

Struggling Fencers Jab At Money Dept.'s Defense

Cashless Swordsmen Whack Away While Big 8 Turns Other Cheek

By DICK SHUGRUE

"Well, why do you fence, nobody sword fights anymore." The questioner was puzzled about the purpose of the ancient sport. "Why do you play baseball, men don't use clubs anymore," came the answer from the veteran fencer.

Actually, the sport of fencing is probably the most demanding of all sports, both physically and mentally, Paul Armato explained.

Serving in his two capacities as a fencing instructor and coach without pay from the University, Armato accompanies the team on intercollegiate contests. This last week his team went to the State University of Iowa in Iowa City with no expenses paid by the University.

"We did pretty well, too," Armato explained. "We were only defeated 14-11 by SUT's varsity."

Fencing was begun at the University three years ago by John Giele, who was a graduate student in sociology at the time. Giele has since organized a fencing club at Kansas University. He himself has been fencing some 20 years.

Three Weapons

Fencing is done with three weapons, the foil, the sabre and the epee. Each weapon is used in a particular match, called a bout. Armato added that three men are usually employed on each weapon and each man has three bouts. "Every time a man makes a score, he is given a point. Five scores by an individual constitute a game."

Last year the University Fencing Club competed against the United States Air Force Academy, Texas A&M, The University of Colorado and Kansas University. "We paid our own way to all competition," Armato noted.

Intramurals

Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu are the only remaining unbeaten fraternity intramural teams while Canfield and Gus I earn the same honor in the Selleck ranks.

The leading four teams in each intramural league will be eligible for the intramural tournament at the end of regular season play. Standings as the teams head into the final six weeks of competition:

Husker Trackmen, Hoopsters Face Tough Competition Over Weekend

Sevigne's Sprinters Travel To Michigan Relays; Bushmen Encounter Determined KU, Oklahoma

Husker track and basketball teams will be travelling this weekend, and will face some of the toughest competition of the year.

Frank Sevigne's talented crew of trackmen will compete in the annual Michigan State Relays on Saturday afternoon.

Led by the sophomore sensation from Canada, Joe Mullins, the Huskers are expected to make a good showing among some of the country's topflight athletes. Mullins will anchor the mile and 2 mile relay teams.

Keith Gardner, Olympic performer of 1956, and Keith Young, another jet from Jamaica, are expected to lead the Husker shuttle-hurdle relay team. Bill Hawkins and Bill Marten are also members of this team which is expected to make a good showing among some of the best shuttle relay teams of the nation.

Other Huskers expected to perform well are: Ken Ash, Knolly Barnes and Mike Fleming in the 2 mile relay, Don House, Fleming and Gardner in the mile relay, Ken Pollard in the pole vault, and lead the Huskers against Kansas. Oklahoma will be the opposition on Monday and, like Kansas, they too will be out to avenge an earlier loss at the hands of the Huskers. The Sooners, who own an 11-4 overall record, will be mighty tough to say the least. Several sophomores, led by Dennis Price and Jack Marsh, 6-7 center, will provide the Sooners' scoring punch.

Grapplers Vie Today

Coach Bill Smith's wrestling team will be home this weekend, facing the Great Lakes Naval Training Station team today and Colorado on Saturday.

Two newcomers, Marlen Luff and John Anderson, will wrestle in the 123 and 157 pound weight division, respectively.

Judo

Judo practice will resume on Wednesday, February 5th at 7 p.m. in the Coliseum basement.

Anyone interested in taking judo lessons is welcome.

Practice sessions are held every Wednesday and Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Coliseum Beat

... by george moyer

This semester it will be the aim of the Daily Nebraskan sports page to provide its subscribers with the best and most complete coverage possible of University and Big Eight athletics.

Included in this semester's format will be columns covering the sports scene as observed by the average University student, as well as analysis by the sports staff. Gary Frenzel, an old standby, will appear regularly as well as Emmie Limpo, with skirts in sports covering the girls' side of athletics. Del Rassmussen will continue to do Courtney Quips, freshman Rennie Ashleman will enter the field with an as yet doubtful brain child, and ex-editor Bob Martel will pop up from time to time to give us his word from downtown. Of course, the public will from time to time be subjected to Coliseum Beat, but, as Ashleman put it, we will try to overcome that.

In addition to the regular Star of the Week award, the paper will present a certificate to the campus organization that does the best overall job in intramurals for the school year. Also there will be features covering outstanding performances by individuals and the problems of maintaining the University athletic establishment.

Interesting Semester

From here it looks like it will be an interesting semester. Once again, Tony Sharpe will have the Huskers in contention for the Big Eight title in baseball while Frank Sevigne will have stars Keith Gardner and Joe Mullins leading the Scarlet and Cream in what should develop into one of the best conference track struggles in recent years. Bruce Russell, intramural fall tennis champ, and veteran Art Weaver and Bill North boost the tennis outlook, and the intramural softball chase is looming with good teams in every league.

Two Prep Stars To Attend NU

Two Nebraska high school football stars have announced they will attend the University next fall, according to Bill Jennings, varsity football coach.

Phil Case, 195 pound All-Stater from Tekamah and LeRoy Zierke, honorable mention All-stater from Pierce, will enroll at the University, Jennings stated.

Case was a Class B All-State end and also competed in track. He plans to enter Engineering College.

Zierke played four years of football, basketball, track and baseball. He was named to the all-conference team and was honorable mention in the all-state nominations.

Swimmers Meet Colorado Today

The Husker swimming team will see action this Friday afternoon against Colorado U.

The starting time is 3:30 p.m. and no admission will be charged. The feature race will be between Ron Renfer, Nebraska star, and Hep Ingham, Colorado sprinter, in the 50 yd. freestyle.

Other topflight performers for Nebraska will be Frank Tomson, Jerry Brown, Bryce Johnson and Carl Bodenstener who posted their best times of the year against I State and Grinnell last week.

In basketball, the Huskers will meet Kansas University who will have "fire in their eyes" after the defeat handed them by Kansas State on Monday.

The Huskers will have to stop Wilt Chamberlain who will be trying to regain his National scoring lead which he lost last week. Wilt's overeagerness to score points against the Huskers could be just the break the Huskers need in order to defeat the Kansas crew. At any rate, they cannot be sold short because they will be at full strength once again.

Don Smidt, 4th high scorer, will be back after missing the Iowa State game. Willie Fitzpatrick, leading scorer, is back with the Husker squad and is expected to
