Nation's Educators Like TV Teaching

By Eric Prewitt
Staff Writer

Pioneers are still active in Nebraska—pioneers in the field of educational television. The eyes of many educators throughout the country have been trained on the University's television-correspondence teaching program being conducted by the Extension Division and KUON-TV. According to Jack McBride, director of KUON-TV's operations, the program is unique in that the high school students in the program receive their total instruction in subject matter via television and correspondence study. Their local teacher acts only as a supervisor.

McBride said that students in 24 Nebraska high schools receive TV instruction in seven subjects. The students watch a lecture originating from KUON-TV's studios for 30 minutes and then work in class for 30 minutes using a correspondence syllabus. All work is then sent to the correspondence study teacher at the University's Extension division for evaluation.

The program was devised through the joint efforts of the Extension division, Teachers College, the State Department of Education and KUON-TV. McBride says of the program, "The potential looks great."

He adds that, "this could be a pilot project for the whole nation. We feel privileged to be able to experiment in this project."

Interesting observations of the program come from Niels Wodder of the University's Extension division, coordinator of the program.

Wodder had the opportunity to observe the program in action by visiting the participating high schools.

He reports that although problems remain to be ironed out in the TV-correspondence program, high school superintendents have been quick to praise the results.

Wodder adds that students seem to concentrate more and take better notes when participating in TV classes.

McBride and Wodder list the major aims of KUON-TV's program as being:

- 1) To provide subjects not usually included in the school's curriculum;
- 2) To provide instruction where qualified teachers are not available;
- 3) To enable schools to provide services they would otherwise find impossible to offer.

New York's Governor W. Averell Harriman recently said, "Use of television is one way of broadening and improving education, despite the limited number of qualified teachers. We must make better use of the teachers we have and television is one way of doing this."

ACP Poll Says: College Males Approve Women's Styles, Sack

Minneapolis — (ACP) — A cross-section of the student population in America's colleges were asked recently by Associated Collegiate Press' National Poll of Student Opinion to air their attitudes on various aspects of styles in men's and women's clothing. One of the queries put to the students asked whether they liked or disliked contemporary fashions in women's clothes. The verdict, as computed from poll results is that the majority of both men and women in our nation's colleges and universities agree they like present-day styles for women.

A slightly higher proportion of women like present styles, but equal proportions of both men and women don't like them. More men than coeds have not made up their minds on the subject.

The question asked by ACP was stated: DO YOU LIKE PRESENT STYLES IN WOMEN'S CLOTHES?

A tabulation of answers to the question is as follows:

Yes, like present styles

No, don't like present styles

Undecided

There is fairly even agreement among men of various college classes in liking and not liking the clothes American women are wearing. The notable deviants are seniors, who account for the smallest proportion of "likes" and the greatest proportion of "dislikes." Sophomores are more completely decided on the issue than any of the other classes. Only six per cent of their number won't commit themselves, as opposed to seven per cent of the seniors who prefer to remain silent and thirteen per cent of both freshmen and juniors.

A complete breakdown for men yields the following results:

Yes, like present styles

No, don't like present styles

Undecided

Sophomore coeds are most strongly in favor of present styles among their sisters in American colleges. Three-fourths of them like present styles, one-fourth don't like them and nobody is undecided. Freshmen coeds display the next greatest amount of support for today's styles with about a two-thirds to one-third split in favor, while senior coeds are even less favorable toward women's clothes today than are their male classmates. Only thirty-eight per cent of the senior women interviewed like present styles, and an even half don't like them. However, about an eighth of them are undecided, as opposed to the freshmen and sophomores who all have their minds made up one way or the other.

The class breakdown for coeds:

Yes, like present styles

No, don't like present styles

Undecided

Although more of the coeds in each class like present day styles than their male classmates, the freshmen, junior and senior coeds also hold a proportional lead over the men in not liking today's fashions. Only in the case of the sophomores do more men than women dislike the styles, and conversely, there are proportionally many more sophomore coeds who like the clothes they wear than there are men who say they like them.

Parasitologists Confer Today

The fourth annual Kansas-Nebraska conference on parasitology (study of parasites) of livestock will be held here today.

The staff of the University departments of animal pathology and zoology and the Kansas State College zoology department will meet jointly to coordinate research on parasites in progress at both institutions. Projects will be outlined and suggestions offered for improvement.

The session will get underway at 9 a.m. at the Animal Pathology building on campus. It will conclude with a special lecture by Dave Worly of the Kansas State College staff on "Use of Radioisotopes in Research on Drugs for Treating Parasites." Worly will speak at a special seminar at Bessey Hall on city campus.

Lincoln 'Blasted' By H-Bomb

The University campus, the entire Lincoln downtown business district and the Lincoln Air Force Base were hypothetically destroyed Tuesday when a thermonuclear bomb supposedly was dropped by an attacking enemy bomber.

Evacuation tests were carried out through the city, with all 883 of Union College's elementary, high school and college students being evacuated in less than 14 minutes.

Jurors Consider 'Diseased Mind'

Prospective jurors in the Charles Starkweather murder trial were asked Tuesday if they would give a verdict of innocent by reason of insanity if it is proved Starkweather has a "diseased and defective mind."

Defense attorney T. Clement Gaughan said "the burden is on the state to prove the defendant's sanity" in such a defense plea.

East German Colleges In Struggle

A power struggle between the universities of East Germany is shaping up with two sides entrenched for battle. The combatants are followers of the Marxist-Stalinist ideology and a mixture of Marxist and anti-Marxist professors, seeking to preserve measures of academic freedom.

The conflict has accounted for the flight of more than 80 professors and instructors into the western zone. The struggle began when East German Communist party secretary Walter Ulbricht made the universities a target for Communist reform.
