VOL. 33, NO. 2 LIBRARY

The Daily Nebraskan

Tuesday, September 16, 1958

THE FIRST DAY of class found some people just unable to get back into the swing of things. Here, Bill Blake, Jr. from Boston, Mass., (foreground) heads for his nine o'clock five minutes late while an unidentified underclassman tries to make up for lost time.

Debate Squad Preps For Atomic Question

Team Returns 15 Experienced Hands; Top Frosh Expected

The University's verbal bat-| University of Iowa speech intlers will begin preparing for structor, and two graduate asthe 1958-59 debate campaign sistants. late this month.

Nuclear weapons testing, pro and con, will be the subject the squad will tussle over with other college debate debates. The usual average for Nebraska squads is about teams from all parts of the United States.

ren, Nancy Copeland, Barbara Bacon, Phyllis Elliott, Susan

Goldhammer and Judy Lang. Dick Shugrue, George Moyer, Don Epp, Ernie Hines, Rennie facilities at the new Univer- gear its health program to Ashleman, Don Binder, Mel-vin Eikelberry, Bill White and Instead of sign posts indi² tory. The out-patient depart-student through a two-way Gary Hill.

Olson said he planned a general meeting for all perple Building. It will begin visions. at 7:30 p.m.

Olson emphasized that all and 35 persons. Olson said he posted over each door. had hopes for a strong group of freshmen debaters, including the championship Nebralast year from Lincoln South- Open New ska high school debate team

Olson will be assisted by Carl Harshbarger, a former NU Housing Almost Full Men's Dorms Reach Capacity ing stalls.

Burr Hall and men's co-ops days, Billings said. were taken as of today ac-

Not New Ocurrence The "full-up" situation is not a new occurrence this year, Westover commented. Hives, Dates—New Student Week year, Westover commented. As far back as he recalled, Westover said the Quad had been filled to capacity. The Residence Halls for Women is housing some 50 more coeds this year than last, according to Helen Snyder, dean of women. Last year at this time 450 coeds lived in the Halls compared to some 500 now. This figure is still 50 short of the dorm capacity.

Until the opening of Piper Hall last year, the Residence Halls were inadequate for the number of coeds seeking housing, Dean Snyder commented. Love Memorial Hall, holding 48-50 coeds, and Fedde Hall, holding 70 are both filled, Miss Snyder said.

"Believe me, we are full," said Madeline Girard, Panhellenic director.

Some 490 women are living in sorority houses on campus. Capacity would be about 500,

Miss Girard commented. The 490 figure compares with about 478 at the same time last year, indicating little change in the sorority housing situation.

No break-down is available on individual sorority houses. No figures are available at this time on fraternity hous-

Muddled Monday Throws Scholars

By Ned Totman Daily Nebraskan Reporter

Weary, hot students trudging back and forth across the campus marked the end of the first day of the 1958-59

The day was a jumble of unfamiliar classrooms, strange and ominous professors, unexpected assignments, a search for at least one familiar face in the crowd and confusion over lost class-cards.

Sizing Up

Bewilderment was not limited to freshmen, as students sized up profs, and the men behind the diadems pondered the amount of intelligence lurking behind each face.

Students looked at professors, then each other, picked up their pencils, and began to write, resigning themselves to the fact that summer was over, school had begun and here they were.

For some, this was a challenge to be met and mas-tered. To others it was old stuff, here to be done with the best of their abilities. And everyone, students and teachers alike, was tired at the end of the day. "I forgot my counselor's name," moaned one freshman,

"and have two classes at the same time."

A junior and senior laughed together at the seeming confusion of the underclassmen, turned, and rushed into it

Coffee Majors

An hour's break here and there during the day found the Crib packed with the coffee-break majors, coke-sippers, cotton-mouthed cigarette smokers, coke-daters and bull

Assignments to be done, books to be bought and read, papers to be written, and last year's lessons to be reviewed so that this year's courses can be successfully met, signified the end of the first day of school.

"Well," said one sophomore to another, "things could

"They are," answered the other. "This is the second day."

Don Olson, director of debate, said about 15 of last Color Blind: Keep Your Health; season's debaters are in school again this year. This includes six girls: Eileen War-Directional Lines Tell Sick Where To Go

Last season the University

cating where to go and when, ment is set up to diagnose ailthe new He alth Center ments early, thus halting the boasts colored directional majority of diseases in their opened by the nurse, and the sons interested in debate lines inlaid in the floor to Sept. 25 in room 210 of Tem- direct students to various dilines inlaid in the floor to infant stages, he said.

Follow Lines

should attend. He said no pre- needs an X-ray, he follows added. vious experience is necessary. the green line to X-ray. Some The University debate squad thought has been given to the normally numbers between 25 color-blind few, and signs are

NU Parking

Two new lots will soon be available for faculty parking. One lot, located immediately northeast of Student Health, is finished now, according to C. B. Billings, landscape architect. The lot will provide 30 faculty park-

The other lot is located on cording to R. Van Westover, vides 360 more paved parking is included in the new Center. assistant dean of Student Af- stalls for faculty and off-campus students, Billings added. !

By Sondra Whalen

Staff Writer

Some are ready to go through again, some think "it's got to go" and others are

These are just a few of the freshman reactions to that whirl called New Student

Pat Dean, Arts and Sciences freshman,

"I hate to stand in lines for hours and

Ron Ingersoll, freshman in Teachers

He thought that meeting advisers and Pulling cards was termed a "mess", by

Rodney Hansen, freshman in Arts and "I thought everything else was a lot of Georgean Grabbe, freshman in Agricul-

"No one will accept a check without an ture from North Platte thought ID cards fun though," he said, "and the convoca-

Sciences from Battle Creek.

tions were really interesting!"

should be issued sooner.

ID card," she explained.

hours, but outside of that I've had a ball.'

from Council Bluffs, Ia., was "all worn out from running from one side of campus talking with them personally was an ex-to the other."

cellent idea.

from Lincoln, claimed that it had given bewildered by the entire thing, he explained. Through the or-Follow Lines ganized houses and dorms Mr. Mum persons interested in debate in an examining room and to take care of himself," he

The new hospital is not equipped completely yet, he said. Much of the equipment is from the old building, but the beds have been replaced.

More Rooms The rooms themselves are ter. Sixteen two-bed rooms president. represent an increase of four over the old Center. Each room is equipped with its own fresh air intake and temperature control, a stainless steel wash basin, showers, some of which are shared between two rooms, and beds which have two-way speakers for communication with the nurse on duty. No vacancy is pretty much the site of the old Student the by-word in University housing circles.

Sliding walls divide each of several spacious consultation and examining rooms. A din-Sliding walls divide each of All rooms in Selleck Quad, completed within the next few ing room for special diet students unable to take their The Elgin parking lot pro- meals in the dorms or houses

> Mystery Students needing attention

Affects Frosh in Strange Ways

If you're color blind and | Dr. Sam Fuenning, direc- after clinic hours need not be Returning men include: sick, you're in bad shape. At tor of the Center, points out alarmed by the "mystery least if you try to use the that the Center is working to voice", Dr. Fuenning warned. When the doorbell rings, the patient can expect a loud buzz

"We stress immunization," as the door opens, he added. Is Here

Page 2

Council To Meet

Student Council will hold its

The meeting will be at 4 p.m. in Union 315.

Council business will include the organization of the Student Council orientation program, discussion of the Scrip Sets Spring Day Committee selection and selection of Student October 17 Council committees.

Library Hours

Love Library hours this year will be from 7:50 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 7:50 a.m. to 4:50 p.m. Friday and Saturdays; and frem 1:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Sundays.

"It's great!" Lowell Bowman, freshman in Business Administration from Linocln exclaimed. "I've just had a good time except that I've had my feet stepped on

Nancy Zimmer, freshman from Falls

"It was a little confusing to me, being from a small town, but pre-registration

Shaking his head sadly, Denny Taylor,

"It's got to go! I feel like I've been through the Civil War. It took two hours to get through Student Health, and four

Pat Barrett, a freshman from York in Home Economics, and Marilyn Winter,

Lincoln freshman in Teachers both

"I think the convocations could be cut

Perhaps the most enthusiastic student was Rich Shuman, Lincoln freshman in Arts and Sciences who said the week had been "terrific, great, and absolutely not

"And do you know why I think it's so great?" he asked. "Because I've had a date every night this week!"

hours to see my college counselors."

thought the week could be cut down.

down to one," Miss Barrett suggested.

freshman in Arts and Sciences from Lin-made everything faster and easier."

City in Teachers liked the idea of pre-about four times this morning."

registration.

confusing!"

... NU-O Street Unite In Campaign

By E. E. Hines Editor Nebraska wants better athletic teams.

Cornhusker squads need

These were the big con-cerns of more than 200 Linsity students who attended an Howard Lynch are co-chair-Extra Point Club breakfast men of the Lancaster drive. Monday at the Cornhusker In addition, ward cap-Hotel.

"Help comeback with the greenback" was the first theme of the meeting, which formally started a concentrated drive in Lancaster County to raise between $1520,000 to be used as grants- | those present who plan to aid in-aid for University ath- | the campaign.

letes.

better financial and spiritual Community Chest collections. sity dorms. Presidents of stu-support from fans. Former Husker footballer Bob dent organizations, fraterni-Wagner of Lincoln is over-all ties and sororities will be president of the club. All - asked to do the same in their coln businessmen and Univer- American Bob Reynolds and groups.

tains have been named. Student Drive

There is no place like NEBRAS

University students wi:l also start a drive this week on campus to help raise funds for the Extra Point Club. for the Extra Point Club. Phelps said he was enthu-Leaders of numerous student stastic that the club, now organizations were among

Membership in the club is

The drive has been organ- $1. Corn Cob and Tassels plan ized on the same principle as to carry the drive to Univer-

> Thurston Phelps, a former Husker quarterback, made it clear that raising money was not any more impor-tant than "stimulation of the old Cornhusker spirit."

starting its second year, will get full support from students as well as alumni and fans throughout the entire state.

He said that chairmen have been appointed in all of the major counties in Nebraska, but he emphasized that Lancaster County and the University campus were the key

Spirit Pledged

Bill McQuistin, yell king, pledged increased spirit on campus. "We'll start the Penn State game with something hard to beat. The students will be out in force for the team and with an alum cheering section to aid us, the football team will know we're there."

McQuistin was optimistic that the "Mile of Scrolls," an endless number of pages signed by Nebraska backers, will be ready for the Penn game. Scrolls have been circulated around Lincoln as well as in all student housing

Bill North, president of the N Club, urged strong attend-ance at the football games and predicted a better than expected season if fans back the team.

Bill Orwig, University athletic director, reminded the group that 'spirit engen-dered by an organization like this is much greater than the money collected."

He said the idea for the club came from Joe Yetman, a Husker fan who had moved to Nebraska from the east only about a year before. Orwig liked the idea and the drive was started late in the season with the aid of several Lincolnites.

In the first year, $4,500 was collected and donated to the athletic department. An additional $500 was kept to use as an operating fund. More Grants

Orwig said grants-in-aid have already been increased, noting that more than twice as many freshman football players are receiving scholarships this year than a year team has worked as hard as

It was stressed that Nebraska had successfully recruited about 60 athletes during the winter, partially due to increased scholarship

Dick McCashland, football team captain, was presented a scroll from the club wishing good luck to the 1958 football team," and stressing that fans would stand behind the McCashland said he realized that Penn State would be a lot bigger than the Huskers, but reminded everyone that "the bigger they are the harder they fall."

Chancellor Clifford Hardin and Dean J. Philip Colbert were also among those at-

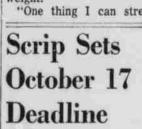

Beauty Queen Appears In Look Judy Lang, Alpha Phi

sophomore in Arts and Sciwant to print stories and po- "It's an injustice," he de- ences, is featured in a fouretry, of course, but we also clared, "to have a boy on page color spread, "The hope to print more criticism campus four years and not Changing Coed," in the forthcoming issue of Look Maga-

Miss Lang and 13 other coeds from 7 Midwestern Universities are described in the article as "beautiful girls" University theatre patrons combining "looks with in-will sit in "cool comfort" at telligence," part of a trend a film at the 3 p.m. meeting plays and operas next spring. of coeds to "regard college as Sunday of the Lincoln Chap- Air conditioning is being more than a place to find a husband.'

The colored illustration of major at the University of The cost of the project will Nebraska, wants to study in

Miss Lang participated in the air conditioning might be several beauty contests on tested this winter if a play the University campus, She redecorated and enlarged, should be presented on a very was a 1958 Cornhusker Beauty itor of the magazine.

An envelope to receive sub- Olson, tackle. mitted material has been placed outside the office of Robert Hough on the second braska's schedule was the floor of Andrews Hall. Manu-toughest in the Big Eight. scripts may also be given to Then, reviewing the recruit-Schultz at the Phi Kappa Psi ing program, he said that in-

of the magazine last spring freshmen, footballers, "with was highly successful and was some good potential and sound a near sell out within four academic backgrounds." days of publication.

and general essays."

The first issue of the magazine this year will be published in November.

Dr. Gordon E. Gibbs, professor of pediatrics, will show ter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation. to attend. The meeting will be held in Parlor X of the Student Union.

at 1520 R.

Service is cafeteria style.

Staff members are invited

Faculty Luncheons Luncheon service is now available at the Faculty Club

The dining room has been have him graduate." Cool Theatre Due By Dec. 1 installed in the theatre and director's office for use next spring and summer. It should Miss Lang shows her in a be finished by Dec. 1, accord- swimming pool. The caption ing to Charles Fowler, direc- reads: "Red Cross swimming tor of division of Buildings teached Judy Lang, 19, art and Grounds.

be approximately $18,000, Paris." Fowler said. He added that Miss warm day.

CORNHUSKER COACH Bill Jennings addresses the Extra Point Club kick-off banquet in the Cornhusker Hotel Balireom Monday morning. Jennings told the gathering of approximately 200 business men and campus leaders that his squad was one of the most spirited he had coached.

Big Penn Squad May Tilt Field

Jennings Views 1st Opponent At Extra-Point Breakfast "The Penn State squad is so big that when they walk out on the field they may tilt it." This is the way Bill Jennings, Nebraska football coach, the most striking feature of first meeting Wednesday, ac- summarized the Huskers first opponents this season. Speakthe fully air-conditioned Cen- cording to Gary Frenzel, vice- ing at the Extra Point Club breakfast, he said that Penn State definitely will start the game

Six Sophomores

The Husker coach said six

He also pointed out that to suit up for practice last

All Big Eight contender Don

Jennings said he selt Ne-creases in grants-in-aid have

The coach emphasized that with superior depth and Jennings said, is that this weight. "One thing I can stress," any I've been with."

sophomores may start rext Saturday, and four more will be in the second unit. Nebraska was not very deep as only 39 players were able Manuscripts for "Scrip," the campus literary magazine, Saturday. The team has alwill be received until Oct. 17, ready been hard hit by inaccording to Steve Schultz, ed- juries, including the loss of team-win or lose.

Schultz said the first issue helped. Nebraska. obtain. 55 tending the breakfast,

"This year," he said, "we hope to continue our policy of athletes should be sound both varying types of material. We on the field and off the field.

Research Film