Who Goes Where Residence Halls Operator Must Sort Boy Friends

"After a while you learn which boys belong to which girls," mused Mrs. Ida Cone, as she pushed one of the buzzers several times before the young man at the door reached the desk.

"But just as you get them down pat they up and change around," she added, looking up momentarily from the board flashing with small lights.

Mrs. Cone is the switchboard operator at the Residence Halls for Women.

She is also the most popular woman in the building every morning around nine-thirty — she sorts the mail.

Native Nebraskan

The native Nebraskan moved to Lincoln from her birthplace, Milford, at the age of thirteen.

She started to work at the Veteran's Hospital where she stayed for eight years.

"It was the most impressive job I have worked at."

Z Tau A Open House

Zeta Tau Alpha dedicated their new house at 420 University Terrace Sunday.

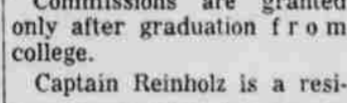

The sorority will hold open house for the whole campus from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, April 27.

Gal Marine Recruiter On Campus May 8-9

Captain Ruth F. Reinholz, Woman Marine Officer Selector, will be on campus May 8-9 to explain opportunities offered to college women by the United States Marine Corps.

Graduates and undergraduates, exclusive of freshmen, are eligible for the Women Officers Training Class which will open at Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., June 23. The training is conducted during summer vacation or after graduation.

Commissions are granted only after graduation from college. Captain Reinholz is a resident of Virginia and is a graduate of Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa. She has served 6 years in the Corps and prior to her assignment as Woman Officer Selection Officer, she was Commanding Officer of the Women Marines Detachment, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C.

Two Receive $250 Grants

Scholarships Laud Journalistic Talent

The Lincoln Star and the Lincoln Journal newspapers have both announced the winners of their freshman scholarships in journalism.

Each paper presented a $250 grant to a non-Lincolnite and two $100 awards to Lincoln students with journalistic background.

Gretchen Shellberg, a student of Omaha Central and associate editor of its paper, received the $250 Journal scholarship.

Elizabeth Morris and Patricia Dean of Lincoln were presented $100.

Norman Beatty, two-year editor of the Morrill high school paper, was awarded the $250 Star scholarship.

The Star $100 grants went to Charlotte Douglas and Ann Sowles, both of Lincoln.

Sig Alphas Hold Regional Confab

The Nebraska Lambda Pi chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was host and convention site to delegates and fraternity notaries this weekend.

Delegates from a three state region comprised of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota met for the biennial province discussions which began Friday afternoon and were concluded Saturday evening. General fraternity improvement was the underlying theme stressed throughout the discussions.

Prominent speakers and guests included Leo S. Kade, national president of the fraternity; Roy Miller, Province Tau president; Joe Walt, Province Tau vice president; Raymond Dein, national scholarship commissioner and faculty advisor; and various alumni association representatives.

she reflected, "The work was not heavy and it was interesting."

When her husband died about ten years ago she started to work for the University. She worked in the Administration department until four years ago when she began her present job.

Young Whims "Their young whims," she remarked about the girls in relation to her job, "are refreshing and they're what make my job interesting."

Photography is her main hobby. She relives her recent trip to Mexico every time she projects the scenic slides for her friends.

"Ever since my trip to France before I was married, I have wanted to travel and take pictures of everything I see."

I went to Europe to visit relatives," she clarified. "I enjoyed Europe and I would love to go back to France to visit but not to live," she said.

"Bridge clubs and Eastern Star provide me with outside entertainment and my parakeet, Buddy, and television give me all the at-home entertainment I need," said the silver-haired woman still busy at the board and phone.

"My two ambitions for the near future are to go to California and see my daughter and my three grandchildren, and to buy an organ," she said as she smiled at the boy approaching the desk.

Summer Jobs Made Available To Internationals

Full-time employment this summer will be made available to all foreign students who are in good non-immigrant F status, according to G. W. Roseniof, adviser to foreign students.

All such students must be in need of employment to supplement funds for necessary expenses and they must be enrolled in school for the next academic year.

In case general school practice will defer actual enrollment to late summer, the individual student's intention and eligibility to enroll for the next academic year will be accepted.

Students wishing applications may secure them from Teachers College 112.

Civil Service Plans Interviews

Andrew Comerford, recruiting representative from the 9th U. S. Civil Service Region, will interview students for governmental careers on April 28.

He will discuss opportunities for juniors, seniors and graduates through the Federal Service Entrance Examination. Over 170 different administrative, technical and professional positions in the Federal career service are filled from the list of those who pass this one general abilities test.

Students interested in employment with the U. S. Government can arrange to talk to Comerford at the Placement Office. Students with any major may meet with him.

'Roundup' Lengthens Win Streak

University Book Again Ranks High

Winning book contests is becoming a matter of habit for the University Press' "Roundup: A Nebraska Reader," which has been selected for the annual Fifty Books of the Year exhibition of the American Institute of Graphic Arts.

The book received the award Wednesday evening at the Institute's dinner meeting in New York, thus running its total of honors to 3 in the past year. "Roundup" was in competition with more than 800 books for the most recent award.

'Top Honor'

Earlier this year it was named as one of about 30 Top Honor Books out of nearly 300 entries at the ninth annual Chicago Book Clinic.

Published during the 15th anniversary year of the University Press, "Roundup" is a compilation of the writings of some 90 people about the elements which have produced the state of Nebraska.

Miss Virginia Faulkner, assistant editor of the University Press, and compiler and editor of the reader, stated that the book which was originally intended partly as a briefing to Nebraskans about the state they live in, intentionally emphasized present Nebraska.

About Present

Much about the pioneering days of the state has been written, she explains, but the Press staff believed it was timely and appropriate to publish a book with good readable material about the present.

The Fifty Books of the Year exhibition will be presented to the library of Graphic Arts Center of Columbia University for use by students and historians. Traveling exhibitions will begin in the United States, England and Canada after May 1.

Red Cross To Hold Awards Dessert

Red Cross outstanding workers will be presented at the annual Red Cross Awards Dessert today in Union parlors Y. Z. Leonard Peterson, field director for the Red Cross at the Lincoln Air Base will speak at the Dessert. Tickets are 45 cents.

Husker Art Will Boost NU Sports Spirit Campaign Goes Downtown

A new All Sports Day feature, May 10, will be a downtown store window painting contest for organized University houses and dorms, according to Richard Gustafson, speaking for the School Spirit Drive Committee.

There will be 2 divisions, men's and women's. Trophies will be awarded to the top 3 paintings in each category.

The scenes painted on the windows of the participating stores will follow the general theme "Husker Sports Cavalcade."

Preliminary sketches of the displays to be created on the store windows must be submitted for screening no later than April 30, said Maury Niebaum, committee member.

The windows to be used will be assigned by lot at a drawing on May 7, he said. Windows will be drawn for on a first come, first served basis; those who entered early will receive first consideration if there are not enough windows, he added.

"The contest will be held rain or shine," Gustafson said.

Pershing Rifles Will Visit Nike

Twenty members of Pershing Rifles, accompanied by their advisor, Capt. James Wheaton, went to Milwaukee Friday to compete in the Second Regimental Drill meet.

The group returned to Lincoln Sunday night.

Highlighting their stay in Milwaukee was a banquet, dance and a tour of a Nike installation in the Milwaukee area on Sunday.
