He told the Senate committee "it is time we kept our mouths shut" and buckled down to work.

Suspect Questioned

Lincoln police announced Monday that a 35-year-old man is being held for questioning by the police in connection with a stabbing.

The victim, William Brown, 30, was taken to a local hospital for treatment and was released for neck wounds he suffered as a result of the stabbing.

Congress Urged

Congress has been urged by the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal to authorize President Eisenhower to resume his rank as a five-star general when he leaves the White House.

Rules Announced For Student Poetry, Fiction Competition

Rules for the annual student writing contests were announced by the English department.

The two contests are for the Ione Gardner Noyes Poetry Awards, established by Mr. Laurence Noyes and Mrs. Harold Meier in honor of his late wife and their late sister, and the Prairie Schooner Fiction Awards, prizes for which are taken from a fund established by Mari Sandoz.

Manuscripts for the poetry contest may be submitted from Feb. 1 until March 7. Contestants may secure entry blanks in the English department office in Andrews Hall.

Each contestant can submit from one to three poems and prizes will be given for the best individual poems. A $50 first prize and a $25 second prize will be awarded. The contest is open only to undergraduates.

Rules on entries to the Prairie Schooner Fiction Awards contest are the same as those for the poetry contest except that the contest is open to both undergraduates and graduate students.

The prizes are $50 for first place, $30 for second, and $20 for third. Judging for both contests will be done by committees from the University faculty.

Last year's winners of the Ione

Gardner Noyes Poetry Awards were Stephen Schultz and Jerry Petsche. Honorable mentions went to Barbara Millnitz, Beverly Chloupek, Ralph Lloyd, Richard Kelly and Jerry Petsche.

First place in the fiction contest went to Daniel Bernd. Second and third places were awarded to Vernon Bloemker and Mrs. Jane Hill, with honorable mentions going to Abraham Dash and Ervin Krause.
