Attorney General Squelches Present North Platte Plan

In an opinion requested by Chancellor Clifford Hardin, Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck, ruled that the Board of Regents of the University does not have the authority to establish a branch of the University outside Lincoln.

Such authority would have to be granted by the Legislature, the opinion stated.

Beck further stipulated that the Board does not now have the power to enter into and carry out the proposed agreement with the Board of Education of North Platte.

No Comment
Dean of faculties A. C. Breckenridge said no comment on the matter would be made by University officials until after the May 15 Regents meeting.

He said, however, that he did not know whether or not the Board would discuss the reversal at this meeting or at any other future meeting.

Certainly it would not constitute a major item on the agenda, he said.

Request Made
Early in February many North Platte residents approached the University requesting a full-fledged center for University extension courses.

At the present time two of the 29 off-campus University extension courses are given at North Platte.

A program was proposed after a series of discussions whereby the University would assign five full-time resident instructors the first year and from 10 to 15 the second to North Platte.

North Platte residents would provide both the building and the custodial care.

Academic freshman courses would have made up the curriculum at the first center in the state.

The students would be enrollees at the University with no transfer required if they elected to continue their education here.

The present policy of having the off-campus instruction pay its own way would have continued.

More Education

"The plan, if it were to be worked out, would mean providing more educational opportunities for high school graduates," the Chancellor said.

The Beck opinion, squelching present hopes, at least for establishing the center, held that the Board of Regents is "but a mere governmental agency expressly subjected by the constitution to the will of the legislature."

The opinion pointed out that the board has control over University installations outside of Lincoln, such as the medical school in Omaha, but that the branches were established by the Legislature.

Banquet Kicks Off J-Week

Bluedorn To Speak At SDX Initiation

The annual initiation dinner of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalist fraternity, will gather professional newsmen from across Nebraska to hear Victor Bluedorn, the fraternity's national executive director, speak on "Freedom of Information."

The initiation will be the first event of a 9-day Journalism Week.

Bluedorn, who recently finished his 12th year as fraternity director, will tell of the battle being waged all across the nation by SDX against suppression of news.

Two journalism seniors will also present a discussion of "Freedom of Information" at the 7:30 p.m. banquet at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Mack Lundstrom and Jack Pollock completed a survey of the problems of Nebraska newsmen in obtaining information from government officials, meetings and similar news sources and will base their discussion upon this survey.

Before the banquet, the chapter will install new officers for the coming year.

The officers are Richard Shugrue, president; Lyman Cass, vice president; Bob Ireland, secretary; and Carroll Kraus, treasurer.

Eight students will be initiated during the evening. They are: Bob Ireland, Carroll Kraus, Don Willey, Del Hood, Ernie Hines, Sam Hall, Ron Speer, and George Moyer.

VanEngen Wins Design Contest

The winners of an architectural design contest, co-sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Lincoln and the department of architecture at the University, have been announced.

Bert VanEngen, a fifth year student in architecture, won first prize of $200.

Second prize, $100, was copped by James A. Johnson, third year architectural student.

Winner of third place, $50, was Richard Dunn, fourth year student of architecture.

The contest consisted of designing a one-story home for a residential section of Lincoln.

No Sunday Movie

There will be no Sunday Nite Movie this week because of Sunday's choral performance.

Musicianship Band Presents Awards

University band members received special recognition at the group's annual awards banquet Tuesday evening.

Awarded band keys for outstanding musicianship and service to the band were:

Lois Watson, second clarinetist.

Allen Ziegelbein, soloist. Frank Shaughnessy, senior properties officer.

Solo trumpeter, Duane Booth.

Stan Rudeen, engineering senior, retiring officer of Gamma Lambda, honorary band fraternity.

A special award was presented by Prof. Donald Lentz, conductor of University bands, to John McElhane, senior in law, a member of the band since 1949.

Straw hats and trellises carried out the theme of city band concerts of the 1890's.

Newly elected officers of Gamma Lambda for the coming year were revealed as: Jack Nyquist, president; Roger Schindler, vice president; and Terry Boyes, treasurer.

Band officers were announced as: George Eagleton, president; Terry Boyes, vice president; Tom Largen, secretary-treasurer; Bill Brannen, publicity; Norval Nicolls, properties; and Ruth Adams, ladies sponsor.

Scrip Open To Entries Until May 31

Manuscripts for publication in the second edition of "Scrip" must be handed in at Andrews 205 by May 31, according to Steve Schultz, editor of the new literary magazine.

"The manuscripts which we have by that date will be considered over the summer. We'll probably be open for more submissions for a short time at the beginning of next year," Schultz added.

He also expressed the hope that the magazine will be able to expand reader interest by "printing more articles on more subjects. We hope, for instance, that we'll have some music and art criticism to show our customers next year," he said.

Manuscripts submitted to the last issue of "Scrip" are available to the authors in the English department office in Andrews.

Aquaettes Pick Rae Beerline

Rae Beerline was elected president of Aquaettes, women's synchronized swimming organization at a meeting last Thursday, according to Mary Patrick, newly elected publicity chairman.

Well-Known Personalities Invited To Annual Banquet

Well-known Nebraska personalities will abound at the Greek Week banquet Thursday night.

Governor Victor Anderson, Mayor Bennett Martin, members of the Board of Regents and all fraternity alumni advisers will be present at the banquet as well as all past and present house presidents, according to Keith Smith, banquet chairman.

Dave Bernstein, vice president of Fruhauf Trucking Co. of Omaha, is guest speaker for the event. Bernstein is a past member of Innocents Society and a member of Sigma Alpha Mu and will speak on "The Role of the Greeks."

Reverend Thomas Dick of First Plymouth Congregational church will give the invocation.

Mass Initiation For 66 Planned

Sixty-six graduating home economics seniors will be accepted into the American Home Economics Association, Thursday, May 8, during the annual Home Economics Senior Tea.

Dr. Florence McKinney, chairman of the Home Economics Dept. and Dr. Rhea Keeler, president of the Nebraska Home Economics Association will perform the initiation ceremony.

"This is still a general meeting of the club to which all members may attend," said Alma Haeuermann, chairman.

The initiation will be held in the second floor lounge of the Home Economics Building at 4:00 p.m.

IFC Meeting

The regular meeting of the IFC will be held at 7:00 p.m. in Union 315.

Other highlights of Greek Week, which was expanded from Greek week-end this year, are the IFC Workshops. Workshop sessions wind up two days of discussions by three members of each fraternity this afternoon.

Mystery Race
A mystery tail-short race has been added to the events this year, Roger Rankin, co-social chairman of IFC and Greek Week co-ordinator, said.

Workshops Hit IFC Problems

Major problems confronting the fraternity system were discussed yesterday by a panel of 13 fraternity men in an IFC workshop.

Zeke Niebaum and Ken Peterson presided over the panel. Seven fraternities were represented.

Discussed were:
1) Better handling of disciplinary problems
2) Counteracting apathy
3) Degree of aid from national offices
4) Responsibility of the pledge trainer as "go-between"
5) The proposal to put "health week" on a constructive basis rather than a punishment basis
Two other IFC workshops are scheduled for today and tomorrow.

IFC Ball Goers

Given 2 A.M. Hours There will be 2 o'clock hours on Friday night because of the IFC Ball. No women may take overnights on this night without special permission.

Architectural Students Speak:

Plow Up Asphalt, Plant Culture!

By Marilyn Coffey
Staff Writer

"Plow up the asphalt and plant the seeds of culture," answered Eugene H. Wright and Marvin Vanek, graduating seniors in the department of architecture when asked how they visualized an ideal campus for the University.

Garden City Asked
"Create a garden city. Make Lincoln known as the University city. Replace the asphalt of the street with the green grass of malls," they suggested.

"Ponds and fountains, grassy malls and paved plazas" could be integrated into the campus.

The seniors took a break from their work, designing a heating central, and expounded on some of the long range planning that they would like to see.

Transitional Area
"Around the edge of every city center is a blighted area, which in the case of Lincoln, lies between the urban center of O St. and the city campus which begins at R St.

"The campus and urban area, rather than being opposed to each other, could be juxtaposed.

"A transitional area could be created between the campus and the city center where the blighted area now lies. This area could be a cultural center including art museums and a music hall."

"Tear down with a plan in mind; recreate with a plan in mind," they emphasized.

Asphalt Jungle
Pointing out the differences between the campus area and the city center, they noted that the campus showed planning and foresight while in the city there was no forethought in the planning and relation of the buildings to one another. Buildings were erected as they were needed.

The results of the differences in planning is easily seen. Associated with the campus is a "relaxed, informal atmosphere" for the most part while the city area was described by them as an "asphalt jungle."

"Proper planning," they emphasized, "could create a harmonious relationship between city and campus.

"Turn a bad thing into a good thing."
A buffer zone of greenery planted around the periphery of the campus would soften the transition in the north and western area from the campus to the industries located there.

Aesthetic Values
Garbage cans, telephone booths, street lights—all utilities should be redesigned to maintain the homogenous atmosphere obtained by the elimination of cars and the creation of the "garden city."

Asked about the cost of such a plan, Wright replied:

"At first glance, space-cost relationships would indeed seem exorbitant, but when the aesthetic values of such an improvement are weighed, the expense seems relatively less."
"An actual increase in the availability of space is possible," pointed out Vanek, "with the erection of buildings."
"Long Range Planning"
"A building which stands on columns or stilts will occupy no space whatsoever. The actual amount of space will double—there will be room for patios underneath and roof gardens on top."
Wright and Vanek agreed long range planning is necessary to accomplish a goal like theirs.
Such a project requires foresight on the part of the Board of Regents and businessmen plus education of the public.
"In the meantime, we'll go back to designing heating centrals!" they concluded.

Each house should send their tallest and shortest man Friday, and the details of the race will be explained just before it starts, Rankin explained.

The traditional chariot race is also scheduled for Friday afternoon.

Tickets On Sale
Tickets for the climax of the weeks activities, the IFC ball, are on sale now.

Queen for the evening will be the driver of the winning chariot Friday afternoon. Ralph Flannigan's band is on tap for the dance.

Rankin said that due to space limitations tickets will only be made available to members of IFC fraternities for the ball at Turnpike.

Tickets are $3.50 per couple for the May 9 Ball.

Workshop sessions on tap today are:
Parlor B Union, administration and interfraternity relations, Steve Leper, chairman.

Parlor A, rushing, Harold Friedman, chairman.

No Raffle Snafu At San Fran U.

A car was raffled away at the University of San Francisco last week.

Was it illegal?
Did the contest have to be changed?

Did car dealers petition? Nooooo!!!
In fact the school's student legislature decided upon an unique means of boosting raffle ticket sales.

All parking tickets delinquent since the beginning of the semester could be paid for by simply buying tickets on a scholarship fund raffle.

The students paying their fines by buying tickets would receive receipts certifying the payment of their parking tariff.

Schedules Available

Printing Process Causes Delay

Enough schedules for fall classes are now available at the administration building for all interested students, according to Mrs. Irma Laase, assistant registrar.

The first shipment of schedules arrived Monday morning and were immediately mailed out to departments and advisors.

10,000 Schedules
"Ten thousand schedules were ordered for April 28" said Mrs. Laase.

The schedules available to students didn't arrive until Tuesday morning. They were gone within two hours.

A second shipment was immediately ordered.

The process the booklet must go through before the student receives it was given as the reason for the delay.

Extra Delay
Departments were to have submitted their schedules by April 7, however the difficulties as to new staff members and departmental budgets caused many departments to go over the deadline.

The printers had to make up proofs which were sent to each department. Before the final printing was completed, three proofs were made up and corrected.

After that, the pages had to be cut and stapled.

Schedules have been sent to Ag college and the college of business administration to make obtaining them easier for the students.
