Topnotch Frosh Squad

Schmakel Happy With Yearlings

"This is the top squad from a physical standpoint that I have seen in my 10 years of college coaching."

That is how Warren Schmakel, freshman football coach at Nebraska, described the Cornhusker yearlings this week.

Kiffin

Schmakel had reason to be happy because among the top frosh candidates who have reported to him are five heralded tackles, a pair of top-notch centers, and four hard-running backs.

Big Tackles The tackles, who each tip the scales over 200 pounds, are Monte Kiffin, much sought after tackle from Lexington; Warren Dobry, Schuyler; Ken Dostal, Scribner; Al Fischer, Princeton, Minn.; and Duane DuBois, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Dostal, who earned eleven letters in different sports at Scribner high school, is the heartiest of the group at 225 pounds. He stands 6-5.

DuBois, a 6-3, 220 pounder, established an outstanding record during his high school days at Niagara, N.Y. He was voted the outstanding linesman in the New York state high school all-star game at Buffalo.

Checking in at 215 pounds were Al Fischer, Princeton, Minn. and Monte Kiffin, Lexington's high school All-American.

American. Fischer stands 6-1 1/2, while Kiffin is 6-3.

The "midget" of the five tackles, at 200 pounds, is Warren Dobry a 1957 All-State tackle from Schuyler. Dobry, who was born in Canada, received an University of Nebraska Regents scholarship.

A pair of Ohio prep grid stars, Jed Rood, Columbus, and Bill Slacas, Cleveland, are among the center candidates reporting to Coach Schmakel.

Rood, a 6-0, 185 pounder, was an All-City center selection at Columbus in 1957, while Slacas, who played in the Ohio All-Star game, was an All-East Ohio center in 1958.

Jack Conger, two-time Gold Medal winner in the hurdles at the Nebraska State High School Track Championships, is one of the hardest running backs reporting to Schmakel. Conger earned 10 letter while attending Aurora high school.

Star Quarterback Among the frosh quarterback candidates is Fred Henning, Toledo, Ohio signal-caller, who played in the Ohio North-South All-Star prep game this year.

Another high school All-American included on the Cornhusker freshman roster is Noel Martin, Clay Center, Kansas a All-State halfback. He was a teammate of another Scarlet yearling, tackle Monte Kiffin, in the Memphis contest.

Pat Clare, Sioux City, Iowa fullback, one of the Hawkeye State's better prep candidates, Bill Leifur of Bismarck, N.D. had straight A's in all four years of high school. He finished first scholastically in a class of 241.

Eighteen states, including Nebraska, are represented on the freshman roster. The states are: Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, North Dakota, South Dakota, Indiana, Arkansas, Washington, Kansas, Missouri, New York, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Montana, Minnesota, and Texas.

Schmakel will head up the freshman staff. He will be aided by Jack Braley, ends; Bill Schabacker, tackles, and Bill Smith, Husker wrestling coach, who will coach the guards and centers.

Big Seven Roundup— Mitchell New K.U. Mentor Jayhawks Weak At Guards, Tackles

By Randy Lambert Sports Editor

In five years as a head coach, Jack Mitchell, Kansas' new boss, never has undergone a losing season. In fact neither of his two Wichita squads nor his three Arkansas teams ever dipped as low as .500. The precedent is one of the most interesting items surrounding the K.U. squad.

The quarterback spot could become acute if Bob Marshall does not recover completely from a knee injury. Mitchell will run the sliding-T formation with no experienced quarterback if Marshall doesn't hold up.

Kansas lost no irreplaceable all-round football players from the 1957 squad, but they did lose some players whose individual talents may be hard to replace. In the line they will miss Guards Paul Swoboda and Bob Kraus along with tackle Frank Gibson, an all-conference selection in 1956, and Jim Letcavits, all-conference end for two years who incidentally caught the winning touchdown pass against Nebraska last homecoming.

Among those lost from the backfield are Charlie McCue, John Francisco, Don Feller, and Larry Carrier. And most of all, Wally Strauch's passing from quarterback.

If Marshall doesn't hold up at quarterback, then possibly Duane Morris and Larry McKown may fill the quarterback gap. Morris can deliver in the clutch as he sparked winning rallies against both Colorado and Kansas State last year. McKown showed up

Better Year Forecast For Harriers

Four Veterans, Pep Sevigne Squad

Nebraska's cross country hopes will be bolstered by the return of five lettermen and three promising underclassmen.

With this in mind, Coach Frank Sevigne is optimistic over the Huskers' chances of bettering last season's sixth place finish in the Big Seven meet. The Huskers were 3-1 during the dual meet season, but with the illness of Joe Mullins before the big conference meet, the Huskers' chances were dimmed considerably.

Fleming Lost The one dark spot in the picture this year is the loss of Mike Fleming who performed brilliantly towards the end of the year. Fleming joined the Marines during the summer months.

Returning lettermen include Joe Mullins, Bill Melody, Knolly Barnes, Ken Ash, and Jerry Marples.

Joe American Horse, two time Gold Medal winner at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships in the mile, J. D. Schafer, Gold Medal winner in the 440 at the state carnival, and Ron Callan, 880 Gold Medal winner, head the list of promising sophomores.
