Blind Daters Beware!

Upperclass Woe—Male Shortage

Attention old maids!—In other words, all coeds not going steady, pinned or engaged.
You are those that are associated with the title, "dating around." This group of coeds again must be divided into two classes; under and upper classmen.

It is you, juniors and seniors, that must read this article carefully, because you are the girls most susceptible to blind dates. After two years of going out with classmates and boys met during social functions, the male supply dwindles down to almost nothing. If you've gone through two years of dating and aren't pinned the men all seem to be classed as "old buds" or "losers."

The process coeds go through before blind dates can be generalized to fit almost all cases. Old friend Joe calls—"Hey Gayle, I've got a friend that just flew in from Hong-Kong—6 feet, handsome—a college graduate—a millionaire—old fraternity brother—and he's here visiting his grandmother—you'll double with Hannah and me and we'll have a ball!"

After this description of the American dream boy you're quite convinced you ought to go out. A few more questions and a little more reassurance from Joe about Bill's fine character and you're ready to go. You seem to know plenty about him in every respect.

There's only one more thing—don't forget to ask if he's married.

Publishing Course Offered

Radcliffe College has announced a six-week summer course in publishing for June graduates.

Students may "get their big break by taking this course" the college officials said.

In its 11th year, the Publishing Procedures course prepares recent college graduates for publishing careers. Divided equally between magazines and books, it will be held from June 18 to July 29, in Cambridge, Mass.

The faculty includes more than 40 leading publishing executives who discuss the kind of projects and problems they faced in the past and will face again in the future. Field trips, seminars and two workshops—one in type, paper and printing; the other in layout and design—supplement the classroom lectures.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from Helen Venn, Director, Publishing Procedures Course, Radcliffe College, Cambridge 38, Mass.

Outside World

Ike Vetoes Water Bill

President Eisenhower has vetoed a bill authorizing future construction of $1 1/2 billion worth of water projects.

The veto also ruled out the Nebraska projects. As a result, the Salt-Wahoo Water Assn. will try to get the omnibus flood control bill passed over the President's veto.

Eisenhower said his reason for not signing the bill was that it would have destroyed "some of the most important governmental policies in the field of water resources development."

Brown May Move Back

Although his home was gutted by fire Saturday night, Sherman Brown and his family may decide to move back into the house.

Police are still investigating the fire, which they term arson, by questioning neighbors and persons alleged to have made obscene remarks to the Negro couple.

LAFB May Receive School Money

A verbal agreement, which still needs to be confirmed by letter, has promised to grant Lincoln the full $845,000 for superintendent of schools Steven Watkins.

Watkins is in Washington at the present time, conferring with representatives of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

New York Gets Big Ashtrays

To help control the litter problem, fifty public ashtrays will be installed on New York City streets April 22.

The huge ashtrays, mounted on heavy pedestals, will be placed at bus stops and other sidewalk spots.

French Premier Falls

France was thrown into another political crisis Tuesday night when the National Assembly defeated the government of Premier Felix Gaillard on the Tunisian issue.

The Assembly rejected the British-U. S. plan for settling the French Tunisian dispute.

Gaillard was expected to hand in his resignation to President Rene Coty.

Navy Men Take "Space Trip"

Six navy men "left" Tuesday on a simulated space flight to outer space.

The six are sealed in a specially rigged chamber. They will remain under observation for 7 days.

The volunteer spacemen will be watched by biological engineering scientists.

Employment Increases

By April 1 Nebraska had 18,478 registered job seekers, according to the State Labor Department's Division of Employment Security.

This is 1,320 fewer than were registered a month earlier.
