IFC Proposal—

Low Averages Could Get Frats Social Pro

A motion to place on social probation all fraternities who fall below the all-men's scholastic average two semesters in a row was placed before the IFC Wednesday.

Brent Chambers, chairman of the IFC Scholarship committee, stated that his motion had resulted from several meetings of the scholarship committee in which they had tried to arrive at a method to raise fraternity scholarship.

Gary Cadwallader, president of the IFC told the Daily Nebraskan:

"I think it's a very good idea.

"I feel that this will provide needed incentive so that the Greeks will attain the scholastic leadership that is expected of them."

Last semester the all fraternity average was 5.345. The top fraternity average was held by Farmhouse with 6.225.

Ten Below

Last semester ten fraternities failed to attain the all men's average: Delta Tau Delta, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Phi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Alpha Tau Omega, Acacia, Theta Chi, Beta Theta Pi and Phi Kappa Psi.

The lowest average earned by a fraternity was Phi Kappa Psi at 4.831.

Jack Muck, chairman of the council public relations committee, thanked all fraternities who sent volunteers to help with the Lincoln AUF solicitations.

Muck especially commended the AGR's who sent 14 men to help collect funds from Lincoln independents.

Parking Extension Unlikely

Exam Plans, 16th's Future Heard in Council Meeting

SC to Check Opinion on Finals; Organizations Slow on Constitutions

Apparently the two hour parking limits on 16th will not be extended, Jack Nielsen, chairman of the Student Council parking committee said at Council meeting Wednesday.

Nielsen said he understood that the city planned to widen 16th to run through to the new interstate highway.

Plans Indefinite
In checking with the city street department the Daily Nebraskan found that future plans for 16th St. as far as the city was concerned were "indefinite."

According to C. L. Fisher, city engineer, the University authorities have indicated they do not want to have the city widen 16th or 17th streets.

James Pittenger, assistant to the Chancellor, said that as far as he knew University authorities had never made any comments about the situation.

17th Possible Lead
Fisher explained that the original city plan by Harland, Bartholomew & Associates designated 17th as a lead into the business district from a proposed Northeast radial.

Naturally, Fisher said, since 16th and 17th are now oneway streets 16th could possibly be included in such a plan.

Five different suggested programs for a final exam schedule were discussed by the Student Council Wednesday.

They are:

1. Keep the present 8 day period with 3-hour exams.

2. Have the 8 day period with 2-hour exams.

3. Have the 8 day period with 3-hour exams with one free day at the beginning for study and review.

4. Have a 6 day period with 2-hour exams.

5. Go back to the two week period with 3-hour exams.

The council tabled the motion for a poll of student opinion on the matter for the second week in order to give each council member time to find out how faculty members and students felt about these possibilities.

Gary Frenzel, chairman of the council judiciary committee reported that the committee had drafted a second letter asking campus organizations for their constitutions.

He remarked that "some organizations have been writing their constitutions for 2 or 3 years—long enough for anyone to write a constitution."

AUTUMN LEAVES

LEAVES ARE much pleasanter to sit in than to rake, and sophomore Jo Simpkins takes advantage of the colorful tree-fall to show her smile to the Nebraskan photographer.

Military Ball—

'Jingle' Helped Miller Orchestra Vocalist Lorry Peters' Discovery

A singing jingle helped Lorry Peters, vocalist with the Glen Miller Orchestra, to be discovered.

Miss Peters, working as a secretary in New York, recorded a jingle for the Anco Company. Ray McKinley, director of the orchestra, heard the commercial and asked who had recorded it.

Remembered Lorry

Later, when he was looking for a female vocalist, he remembered the girl and the voice and he signed Miss Peters immediately.

She will appear with the orchestra at the Military Ball at Pershing Auditorium Dec. 5.

Born in Middletown, Conn., Miss Peters is 26 years old. She graduated from Syracuse University in 1954 with a radio major.

Singing was her earliest ambition. She took coaching lessons when she was three and appeared on kiddie talent shows for several years afterwards. Her vocal lessons began again at the age of 12, and were put to use in college and high school productions.

While attending Syracuse, she appeared in various clubs in town. Following graduation, she got a job as a secretary at NBC where she recorded the jingle. She has been singing with the Glen Miller Orchestra ever since.

Her favorite type songs are rhythm tunes because she says "I like a good beat behind me." She collects records, mostly vocals, but also enjoys popular and jazz discs.

The Lenny Hambro Quintet will also be featured with the orchestra when it appears in Lincoln. Other highlights of the ball will be the presentation of the Honorary Commandant and the three service queens.

Candidates

The nine candidates for Honorary Commandant will be revealed during the half-time ceremonies of the Pitt-Nebraska football game tomorrow.

The candidates were chosen by an election board comprised of cadets from each of the three ROTC Branches. Final election will be held Thursday, Nov. 20. Only those who have Military Ball tickets may vote.

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased at the Military Science Bldg., from Air Force cadets, or from any of several downtown merchants. Tickets will cost $3.50 per couple. An additional 25 cents will be charged for table reservations if they are desired. Spectators will pay $1.

Red China No Longer Mere Russian Satellite

"China is no longer a satellite," said Dr. Robert Sakai, history professor.

Speaking at the Thursday NUCWA meeting, Sakai said that many Americans are not aware of the growing importance of China. He suggested that all students should become interested in learning about the Far East.

Population Expanding
Dr. Sakai noted that the large population of China is expanding further at a rapid rate, but that many of the Chinese, who are eager to build up the reputation of their homeland, are finding ways to irrigate barren land and provide more food.

Red China is also making an effort to expand steel production and soon will be the fourth largest steel producing area in the world.

Dr. Sakai continued that though Red Chinese leaders are not "Moscow-trained Communists," they are Communist Party is small for organizational purposes, but millions in the area are willing to follow its leadership.

Many of the people live in communes. They give up all personal property, live in dormitories and eat in large common kitchens. Besides being an efficient means of feeding the people, this offers leaders the chance to reach the people easily and control manpower.

Nebraska Schools— Leadership Opportunity Never Better

More than 300 Nebraska school administrators were told Thursday that "educational administrators have never been accorded a better opportunity to show the measure of their leadership."

Speaking before the Nebraska Association of School Administrators at the University, Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, University dean of faculties, said, "Never has general interest been greater in what administrators are doing for institutions or in what they hope to do for their institutions."

Dr. Breckenridge said he had recognized a "new respect for good teaching and for the good teacher . . . and apparent strengthening of co-operation between various levels of education."

Dr. Frank Henzlik, professor of school administration, addressed the group this morning, and Dean Walter Beggs, of Teachers College, will speak this evening. New officers will be elected Friday evening. Dr. Merle Stones, University professor of school administration, is present secretary-treasurer.
