

Editorial Comment

Campus Charity

Charity is something that most of us can't get away from and don't care to get away from entirely.

There is no doubt that continued contributions to charity after charity would soon lead one to the need of charity himself.

The AUF developed the idea of an independent solicitation drive to reach University students not in organized houses on campus.

This is undoubtedly a blow to the AUF officers, but the sororities are not to be condemned for their action. The endless number of activities and events which demand a student's time have grown to monstrous proportions.

The striking fact back of the action is that AUF stands to come up with $4,000 less this year than it has in the past.

The main thing is that in the midst of the controversy that naturally follows such action, we should not lose sight of the good done by our money when it is donated to the All University Fund.

Homecoming Queen

Homecoming displays are beginning to take shape around the campus. Work will continue until the last minute Friday evening when judging begins.

The Daily Nebraskan carried a short feature Monday on a few of the characteristics of homecoming queen selections at other campuses.

Here only junior members of Tassels are eligible to be candidates. On most campuses it appears that the fraternities, dorms and sometimes sororities get to sponsor candidates.

Here candidates names are kept as hush-hush as possible for fear that there might be some politicking or that the girls wouldn't feel nearly as thrilled if they were to discover more than a few moments in advance that they have been tabbed as finalists candidates.

Here, the queen rides around the stadium at halftime and reigns over the dance in the evening. Shortly after midnight she turns back into a Tassel.

The argument is not that the Nebraska system results in selection of poor representatives as homecoming queens, the argument is that the system is too limited, limited in the number of girls eligible, the campaigning they can do, and the publicity they receive as queen.

From the Editor

A Few Words of a Kind

... e. e. hines

And if you still don't think I hate women, check the social column. I have picked one out for personal persecution.

Pinnings are really very interesting affairs and for those of you who have never gone through the rigmarole I will explain the ceremony.

You stand around the house nervously waiting for the fatal moment. Got to talk to the housemother. Nothing to be nervous about. Time to go.

You get cigars, write a poem, leave work early, shine your shoes, button your suit coat so no one notices you aren't wearing your pin.

During the meal you sit in a dark corner. You look and act very casual. People about you see the cigars by the president's chair and speculate on who the fallen brother may be.

is getting pinned. "Long time since we've had a good pledge pinning," you say.

You finish the main course, drink your second cup of coffee, reject dessert and ask for a cigarette. A pledge stands up and announces that pledges will change into grubby clothes right after the meal to work on homecoming. They are in for a surprise, you think.

The president stands up and says, "Another brother has got carried away." He leans near the candle and begins reading your poem. People stop clattering dishes.

You stand around the house nervously waiting for the fatal moment. Got to talk to the housemother. Nothing to be nervous about. Time to go. You walk down the street in front of the brothers.

"When do we go?" you ask. "I don't know."

"Can we leave now?" "I guess so."

You grab her arm and double-time toward the door. She picks up her coat and then you dash outside.

Inside, your brothers start talking to cute sorority pledges. From this point on your mind is a blank. Huck Finn could never go back, you think.

NU Insect Study May Save Grain

By Marilyn Coffey Insect control research by the University may save Nebraska's grain industry several hundred thousand dollars loss each year.

A research project undertaken by University entomologists will study the following: Relative importance of insects causing losses in grains.

Control of these insects. Prevention of contamination of grains by birds and rodents.

The grain crops studied will include stored corn, wheat and sorghums.

The project, the first intensive study of its kind in Nebraska, was initiated this fall, said B. H. Kantack, University staff member in charge of the project.

Conditions providing the best samplings of grain occur in the fall and again in the late spring and early summer. During this time the peak populations of stored grain insects occur.

Importance of contamination-free products increases as the public demands cleaner cereal products.

Today, surplus grain must be stored for long periods of time under a variety of storage facilities.

More practical control suggestions should result from research on insects, Kantack pointed out.

Studies of climatic conditions throughout the state will be made. Areas most suitable for grain storage will be determined.

Surveys of stored corn and wheat are being taken this fall to determine the extent of the insect problem in these commodities.

Surveys next fall, Kantack said. Samples will be taken from country elevators, farm bins and terminal storage facilities.

Nebraskan Letterip

The Daily Nebraskan will publish only those letters which are signed. Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Letters attacking individuals must carry the author's name. Others may use initials or a pen name. Letters should not exceed 300 words.

Young Demos University Young Democrats will hold a work session Thursday at 7:15 p.m. in the Student Union.

FLOWERS FOR YOUR HOMECOMING PARTIES AND DECORATIONS FRESH AND CRISPY AT DANIELSON FLORAL CO.

On Campus with Max Stralman (By the Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy with Check.")

THE DRESS PARADE In all my years of observing coed fashions—and I have been arrested many times—I have never seen such verve, such dash, such Je ne sais quoi as can be found in this year's styles!

I am particularly enchanted by the new "baby waist" dresses which so many of you girls are favoring this season.

Another trend that leaves me limp with rapture is the oversized handbag. Goodbye to dinky little purses that hold nothing at all!

Did I say Marlboros? Certainly I said Marlboros. What girl can consider herself in the van, in the swim, and in the know, if she doesn't smoke Marlboros?

To return to coed fashions, let us now discuss footwear. The popular flat shoe was introduced several years ago when it became obvious that girls were growing taller than boys.

But science is working on the problem, and I feel sure American know-how will find an answer. Meanwhile, a temporary measure is available—the reverse wedge.

The reverse wedge is simply a wedge turned around. This tilts a girl backward at a 45 degree angle and cuts as much as three feet off her height.

Next we turn to hair styling. The hair-do this year is definitely the cloche-coif. One sees very few crew cuts or Irene Castle bobs, and the new Mohican cut seems not to have caught on at all.

Next we turn to hair styling. The hair-do this year is definitely the cloche-coif. One sees very few crew cuts or Irene Castle bobs, and the new Mohican cut seems not to have caught on at all.

In fact, I saw only one girl with a Mohican—Rhodella H. Sigafos, a sophomore of Bennington. Her classmates laughed and laughed at her, but it was Rhodella who had the last laugh, for one night a dark, handsome stranger leaped from behind a birch and linked his arm in Rhodella's and said, "I am Uncas, the last of the Mohicans—but I need not be the last, dear lady, if you will but be my wife."

Today they are happily married and run a candied-apple stand near Macon, Ga., and have three little Mohicans named Patti, Maxine, and Laverne.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Uncas and to all of you who have discovered the pleasures of Marlboro and Marlboro's sister cigarette, non-filter Philip Morris, both made by the sponsors of this column.

Daily Nebraskan SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD Member: Associated Collegiate Press Intercolllegiate Press Representative: National Advertising Service, Incorporated Published at: Room 26, Student Union Lincoln, Nebraska 14th & R

SATURDAY NIGHT Dance To THE NEVER TO BE FORGOTTEN MUSIC OF "THE SENTIMENTAL GENTLEMEN" TOMMY DORSEY ORCHESTRA STARRING WARREN COVINGTON PERSHING AUDITORIUM 8:30 - 11:30 $3 Couple