

Shooting Rocks Assembly

Cuban Rebel Quells Motion

Gunshots resounded through the Model United Nations assembly room Friday afternoon as Cuban rebel Jack Fager assassinated the representative of the Cuban government.

The representative, Jim Pokorny, was then dragged out of the room.

Uprising The uprising came when Pokorny took the floor to support a motion for the UN to intervene against Castro.

The motion had earlier been put to a test when India made a motion to strike it from the agenda. The complexity of the motion, however, caused it to be defeated.

After the shooting, the Cuban problem was stricken from the agenda.

Moyer Speaks

Prior to the debate on international problems, George Moyer, secretary-general of the NUCWA-sponsored Model General Assembly, addressed the assembly.

After thanking the delegates for honoring him with the office, Moyer stated that "the UN is the only organization in the world that has the mechanism inherent within it to prevent World War III."

"For this reason," he added, "studying the UN in classrooms and in mock conferences must continue to be a part of the nation's education."

"It is only through sitting down in sessions like this, mock and real, that we can come to a better understanding of the problems our nations face," he concluded.

After the assembly calmed down from the frenzy caused by the shooting, the remainder of items on the agenda were discussed.

Space Control

A motion regarding the control of outer space was passed. According to this motion, outer space will be treated like the high seas and controlled by international law. No nation will be allowed to claim a planet as their own.

A combined motion on international disarmament and the removal of troops was a success when its originators failed to attend the meeting. The originators were Russia and China.

After heated discussion, the question of repatriation of Palestinian refugees was referred to committee. This was done because it was felt that no decision could be reached on the floor because of conflicting interests.

Dick Fellman, chairman of the assembly, ended the 1958 session of the Model UN by summarizing the progress of the past three days.

AAUP Slates Informal Meet

The American Association of University Professors will have a dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Union.

This will be the third in a series of informational meetings about University administrative policies and procedures.

Mr. George Round, director of public relations, will discuss "Public Relations at the University of Nebraska—the Objectives, the Program, the Problems."

Miller Will Head English Judging

Dr. James Miller, professor of English, has been appointed chairman of a board of judges to select and give achievement awards to superior English students in Nebraska high schools.

He was appointed by the National Council of Teachers of English.

The NCTE will recommend the award-winning students for college scholarships.

Four awards will be given in Nebraska, according to Dr. Miller.

Inquisitors Fail To Daunt Joan

The curtain goes up on this final production of the University Theatre this year in Howell Memorial Theatre Wednesday.

Director Dallas Williams has called the author's treatment of France's heroine a "masterful" handling in which Joan is not unduly idealized.

Tickets may be obtained at the Howell Theatre box office or reservations can be made by calling the theatre.

Campus Literature Blossoms Writers, Scrip To Be Feted

Campus literary genius will be aired Thursday when the 1958 English department Poetry and Fiction competition winners will be announced and a preview of a new magazine will be given.

The program, called "Campus Writer," will be held at 4 p.m. in Union 313.

The top fiction and poetry entered in the Lone Gardner Poetry and Prairie Schooner Fiction competition will be presented.

Scrip Preview The preview will be of "Scrip," a literary magazine organized by the English department and University students. Steve Schultz, editor, will read some selections from the magazine and forecast its future.

Karl Shapiro will talk on "Campus Writers."

Prizes for the poetry contest are $50 for first place and $25 for second. The fiction winner will receive $50, with second prize $30 and third, $20.

Winning entries in the contests are also considered for publication in the Prairie Schooner.

50 Entries About 50 entries in the contest had been turned in by the March 7 deadline. The poetry competition was open to any undergraduate, with graduate students also eligible for the fiction division.

Judges in the contest have been the following professors: Poetry: Karl Shapiro, Robert Knoll and John Winkelman.

Fiction: Walter F. Wright, Karl Shapiro, Ross Garner and Stanley Vandersail.

Contests Planned In Dairy Judging

Two events of interest to dairy enthusiasts are scheduled for Friday and Saturday according to Don Kubik, publicity chairman of Varsity Dairy Club.

A Dairy Products Judging Contest will be held Friday at 4 p.m. in the Dairy Industry Building for anyone enrolled in the University who has not previously won the contest. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the winners of the contest.

The Dairy Cattle Judging Contest is set for Saturday morning with registration at 7:45 a.m. in the Dairy Barn. Anyone who has not judged at the National Dairy Cattle Congress or has not previously won the contest is eligible.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner and highest house team.

Nebraska Alumnus Issue Spans Nation's Colleges

Whirling along in his own personal maze at his own individual institute of higher learning, Joe Nebraska is pretty apt to feel that his campus is some sort of an isolated oasis or island.

And Joe's dad and mom—better known as the alumnus, or citizens of Nebraska—sometimes wonder: if any other school could possibly have so many problems—budget, teacher shortage, overcrowding.

This month, in 153 alumni

Health Day Hits Disaster Lueth Will Speak On Civil Defense

The University's tenth Annual Health Day this Thursday will focus around the theme of disaster planning, said Dr. Samuel Fuehning, director of Student Health.

"The purpose of Health Day is to bring in an outstanding man of the field to discuss a pertinent subject," Dr. Fuehning explained.

"Disaster planning, including civil defense plans is one of the most important problems at this time; so we have asked Dr. Harold Lueth, a man prominent in the field, to speak," he said.

Dr. Lueth is a professor of Medicine at the University of Illinois, chairman of the Committee on Civil Defense and member of the Council on National Defense, American Medical Association. He is a former dean of the University College of Medicine.

At a noon luncheon Thursday Dr. Fuehning will discuss "The Need for Disaster Planning." Thursday afternoon a panel discussion, "Disaster Planning in School and Colleges" will be presented. Dr. Lueth will be moderator for the panel.

A student mass meeting will be held at 7:15 p.m. Thursday in Love Library Auditorium. The meeting is co-sponsored by the Red Cross College Chapter and the University.

After a lecture by Dr. Lueth, the Red Cross Disaster Committee will present a workable disaster plan it has spent several weeks formulating. Dr. Fuehning commented.

The noon and afternoon lectures are planned primarily for faculty members and members of student health but students may attend, said Dr. Fuehning.

Tickets for the luncheon, which is being held in the Union, are $1.35.

The panel discussion will be presented in the Nebraska State Historical Society Auditorium.

AF Reserve Opportunity Available

University Air Force veterans who still have a service obligation can take advantage of membership in the Air Force Obligor, local reserve program, according to Major Stanley McCandless, 9736th Air Reserve Squadron.

Training positions offering 24 paid periods per college school year are available for those who qualify, offering a minimum of $2.50 per hour pay.

Membership in the Lincoln Reserve Squadron will not alter or change the participant's military status. For those who qualify, a 15 day tour of active duty is required and will be in a pay status. Generally this tour is taken during summer vacation, but can be arranged to suit the student.

Membership also starts the obligor on his way toward a profitable retirement and offers promotions for those who meet requirements.

All interested Air Force Obligor should contact Sgt. Adolph Crespin, Room 204, Veterans Building, 1206 "O" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska, phone 5-3273, Ext. 454, anytime Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Midshipmen Tour Florida

Thirty-six University NROTC students took their annual six day trip to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, March 31-April 5.

They were part of a group consisting of 200 midshipmen from 10 universities.

The midshipmen observed the various facilities of the station and received a brief indoctrination of the naval flight program.

Some of their activities included a demonstration by the "Blue Angels"; several flights in various naval planes during which the midshipmen had their turn at the controls; a trip in a helicopter; instruction in aerology, radar, electronics and repair; and demonstrations in survival and ground control approach.

Chicks Join TB Fight Bessey Profs Go Into Poultry Raising

P. Marilyn Coffey Staff Writer

Poultry raising seems to be the latest enterprise of the Bessey Hall professors, judging from the fowl sounds emerging from the basement.

Nearly 100 chickens do roost in the lower regions of Bessey but they are being raised for experimental purposes, not for market.

Dr. Lorne Brown, one of the medical staff members at Student Health, under the supervision of Dr. Warren Englehard, associate professor of bacteriology, is conducting an experiment that may add to scientific knowledge of tuberculosis immunity.

The chickens, while still in embryonic form in the egg, were inoculated with bacteria that causes TB in birds. The full-grown chickens are now being injected again with the same bacteria.

Space Expert Lectures Here This Week

Shapley, World-Renowned Astronomer, Talks Tonite

Space-conscious University students, their appetite whetted by the addition of a "Theatre of Stars" to the NU campus, will get another taste of the subject this week.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, a world-renowned astronomer and educator, will visit the University campus for a series of lectures today and Tuesday.

Authorities have acclaimed his studies as having led to a new understanding of the structure of the universe.

He will address the joint dinner meeting of honorary societies, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi tonight at 6:30 at the Student Union. The subject of his lecture is "Galaxies and What They Do to Us."

Didrichsons Sweeps Pix Contest

Six Ribbons, Trophy Won

Ilmars Didrichsons swept the annual Union Photography Contest by winning first place in the news and sports and character sketch divisions, winning the grand prize trophy and receiving a special mention for a photograph which did not fall into any of the classes but was "highly worthy of mention."

Didrichsons, a student in engineering, won the grand prize and the blue ribbon in sports with a photograph entitled "The Gymnast."

Second place in the sports and news division went to H. N. Dreimanis and Didrichsons took third.

Charlene Gross received the blue ribbon for her portrait entitled "Spring Fever". Didrichsons placed second and Bernard Mintz, third.

Dreimanis' photograph, "Fight, Team, Fight", placed first in the human interest division. Didrichsons got the second ribbon and Dreimanis the third.

Second to Didrichsons in the character sketch division was Wayne Buehrer. Didrichsons also received the third ribbon.

The contest, which began in March, was sponsored by the Arts and Exhibits committee. All photographs were taken between April, 1957 and April 1958.

Singers Feature Lishner, Norman

The University Singers will present a concert Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Plymouth Congregational Church.

The concert will be directed by Dr. David Foltz, chairman of the music department and choral director.

The performance will feature soloists Leon Lishner and Nancy Norman. Lishner, baritone, is an assistant professor of music. Miss Norman, a soprano is an instructor of history and principles of education.

Professor Myron Roberts will be organist. "Requiem" by Faure will be the featured selection of the performance.

Science and Religion

Tomorrow at 11 a.m. he will deliver a public lecture in Love Library Auditorium on "Religion in an Age of Science." Various other meetings are planned for students and faculty members during his stay on campus.

Native of Missouri, Dr. Shapley was on the staff of Mount Wilson Observatory at Pasadena, California, from 1914 to 1921. At the age of 36 he was appointed director of the Harvard College Observatory and he served in this capacity until 1952. He is now lecturer on cosmography at Harvard.

He has received honorary degrees from 15 universities in this country and abroad. He has been the president of eight nation-wide scientific organizations, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

His studies of Cepheid variables, stars whose periodic changes in brightness cannot be attributed to eclipses, led him to a new and superior method of determining stellar distances. He demonstrated that the Milky Way was some thousand times larger than had previously been supposed.

Midwest YRs Pick Rodgers, Rasmussen

Two University students were elected to Young Republican posts at the Midwest Federation convention held in Bloomington, Indiana, Friday and Saturday.

Gary Rodgers, sophomore in Business Administration, was elected treasurer of the 14-state Midwest Federation.

Del Rasmussen, sophomore in Business Administration, was elected secretary of the 5-state Mid-American Region.

'Hospitality' Attracts 600 High Schools Flock To Home Ec Day

Six hundred junior and senior Nebraska high school students will invade the Ag campus Tuesday for the 9th annual Hospitality Day.

The Day is sponsored by the home economics department of the University. "Blueprint of Home Economics" will be the theme for the day.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. with the introduction of University administrators and Ag faculty members. The rest of the morning will be spent touring the Ag campus, with a bar-b-que lunch scheduled at noon.

A style show presented by students of the home ec department, group singing led by Bill Bush and entertainment by the Ag Chorus, the Farm House Quartet and a piano-trumpet will provide bright spots in the day.

General chairman for Hospitality Day is Evonne Einspar.

Expressionism To Be Keiler Art Topic

Manfred Keiler, assistant professor of art at the University, will deliver a lecture at the University Art Galleries Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

He will speak on "Christian Roelofs, Pioneer of German Expressionism." Anyone may attend.
