Smooth Lines Banned At K-State Pinnings

MANHATTEN, Kans. - "Smooth lines" have been banned at Kansas State College.

Prior to the banning, friends of engaged or pinned couples showered their congratulations via kissing lines the evening of the announcement.

No More

But no more. It seems the custom isn't healthy. Reactions to the ban were instantaneous.

'You can vaccinate against a flu epidemic, but you can't vaccinate against kissing," commented the student health director at Kansas University.

The ban would be nearly impossible to enforce, the doctor said. Even if kissing is outlawed the director seemed to feel that it would continue in private.

At K-State Back in Kansas State, the Associated Women Students announced the result of discussions by members of sororities concerning the smooth lines.

If the Student Health, they decided, should declare an epidemic, smooth lines will be discontinued until the epi-
