

Governor Says Kellogg Drive Ready To Start

JUL 11 1958

The fund raising drive for Nebraska's share of the cost of the Kellogg Center should get into full swing in the next few days.

That is the opinion of Gov. Victor Anderson, active chairman of the campaign.

The Governor met with Perry Branch, director of the University Foundation Tuesday afternoon to select local drive chairmen. Branch said the chairmen had been picked "mostly according to legislative districts."

As soon as these people accept their appointments the campaign will actively begin.

"This is the most important facility we've ever tried to build and I have more enthusiasm for this campaign than any I have ever been in," the Governor said.

"Our goal is that more than half of the amount needed will come from Lincoln," the Governor said.

He explained that since

Lincoln citizens would benefit most from having outstaters in town because of the center, he felt that Lincoln people would want to contribute most to financing the project.

George B. Cook, president of the Nebraska Alumni Association, whom Gov. Anderson recently appointed Lincoln campaign chairman, echoed the optimism of the campaign executive committee.

"The few contacts that I have had with people who know about the project have shown a lot of enthusiasm and we have received very generous donations," Cook said.

Other executive committee members appointed by the Governor are Jack N. Thompson of Lincoln, chairman of the statewide committee; J. G. Elliott of Scottsbluff, outstate chairman; and J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha, Omaha chairman.

Sentry Dogs, Planes, Included In SAC Nite

Sentry dog demonstrations will be one of the highlights of "Sac Night", today when Summer Sessions students tour Lincoln Air Force Base.

The group tour which is being sponsored by the Union will also see a KC-97 Air Refueling Tanker which will be opened for inspection and a B-47 Strato-Jet Bomber.

All interested students should sign up in the Union Activities Office. A bus will leave the Union at 3 p.m. for the air base.

The 3-hour tour which will take the group all over the base, will end with a Smorgasbord at the Officers' Club. The cost of the meal is $2.

Base officials said that these tours were means of better informing the public about the operations of Lincoln Air Force Base and Strategic Air Command. In this way, they said, the people can actually see where their tax dollar goes.

"Sac Night" is a part of the News Highlight Series. The tour is limited to 75 people.

Facial Mudpacks Await Huskerland

The face of the University of Nebraska will receive another uplifting next week when the temporary Student Health building disappears and the old pharmacy building begins falling. They are the latest victims of the University's keyword, "progress".

The scar left by the destruction of the old pharmacy building to begin July 14 will be filled by the construction of the Sheldon Art Gallery. The architect for the art gallery has been chosen, and construction is scheduled for some time in the near future.

'Modern Approach' Termed Meet Goal

Some 800 Nebraska teachers are meeting here this week in a conference dealing with "A Modern Approach to the Education of Children and Youth"

According to Frank E. Sorenson, director of Summer Sessions services, the purpose of the annual conferences is "to make it possible for teachers enrolled in summer school and teachers out in the state to learn about some of the current issues in education and examine some of the solutions to these issues."

Dr. Sorenson added that this year's conference will be concentrating on freeing the capable teacher for experimenting in research for better teaching methods.

The conference, which began yesterday and will be concluded this afternoon, is presenting two of the nation's outstanding educational leaders, Dr. Ernest O. Melby of Michigan State University and Dr. Harold Spears of San Francisco.

Dr. Melby is the former dean of education at New York University and new distinguished professor of education at Michigan State University. His other positions have included chancellor of the University of Montana, and president of the Montana State University.

Dr. Spears is superintendent of San Francisco schools, the author of numerous books on education, and U.S. representative on an international curriculum planning committee for UNESCO.

The first address of the conference was given Wednesday afternoon by Dr. Melby on "Education for the World of Tomorrow." This morning Mary Field Schwarz, national 1957 "teacher of the year" from Independence, Mo., spoke on "The ABC's of Creative Teaching." Dr. Spears also spoke on "Some Current Approaches to Instruction."

Frank E. Henzlik, professor of School Administration and former dean of Teachers College, addressed the conference this morning on "Essentials of Superior Teaching"

In the Luncheon Session from 12:45 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. Dr. Spears will speak on "The Current National Interest in the Curriculum."

This afternoon's program will consist of a discussion session from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The two-day educational conference is sponsored annually by the university, the State Department of Education and the Nebraska State Educational Association.

All Teachers College classes have been dismissed for the Conference.

Reinhardt Reaches Millions With Starkweather Study

Published by more leading newspapers than any of the Associated Press' Sunday news features June 8, was an article by Dr. James Reinhardt, professor of criminology at the University.

The article was an analysis of the mental makeup of Charles Starkweather, recently convicted for the first degree murder of Robert Jensen. AP reported it was published in 70 percent of the major papers checked by its New York office.

Odell Hansen, bureau head of Lincoln AP, commented on the "exceptionally fine score" received by the news feature.

"The best played story will run generally 60 to 75 percent," he said.

Such a high percentage of publication, explained Hansen presumably means the article was exposed to several million readers.

Many letters have been received by Dr. Reinhardt from these readers. Some came from "fanatics," the criminology professor said, and from people who "couldn't even spell cat."

One reader who could spell was J. Edgar Hoover, FBI head, who wrote congratulating Dr. Reinhardt on his article.

Dr. Floyd Hoover Has Heart Attack

Dr. Floyd Hoover, director of admissions at the University Wednesday was "resting well" after a coronary thrombosis Tuesday night. Dr. Hoover was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital where hospital officials said he "had a good night."

Voc Ag Leaders Discuss Coops

Leaders of the Vocational Agricultural Association have been meeting July 7 through the 10 at the Union.

Frank Robota of Iowa State spoke Tuesday on "Cooperative, What Are They and Why Are They Needed." Wednesday panel discussion topic was "Cooperative, What Are They Doing." In the afternoon Gale Anderson, Secretary of Nebraska Cooperative, spoke on "Vertical Integration in Agriculture."

Speaker today will be Harold Walker, Vocational Agricultural Instructor of Arkansas City, Kan., who will speak on "The Project Methods of Teaching Cooperation as Used in Kansas."
