Activities Princess Presented

Victorious Coed Has 25 Points

Agnes Pizie, sophomore in Alchemy, was named Outstanding Activity Princess at a semi-formal orgy in the ruins of Ellen Smith Hall last night.

Miss Pizie was named from a field of 128 finalists in the contest, billed as the "outstanding honor a coed could hope to get," past committee chairman Eunice Plotz said.

"The girl is chosen for the number of activities she has participated in during the last school year," Miss Plotz said.

"Extra points are gained for participation in underground, non-administration recognized activities," she commented.

Activities

Miss Pizie's activities, which are truly outstanding, are listed below: Past social chairman of the Young Socialist Social Club; past sergeant-at-arms of the Women's Afternoon Discussion Group for the Prevention of Allowing Mistreatment of Retired Administration Members; secretary of Coed Cancellors; member of the Union Pingpong Board; honorary mascot of the Agricultural Institute for the Institution of Democrats-in-the-Dept.-of-Agriculture; member of Theta Theta Chi Xi, semi-official campus Literary Discussion Group; past recording secretary of Cow Alfalfa, freshmen women's advisory board; member of All University Revenue Accumulation; staff writer for the 'Chucker, banned inter-sorority publication; past pledge trainer of Xi Chi Alpha Pi, social sorority; and president emeritus of the Mens' First Aid Society.

Coed Absent

Miss Pizie was not on hand to receive the award however, and sorority sister Gladys Blip accepted it in her behalf.

Miss Pizie has been working out of Denver as an itinerant calendar salesman, since the Administration removed her from the campus for sub-standard grades.

Goof Uncovered, Building Begins

Reconstruction of Ellen Smith Hall will begin Wednesday, according to a reliable source.

Frank said there had been a little mix up and some thought the building was to be torn down and the destruction had already begun before the error could be corrected.

The proposed reconstruction will cost $500,000. It will be finished by the middle of next week.

After Ellen Smith is finished and redecorated, the new offices of the University administration will be located in the basement.

Kefluffer Makes Accuracy Find

A tremendous addition to the science of rifle accuracy was made public today. The results of an exhaustive study of shooting patterns by Sergeant Kefluffer of the Nebraska ROTC unit have proved conclusively that in 99% of all groups of three, triangular patterns resulted.

This study has absorbed the better part of Sergeant Kefluffer's time for the past 20 years. It involved sorting through myriad files of targets which have been saved since the establishment of the ROTC unit.

In commenting on his discovery, Kefluffer said, "This is only the beginning. We are going ever upward and onward into new vistas of target marksmanship."

It is reported that Kefluffer is now busily at work on a way to make collar buttons out of used brass.

Liquor And Rest Periods Will Lift NU Spirit

Hard Liquor will now be served during the recently approved rest periods during all classes.

During one of its extra-extra-unscheduled meetings the Faculty senate called upon the Student Council to meet with it to discuss the measure and approved it 100 percent.

Can't Brew It

Hard liquor was approved on the grounds that it could be served in all classes except Home Economics 131.

Home Ec students are expected to prepare their own food and distillation of liquor on the campus is prohibited by state law.

The Council agreed to foot the bill for liquor on the basis that it will improve the campus health situation and learning capacity.

Rest periods were approved in the last extra-extra-unscheduled meeting of the Senate next Tuesday. They will be conducted during the first 40 and last 10 minutes each period of the day.

Most Considerate

Eileen Gurgle of Teachers College said the two proposals were the best and most considerate things that had happened on the University campus in the last 200 years.

Indeed, said Sop Bucket, dean of home ec this may be the first time either have happened on campus.

An overwhelming student majority of 946 to 1 approved the new regulations. The dissenting vote was cast by T. Toler, who said he only liked to be different.

Lower Averages

The required University grade average has been lowered from a 4 to a 2.5, according to Alfred Hoppelfeit, secretary to the Chantcellor.

"The change will be effective for the spring semester only," Hoppelfeit said.

"Since the student is faced with so many added social pressures during the spring the Chantcellor decided to lessen the academic load," Hoppelfeit commented.

Flip Bobbie, dean of the college of Archery, said that he thought the change was a great improvement.

Auto-Walk Gives Relief

Getting to eight o'clocks should be easier next year as the automatic sidewalks go into operation.

The sidewalks, hailed as the coming thing on campuses are a pioneering venture which other colleges are expected to copy soon.

Because Nebraska students get especially tired in the walks between Bancroft and Ferguson, the University was chosen by the Gord Foundation as the first recipient of a grant designed to provide all campuses with moving sidewalks.

One Gord Foundation spokesman commented that these conveyor sidewalks should eventually replace the conventional automobile.

Newly appointed director of right-of-way on the campus, Duane River, said that sidewalk policemen will be hired this summer to see that no speedsters try to confuse sidewalk traffic by running and pushing.

The sidewalks should cut campus-crossing time in half, River commented.

April, Baby Showers In Evidence

The Union reports a flood of catering orders as the chemise craze engulfs the campus.

Ellen Fixacake, head of the catering service commented that in the last two weeks, the service has been asked to cater 200 baby showers.

"We're not sure whether maternity has suddenly become fashionable, or what," commented the bewildered Miss Fixacake.

The rush of baby showers became intense about the same time the trapeze and the chemise began filtering into the campus.

Last week a call from the Division of Student Affiliations ordered an extra large shower. Miss Marjorie Jinson had arrived for work that morning in a green chemise and the girls in the office decided to surprise her with an early shower.

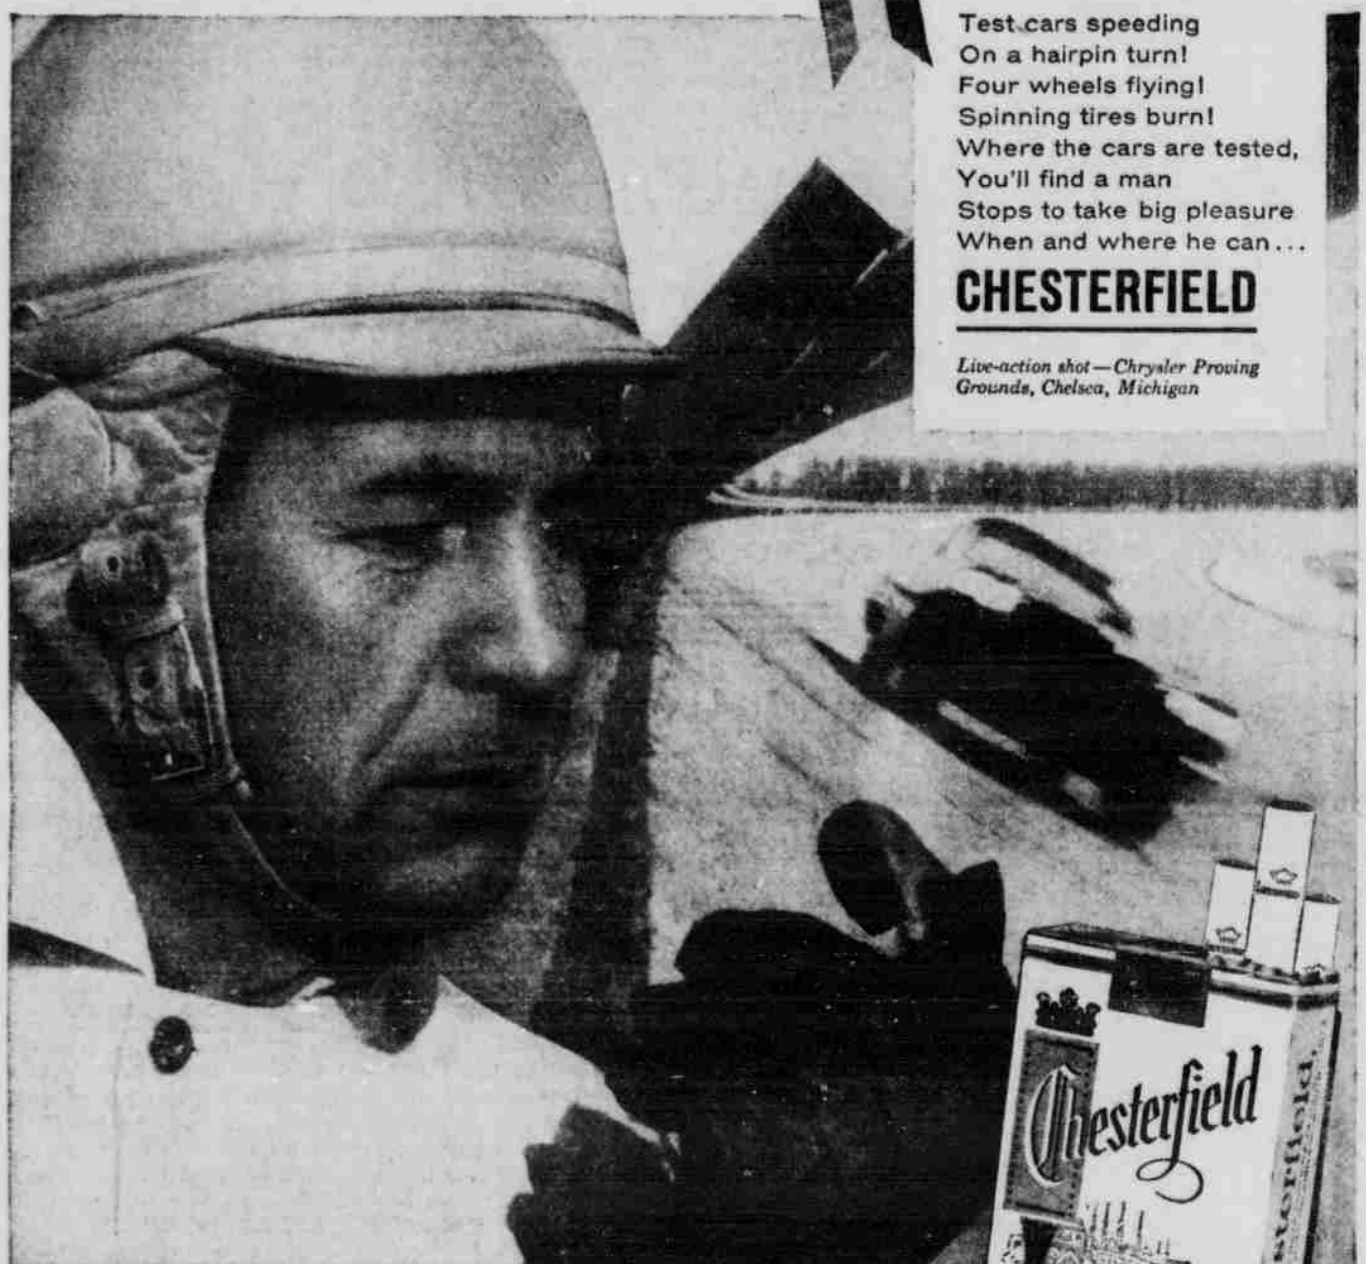

Spring Brings Shorter Classes

Cutting classes will not be necessary this spring now that the Faculty Senate has agreed to shorten classes.

From now until summer vacation, classes will be 25 minutes long on Monday through Thursdays. Friday classes will last 15 minutes.

The move came after an informal agreement among faculty members that it would be better to have many students all of the time rather than few students some of the time.
