

MacLean Tips Burnett 12-9

Boucher Hits Manatt 14-8, Engineers Over Phi Epsilon Kappa, Gus II Downs Benton

MacLean had to fight from behind to win from a determined Burnett team 12-9. Burnett jumped to an early lead when they scored a safety in the first quarter. They followed with another score in the second quarter when "Pop" Weaver hit Hagerty with a touchdown pass. Neither team was able to score the rest of the second quarter and at the half Burnett left with a 9-0 advantage. MacLean Scores However, MacLean bounced back after the half to score late in the third quarter. Jenkins hit Linderholm with a scoring strike to put MacLean in the scoring column. They failed in their point after touchdown try and the third period ended with Burnett still on top 9-6. MacLean won the game in the last quarter. They scored the clincher when Linderholm threw to Jenkins, who ran over for the score. Again MacLean missed their extra point try. The win gave MacLean a perfect 3-0 win mark. Boucher Wins Boucher remained undefeated as they took a close game from Manatt 14-8. Manatt opened the scoring in the first quarter on a long pass play. Dennis Boesiger threw to Charlie Kress who ran over for the initial score. The extra point try failed.

The two teams battled on even terms throughout the rest of the first half. It wasn't until the third quarter that there was any more scoring. Again it was Manatt adding points when they hit for a safety. Down 8-0 going into the last period, Boucher had to rally to protect their undefeated record. They broke the ice with a long pass from Bob Lord to Dwight Boesiger that covered 40 yards. Lord also passed for the extra point. He hit Gerry Gemar in the end zone. Boucher made the winning tally in the waning moments of the game. Lord again threw to Dwight Boesiger.

The short pass was the successful climax to a last ditch scoring attempt. Gemar passed to Jim Wees for the extra point. PEK Loses The Engineers scored in every period except the second as they beat Phi Epsilon Kappa 21-0. Bob Benton was the big gun for the Engineers as he threw for three touchdowns and two extra points. He also ran for the other point after touchdown. Benton threw twice to Ron Livingston for six pointers and once to Ron Lowery. He also hit Livingston for an extra point. The other extra point was made on a pass to Dallas Drda. Phi Epsilon Kappa had a hard time mustering any kind of an offensive attack due to the hard charging Engineer line. However, PEK threatened in the third quarter until their attack fell apart when Ken France, PEK tailback, was thrown for a loss. France completed several passes, but still PEK was held scoreless. Gus II Wins Second Gus II gained their second win of the season when they downed a good Benton team 9-6. However, they had to battle from behind when Benton blocked a Gus II punt and fell on it in the end zone. The first quarter score by Benton was their only touchdown. Behind 6-0 going into the second period, Dale Gray passed to John Bartels for Gus II's initial score. They took the lead when Gray was again the passer. This time he threw to Don Hiller for the extra point. The half ended with Gus II on top 7-6. The second half was fought on pretty even terms, but Gus II added insurance with a safety in the third period. Neither team was able to put across a score in the last period as the game ended with Gus II winning 9-6.

Harshman 'Star Of Week' Gets Award For Engineering Fourth Quarter Drive Against Iowa State

By Elmer Kral

George Harshman, who by now needs no introduction to Nebraska football fans, receives this week's "Star of the Week" award for his outstanding performance in Nebraska's 7-6 victory over Iowa State last Saturday.

Several Husker linemen deserve a good share of the credit including Roland McDole who caught the pass thrown by Harshman for the tying marker. It was Harshman, however, who deserves the most credit for leading the Huskers in the 4th quarter drive which led to victory. It was also his extra point kick which provided the margin of victory. In discussing the Iowa game, Harshman emphasized the fact that it was a team victory and that Nebraska's superior conditioning was the deciding factor in the 4th quarter play. He also noted that every man on the squad hates to lose ball games, indeed, a necessary ingredient for winning ball teams.

As nearly everyone knows, football players, especially quarterbacks, are not made overnight. Harshman's career attracted to Nebraska because of Glassford's reputation at Pittsburgh U. He played varsity ball for the Huskers in 1955-56 but then he dropped out of competition in 1957 because he was declared scholastically ineligible.

Many midwesterners associate the state of Pennsylvania with coal mines and Quakers. Harshman is quite proud of the fact that he is of German-Irish descent and he has never worked in a coal mine. His strong physical build is a result of farmwork during the summer months at Dickerson Run.

Off the field he is like any other student at Nebraska. He is married and a senior in Teachers College majoring in industrial arts and minoring in physical education. After completing college in the summer or next fall, he plans to coach in addition to teaching Industrial Arts in high school.

Looking toward the immediate future, he believes that the Kansas State game this week will play an important part in determining the degree of success that the Husker team will have this season. The team and the coaching staff take each game as they come, he declared.

Huskers Meet Hard Luck K. St. Wildcats

By Tom Davies

Nebraska will meet a frustrated bunch of Kansas State Wildcats Saturday in the annual Band Day game here. In both of their two previous games against Colorado and Utah State, the Wildcats won the statistics. For example: the Wildcats outscored Utah State 26-8, outrushed the Utahs 199 to 79. But they lost, 20-13.

In the Utah State game, Kansas State stopped itself four times with fumbles and intercepted passes. Coach Bill Jennings of Nebraska figures, in an average game, a team has from 10 to 12 scoring opportunities. If a team's own mistakes cost four of these, it greatly reduces the chances of victory.

Errors However, the day the Wildcats get rid of their own errors, will be the afternoon the K-Staters step into the win column. It could happen Saturday, according to Coach Jennings.

Fall camp conditioning has provided the Huskers with two victories in three starts.

They beat Penn State in the fourth quarter and repeated against Iowa State here Saturday.

It was the spirited defensive play of Nebraska's alternate unit that tipped the balance in favor of the Huskers over Iowa State.

Max Martz of Beatrice made a game-saving rundown of Chuck Lamson after the Cyclone fullback had broken away for a 75-yard run from the Cyclone 5. Iowa State was leading 6-0; it was late in the third period; and another touchdown likely would have settled the issue in favor of the Cyclones.

The Huskers have been using the pass sparingly, but effectively. A George Harshman-Mike Eger pass set up the winning touchdown against Penn State. A Harshman-Roland McDole flip for 22 yards scored the tying touchdown against Iowa State. The Cornhuskers have thrown only 17 passes in three games, completing 10 for 111 yards. Opponents have passed 31 times, completing 10 for 139 yards.

Harry Tolly has pitched perfectly, hitting seven for seven. Harshman has hit two for five, one for a touchdown and the other setting up a touchdown. Two Husker flips have been picked off by foes, but neither was thrown by the Husker quarterback.

Despite three hard games—Penn State, Purdue and Iowa State—the Huskers were all answering for duty in the early-week workouts. The hard conditioning workouts in the fall camp are paying off richly in this department, too.

The Huskers have been pushed around between the 20-yard lines, but tighten up as the foe nears the Nebraska goal. However, it has left the Huskers in the hole most of the time without much time for a free-wheeling offensive.

Jennings Wary Of K. St. Offense

By Norman Beatty

Coach Bill Jennings rates the Saturday's Kansas State battle as another, "knock down, drag out" affair.

From all scouting reports and films, K. State is definitely a passing team. They have thrown 50 times and completed 27 for a nifty .540 average in three games. However, not to be disregarded is the fact that Nebraska ranks 6th in the nation in pass defense.

Kansas State has a 1-2 record. The only win so far was a victory over Wyoming in the first game. The two defeats were at the hands of Colorado and Utah State on successive Saturdays.

Husker casualties were again light after the Iowa State clash. Pat Fischer, sophomore halfback, and Duane Mongerson worked out in sweat clothes Monday and Tuesday. "They seem to be a bit fatigued," commented the Scarlet and Cream mentor. Roger Brede, who suffered a broken wrist early in the season, will still be unable to play Saturday.

Jennings is optimistic about the approaching fray, but warns that, "Kansas State is a scoring team and it will take more than two touchdowns to win."

With all this in mind Husker fans can look forward to a fast moving, close game next Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

A film of the preceding Saturday's game is presented with comments on the game from J. G. Geier, gymnastics coach, and Dick McCashland, captain of the football team.

Soccer Team Wins

The University of Nebraska Soccer team won its second victory of the season by defeating the Germans from Omaha 1-0 on Sunday.

The Huskers, using a new defensive plan, dominated the complete 90 minutes of the game, largely due to the link play of Albert Arrigunaga, Marcell Anderson, and Herman Ridder in the midfield.

The only score in the game came in the first 10 minutes of play. Mansour Danashzabel completed a brilliant movement started by the link line of 3 players.

The Husker line up was: Loui Molnar, Martin Carancado, Fernando Lagos, Les Heathcote, Marcell Anderson, Herman Ridder, Tekung Lin, Albert Arrigunaga, Mansour Danashzabel, Martyn Bowden, Melak Mengesha and Harold Dremanis.

The Huskers will have a practice game this coming Sunday between first and second teams, in preparation for the game against the R.A.F. from Offutt on Oct. 19.
