the question has arisen as to wheth-

tive. The wording of the council

John Kinnier, council judiciary committee chairman, indicated that that committee has not yet reached a decision, but that its first action will be a ruling on the new YMCA constitution.

This, he said will not be sub-ject to a vote of the Council body, but will merely be a judiciary committee ruling.

Kinnier said he thought that the two groups should have only one representative. Other Reorganization

Under their past constitutions, the YMCA has had a president, secretary-treasurer, one vice president and various committee and board chairmen.

The constitution alteration will provide for the following vice-presidencies: programs, projects, membership, and ways and means.

No positions except that of the president and the secretary-treasurer, Grant Tetsuka, are now filled. Other officers will be filled room, at the drawing board deat the re-organization meeting slatsigning scenery (he is currently ed for March 5.

Midwest Debaters Raid NU; Labor's Problem Theirs Too

Over 270 Arguers Load Verbal Guns To Shoot Off Pro & Con in Tourney

Eighty-five debate teams consisting of students and instructors from 44 midwestern colleges and universities will participate today and tomorrow in the annual University Debate and Discussion Conference.

A sweepstakes trophy will be awarded to the school with the best overall record in all activities. The trophy and certificates for superior individual ratings will be presented at 12:30 p.m. in Love Library Auditorium.

The conference opened this morning with registration at Temple Building. Also held this morning were two rounds of discussion along with sessions in extemporaneous speaking and original oratory.

The subject for this year's discussion is "How can our colleges and universities best meet the increasing demand for higher education?"

Three rounds of debate will be held this afternoon. The proposal will be "Resolved: That the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal." A banquet in the Union ballroom at 6:15 p.m. will conclude today's activities. The final two rounds of debate will be held tomorrow morning, with a parliamentary session scheduled for 11 a.m. in Howell

Schools registered for the conference include:

The rule was passed in a stormy session of the University with Mildred Anstine, the sole woman debater defending the rights of the fairer sex. But from that meeting until the fall of 1941, no women were allowed in forensic activity.

Six women did come out that year and with the war cutting into the men's squad, they took a more and more important part. In 1943 the University was represented by a squad composed entirely of women.

Debate began only a few months after the University opened its doors. The Palladian Literary Society, still in existence, was the first group to sponsor such activity.

As later literary societies developed, the custom began of weekly meeting. Some of the topics under discussion would still be of interest today. "That the President of the
