Hard to Handle

Kosmet Klub Is Ready For Annual Fall Revue

Three skits, five curtain acts and the crowning of Prince Kosmet and Nebraska Sweetheart will be the highlights of the Kosmet Klub Fall Revue tonight.

Curtain time is 8:15 at Pershing Auditorium. The 90-cent tickets may be purchased from any Kosmet Klub worker, in the Union office or a Union booth.

Three Main Skits

The three main skits include "Our History Beginning" by Beta Theta Pi; "Invention of the Wheel" by Delta Upsilon; and "Butt Really" by Theta Xi.

The wordless Theta Xi skit will portray cigarette and cigar butts in a stage-size ashtray the morning after New Year's Eve. Skit chairman of the musical is Roger Schindler.

Delta Upsilon goes back into history with a satire on the invention of the wheel. Jack Koberg, skit-master, is assisted by Jim Warrick.

'Eternal' Choice

Pluto, a god in the Beta skit, must choose the place where he would like to spend eternity—with the Eps, warriors; the Alphas, thinkers or the Rhos, drinkers. Directing the skit is Jim Thomas.

Curtain acts will include two quartets, one short skit and two surprise acts.

"Campus Characters," the short skit to be presented by Acacia fraternity, will depict typical persons seen on campus.

"The Discords," a Farm-house vocal quartet, includes Richard Timmerman, Ronald McKeever, Richard Waldo and Archie Clegg.

Another vocal quartet includes Phi Delta Thetas Jack Holmes, Bill Dermeyer, Bill Bowers and Mark Sorenson.

Plaques For All

First place trophies will be awarded to the skit and curtain act winners. Recognition plaques will go to all the groups participating in the show.

Candidates for Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet will be voted upon by all students attending the show.

Rag Luncheon

All members of the Daily Nebraskan and Cornhusker staffs may attend the Rag luncheon to be held this noon in Parlor X.

Colin Jackson, noted British humorist and world traveler, will be honored guest at the luncheon.

Closing Rules—AWS Notes—Vacation Regulations

AWS Board has sent all organized women's houses a letter containing the following rules to be observed for Thanksgiving vacation:

1. Organized houses and residence halls will be closed by 5 p.m. Tuesday.
2. If it is necessary for you to leave before Tuesday, you must obtain a special permission from your housemother. If you go home, you may return Monday morning in time for your first class.
3. If there is any change in plans in the time of your return, you must notify your housemother by telephone.
4. Please don't forget to sign out in your haste.
5. All houses will open by 3 p.m. Nov. 30, unless other arrangements are made in your individual house.

Follies Ideas Due Tuesday

Organized women's houses wishing to participate in Coed Follies must turn in the general idea of their skits by Tuesday.

"Dames Debut" is the selected theme of the Follies which will be held Febr. 27. Ideas should be given to Linda Wall, 1545 S Street, so completed scripts will not have to be rewritten if the themes are duplicated. Complete scripts will be due Dec. 8.

Kellogg Drive Adds $33,325

Businessmen Boost Total

An additional $33,325 has been contributed to the University Kellogg Center fund by Lincoln retailers and wholesalers.

The state-wide fund drive, which has a goal of $1.1 million, has now reached $386,325.

The Lincoln division earlier announced donations totaling $72,000. This would make their grand total $105,325.

Recent contributors include: Beatrice Foods Co.; J. C. Penney & Co.; Nebraska Book Co.; Lincoln Drug Co.; Hardy Furniture Co.; Hovland-Swanson Building Co.; Port Huron Machinery and Supply Co.; Kings Restaurants; Ideal Grocery; Safeway Stores; Western Supply Co.; Leon's Food Mart; Hinky Dinky Stores; Lawlor's Sporting Goods and Hardware; Latsch Brothers; C. W. Swingle Ltd.; Western Newspaper Union; Standard Market and George Towne.

The first report from the committee of the Nebraska Bankers Assn. shows that 61 outstate Nebraska banks have contributed $30,150 to the University project.

To qualify for the $1.8 million grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., the University must raise $1.1 million, the balance needed to construct the Center on the College of Agriculture campus.

More Spirit By Telegram Signup Aim

A campaign to increase the spirit of the football team and reflect the spirit of university students began Thursday in the Union.

A telegram signed by Nebraska fans will arrive in Norman, Okla. Saturday morning addressed to Coach Bill Jennings and the University football team.

The telegram will include the following message: "We want you to know that the entire student body stands solidly behind you today—win, lose or draw. Best of Luck!"

For a dime, to cover expenses, students may sign their names on the telegram. The telegram booth, manned by members of the Yell Squad and Corn Cobs, will be open in the Union until 4 p.m. Friday.

"We're expecting and hoping that a good percentage of the student body will add their names to the telegram," said Yell king Bill McQuistan.

NU to Host Y Conference

"Conscience on Campus," the YWCA-YMCA fall conference, will be held Saturday from 9:30 to 5 p.m. in the Union.

Total registration is $1.75 which will cover lunch and conference expenses. The featured speaker is Fred Vorce, supervisor of music at Wayne State Teachers College. Workshops on "Men and Women in the 20th Century" and "In Search of World Community" will be held in the afternoon.

Eight colleges will be represented at the conference. Orlin Donahoe and Doris Wilson, Rocky Mountain Region YWCA-YMCA executives will be on hand for the program.

Ag Seeing 'Changing Times' 'Farm Club Projects Need Expansion'

Approximately 300 persons attended the 49th annual conference of the Agricultural Extension Service.

The conference was held at the University Monday through Thursday.

Keynote speaker Gerald Huffman, assistant administrator of programs for the Federal Extension Service, Washington D.C., spoke on "Keeping Ahead of Changing Times."

Club Additions Needed

"Rural youth development through 4-H club and Rural Youth clubs will be stressed in the years ahead, but some club projects will need revision. Other projects must be added to the present 4-H club program to meet interests and needs of young people," Huffman said.

"Undoubtedly more attention will be given in the future to the skills and techniques of farm management as well as to production efficiencies. Other points of emphasis may include economic management in the home, resource conservation, marketing of quality agricultural products and matters of public affairs," he added.

Other speakers were Robert Stepp, head of audiovisual instruction at the University, and Dr. Richard Morse of the department of family economics, Kansas State College.

Visual Aid Wanted

In discussing "Teaching Methods for These Changing Times," Stepp emphasized the need for combining visual as well as audio communications to increase understanding.

"We must select means by which information can be conveyed clearly, accurately and efficiently," he said.

Stepp demonstrated communication means ranging from the spoken word to the picture, tape recorder, opaque projector, overhead projector and motion picture projector.

Emphasis on "Living" Dr. Morse told members of the Extension department that "Education must shift in emphasis, from problems related to 'how to survive' to 'how well to live.'"

He outlined five basic purposes of the family including perpetuation of the race, economic support of the population, revision of a satisfying home life for children, preparation of the child for adult self-discipline and provision of a buffer for the individual in a complex society.

The conference ended with a banquet Thursday evening.

Trenkle Named To Farm Group

Dwain Trenkle, assistant Extension editor of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University, is a member of the executive committee of Farm-City Week.

Nov. 21-27 has been proclaimed Farm-City Week by Governor Victor Anderson. The purpose of the week is to promote better understanding between people living in rural and urban areas.

Council Asks Tassels To Modify Procedure

By John Hoerner

The Student Council Wednesday recommended by an overwhelming majority that Tassels make a change in the method used to select the annual Homecoming Queen.

A motion introduced by T. C. Smith, chairman of the council activities committee, called for a letter to Tassels recommending the following:

7-Member Board

1. The interviewing board which now consists of three Tassels, Yell King, president of Corn Cobs, president of N-Club, and a faculty member be changed to include only one Tassel (the president), and substitute the president of Panhellenic and the president of BABW for the other two Tassels.

2. This interviewing board would send the letter to all organized houses and BABW giving all information on selection of candidates for the forthcoming election. This letter would have no recommendations or suggested candidates mentioned.

The motion was passed by the Council with only three dissenting votes.

The move was interpreted by Smith as giving Tassels a chance to make the change without making it necessary for the Council to take further action.

Tassels Defended

Joline Loseke, Tassels' council representative, defended the present selection procedure. She described the interviewing procedure in which each candidate is rated on various points by each member of the board. She declared that "no discussion whatsoever" took place between the Tassels members of the board in regard to the candidates.

Miss Loseke went on to explain that Tassels work hard for the University and that she felt the organization would lose some of its spirit if they didn't have a chance to "control" the selection of Homecoming Queen candidates.

Chuck Wilson, a member of the Council activities committee, in defending the committee's action pointed out that under the present set-up Tassels control 3-7th of the selection of candidates... "too much for any one organization."

Letter Described

Wilson described further the letter which is presently sent to all organized houses by Tassels preceding the homecoming election. In this letter the house is informed of the coming selection of candidates and their junior Tassel is designated as the house's candidate unless the house wants to make a substitution.

Wilson stated that "a Tassel may or may not be the best qualified but all qualified girls certainly are not Tassels."

Council Asks Exam Setback

... By 1 Day

The Student Council passed a resolution asking the University to alter the present final exam schedule.

Gary Frenzel, Council vice president, moved that the Student Council request that the University change the present period by moving the entire exam schedule back one day, thus leaving the first Monday free for study.

It was brought out in the discussion following the motion that while the extra day would probably be "woods time" for a small minority it would give the good student a chance to study and better prepare for his exams, especially if his schedule was unusually stiff at the first part of the exam period.

It Pays to Attend

This will probably be the last Student Council meeting Jack Nielsen misses.

The Student Council unanimously approved plans for their annual Christmas party. Nielsen, parking board chairman, being absent from the meeting, was elected Santa Claus.

Moot Court Team Wins Round One

A University of Nebraska team defeated Creighton University team in the first round of Moot Court competition at Washington University here.

Also in the first round the University of Kentucky defeated the University of Kansas City and St. Louis University defeated the University of Missouri.

The arguments were on a simulated criminal case involving a prosecution against a corporation for allegedly violating the federal Corrupt Practices Act.

The winner will qualify for national Moot Court competition in New York. Members of the Nebraska team are Peter M. Andersen of Omaha, Richard M. Fellman of Omaha and Ronald D. Raitt of Ainsworth.

Free Ag Movie Stars Lovejoy

The Ag Saturday night movie, "Home of the Brave," will be shown at 7 p.m. in the Ag Union Lounge.

The movie stars Frank Lovejoy, Lloyd Bridges and Steve Brodie.

It centers around five American soldiers sent on a mission to survey enemy fortifications on a Japanese island, prior to its invasion.

Admission will be free upon presentation of Student Identification card.

Orchestra To Play Beethoven

Violinist Featured In First Concert

The University Symphony Orchestra will feature Beethoven's Violin Concerto at their first performance of the season Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Joyce Flissler of New York will be guest artist and will play the Violin Concerto. She is the only violinist outside the Iron Curtain to place in the International Tchaikowsky Music Competition.

The University Orchestra will play: "Overture to an Italian Comedy," by Benjamin; "A Dance Rhapsody" by delius; "First Essay for Orchestra," by Barber and "Midsummer Vaka - Swedish Rhapsody," by Alfvén.

Because of limited seats in the ballroom, admission to the concert will be by tickets. The tickets may be obtained free of charge at the Union ticket office. They will be honored at the door until 7:45 p.m., when non-ticket holders will be admitted if seats are available.

While in Russia, Miss Flissler also played with the Leningrad Symphony and gave a solo recital in Leningrad. She has made extensive tours through America, France and South America.

Miss Flissler made her debut in the concert world as a winner of the Walter W. Namburg Musical Foundation Award.

Four Frosh Join Alpha Lam Ranks

Four new members were initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, Wednesday evening.

They were Jeanne Inness, Sharon Ramage, Shirley Simmons and Regina Spanhake.

To gain membership in the scholastic honorary, a freshman women must have a 7.5 average for their freshman year.

At the initiation, Mrs. Ida Blore, assistant professor of animal pathology, also explained the purposes and requirements of Phi Beta Kappa, liberal arts honorary, and Sigma Xi, science honorary. Mrs. Blore is a member of both scholastic fraternities.

First State Home Agent Honored

A 1912 University graduate has received the Nebraska Home Extension Agents Association Service award.

She is Mrs. Ray Kallenbarger, who was Nebraska's first home extension agent. The award is made each year to an outstanding individual outside the Extension Service.

Mrs. Kallenbarger taught home management at the University for three and a half years. The "home management house" was set up at this time with Mrs. Kallenbarger as supervisor.
