

Nebraska Uses Overtime To Halt Four Game Streak

Turner, Kubacki Lead 67-62 Win

Here I was in this dressing room and boy was it noisy. These basketball players from Nebraska were really happy. And well they should have been. They had just ended a four game losing streak with one of the finest come from behind, never say die wins seen on the Coliseum maps this year.

Coch Jerry Bush's Nebraska Cornhuskers had just finished beating Missouri in overtime and the cry was, "On to Colorado." Bush himself was relieved. "If we hadn't won this one, it would have been all over for this year," the Coliseum Bear remarked.

"As it is now, we've got Kansas and Kansas State here and we haven't forgotten what they did to us when they had us at home," Bush continued.

Coming back o the game just finished, Bush remarked, "I thought Arwood and Kubacki played real fine ball games. It's a shame we can't use both our little men at the same time because they're great, but it hurts us under the boards. That boy Turner quit dribbling tonight and scored 26 points. That really looked good."

Nebraska suffered from a bad first half and left the floor trailing 32-21. The Huskers never led in the game until Herschel Turner hit his second overtime bucket with 3:34 remaining. Of the first half, Bush commented, "That's what those losses did to us. We hit 18% against Kansas, if you can call that hitting, and when you are that cold, you start taking bad shots and losing your hustle. We got our confidence back the second half."

When the Huskers got their confidence back, it came with a vengeance. Arwood started it off, collecting three points on a hook shot and a foul. Marv Kirksey, Missouri's little peppercorn guard came right back with three in exactly the same manner, but Turner hit a quick pair and Reimers added two of free throws to narrow things to 36-30.

Missouri hung on with Sonny Siebert sparking their attack, and with 6:50 to play it looked like the Tigers would pull away to win handily. They had a 51-42 lead and were moving like the floor was made of hot boiler iron.

It was Reimers who once more turned the tide. His 26 ft. set shot sent the Huskers off on another scoring spree. Don Smith hit from underneath for his fielder of the night to narrow things to 53-52. Turner hit a layup but Kirksey came back with two free throws. Kubacki hit a long jump to cut the margin to one point, 57-56, but Smith fouled out and Bud Hardin counted one of his free throws with 16 seconds to play.

Then Kubacki made the play that broke the invaders back and brought the crowd to its feet. Twisting and dodging, the 5'9" guard dribbled the length of the court, changing hands on the dribble at least three times, for the layup that tied the score at 58-58 with six seconds left. The Nebraska bench came out to shake the little fellow's hand as the final gun sounded.

In the overtime, Missouri appeared as shell shocked as the Huskers had the first half. Turner hit two fielders and Arwood was fouled on a drive-in and added the free throw. Kubacki chipped in a free throw and the Tigers wandered off the floor wearing surprised expressions as the contest ended.

For Nebraska, Turner was the man of all work. The sophomore hustler dropped 26 points and d halled down 17 rebounds for a tremendous effort. Captain Gary Reimers, who kept Nebraska in the game with five first half buckets, added 16 points while Arwood made 11.

On the Missouri side of the ledger, Siebert dropped 20, mostly on a soft, arching jump shot. Egelhoff, the Missou captain, picked off ten rebounds to lead the Tigers in that department.

Huskers Risk Slate

Nebraska's streak of four straight dual victories goes right on the line this Saturday when they take on Oklahoma in what could be the tightest dual meet ever.

Coach Frank Sevigne's comments on the meet were: "Pretty rugged. Don't try to predict anything but the shot put. We might sneak in a second there and Hawkins should be safe in the broad jump. After that start flipping coins."

A quick look at the comparative strengths of the two squads even by event shows that, if anything, the Husker mentor's comments underestimate the tightness of the meet.

In the mile two sophomores, Joe Mullins of Nebraska and Gail Hodgson, Oklahoma's South African, will lock up for the second time. Hodgson beat Mullins by a tenth of a second in the open mile at the Kansas Relays a year ago. There is every chance the record of 4:21.0 set by Oklahoma's Dick Dudley in 1957 will fall between these two fierce competitors.

A field of such men as Nebraska's Knolly Barnes, Ken Ash, and Joe Mullins running against Oklahoma's Gary Parr and Bob Ringo should pose a top threat to Knolly Barnes' record of 1:57.2 set the last time the two teams met in a dual.

Another great race should be staged in the sixty yard dash, where Keith Gardner, Nebraska's top point collector, will be trying to add one more victory to his record of two years without a defeat in indoor competition, in the face of rough competition from Oklahoma's Dee Givens.

The entries: Mile Run: Oklahoma, Gail Hodgson, Ernest Kleynhans; Nebraska, Joe Mullins, Mike Fleming, Bob Elwood.

60-Yard dash: Oklahoma, Dee Givens, Johnny Pellow, Tom Wenrick; Nebraska, Keith Gardner, Don Phillips, Tom Hodgson, Keith Young.

440-Yard run: Oklahoma, Bill Pritchett, Hi Gerbert, Jim Denton; Nebraska, Don House, Richard Jahr, Bruce Skinner, Don Ficke.

60-Yard high hurdles: Oklahoma, Denton, Phil Lee, A. W. Hammock; Nebraska, Keith Gardner, Bill Marten, Bill Hawkins, Keith Young.

2-Mile run: Oklahoma, Hodgson, Kleynhans, Harold Huba; Nebraska, Bob Elwood, Bill Melody.

880-Yard run: Oklahoma, Gary Parr, Bob Ringo, Jay Field; Nebraska, Knolly Barnes, Ken Ash, Joe Mullins, Mike Fleming, Jerry Marples.

60-Yard low hurdles: Oklahoma, Denton, Lee, Hammock, Givens; Nebraska, Gardner, Marten, Hawkins, Young.

Pole Vault: Oklahoma, Larry Neely, Carl Cox; Nebraska, Ken Pollard, Don Blank.

Shot Put: Oklahoma, George Church, Dan Erwin; Nebraska, Bob Lammell, Hale Kreyvek, Randy Clark.
