

Dr. Hall, Hansen Nominated for Award

Both Cited for Service to Campus

Dr. William Hall, director of the school of journalism, and Lyle Hansen have been nominated for Outstanding Nebraskan.

Dr. Hall was cited in his letter of nomination as "contributing tirelessly to the improvement of the University and campus as a whole."

Revised Program
"In his three years at the University, Dr. Hall has completely revised the program of study in the School of Journalism. An entire new major has been added to the J-School."

"He added the internship program to the requirements for a professional certificate and developed the integrated courses which climax a semester's activities by actually putting out newspapers in the state."

"He has brought many new and capable faculty members to the University campus and adds a professional note to his classes by having persons in the field come and talk to them."

Other Activities
"Besides teaching and advising J-School students, Dr. Hall is a member of the Pub Board, the Student Affairs Committee and adviser of Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism fraternity for women."

"He has created a tremendous esprit de corps among his students, and through him the University School of Journalism is becoming one of the best in the country."

(Editor's note—Dr. Hall, however, cannot be considered for the Outstanding Nebraskan award since staff members of the Daily Nebraskan or members of the Subcommittee on Student Publications are ineligible.)

Hansen's letter of nomination called him "an outstanding worker for the betterment of the University."

RAM President
"He is past president of the RAM Council and was one of the strongest supporters for organizing Tomahawk on campus."

"He was battalion commander of the Navy ROTC and is now the leader of the Navy Drill Squad, the White Caps."

"Not confining his interests to campus, he has worked with a group dealing with un-

DU Faces Damage Lawsuit

Plaintiff Claims Loss on Annex

A suit for $7,125 has been filed in district court against Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sharpnack allege in their petition against the fraternity that their apartment building at 1725 E was damaged by members between June, 1957 and June, 1958, while the group was renting it.

The Sharpnacks allege that the fraternity members played tennis inside the building, damaging walls and windows. They also claim that profane words were painted on the walls and holes were punched in the roof.

Damage
They are asking $2,025 for damage to the building and $5,000 for loss of rent due to the damage.

Delta Upsilon rented the building as an annex to their former house. They moved into new quarters at 16th and Vine last fall.

Jim Warrick, vice president of Delta Upsilon, said that the chapter has never been officially notified of the suit and that it is not known to whom the suit was served.

Action Unknown
He did not know what court action has been taken or would be taken.

Warrick contended that the claims appeared exaggerated. He said that the damage appeared to total about $700, not $2,025.

"The damage seems to be ordinary wear and tear such as would be found in any fraternity house," he said.

Sorensen Gets Magazine Post

A former faculty member of the University Law College has been named director of research for "This Week" magazine.

Robert Sorensen, a Lincoln native, has been in charge of audience analysis for Radio Free Europe in Munich, Germany for the past five years.

derprivileged children in Lincoln. He is now serving as a dorm counselor at Selleck Quadrangle.

Eligible Bachelor
"Last year Lyle was also selected as a Most Eligible Bachelor. He has always devoted as much time as possible to strive for a better University."

One senior or graduate student and one faculty member will be selected as "Outstanding Nebraskans." The winners will be announced in Jan. 16 Daily Nebraskan.

The deadline for nominations is noon, Jan. 13. Letters should be submitted to the Daily Nebraskan office in the basement of the Union.

CO-EDITORS Ray Troudt (from left) and Carroll Novicki, general manager Gary Frenzel, and business manager Tandy Allen talk over the Nebraska Blueprint. Troudt and Novicki begin heading the magazine this week. Frenzel was editor last year. The Blueprint is trying co-editors this year with the idea that the editors will have more time to devote to their areas of specialization.

Divided Editorship Added to Blueprint

Troudt, Novicki Head Magazine

Ray Troudt, junior in civil engineering, and Carroll Novicki, junior in electrical engineering, have been named co-editors of the Nebraska Blueprint for the coming year.

The two appointments indicate a switch in staff organization as well as staff, since the Blueprint, an engineering magazine published by University engineering students,

Constitution—Rogers Proposes YR Changes

Gary Rodgers, vice president of the University Young Republicans, said he intends to offer several amendments to the club's constitution at its meeting Thursday.

The proposed changes would include bi-weekly instead of weekly meetings, new offices of vice president of programming, vice president of public relations, vice president of membership and vice treasurer.

He also proposed the establishment of a finance and budget committee, a committee on committees and committees on public action, senior party relations and education, temporary advisory committees on programming and public relations and a second semester membership drive.

Rodgers also said Senator Terry Carpenter has been contacted and it is expected that he will speak at a later meeting this month.

"Terrible Terry has agreed to discuss the University budget, the Nebraska wide-open primary, the recount and other controversial topics," Rodgers said.

He noted that Carpenter was a top crowd getter at a YR meeting last year.

1,400 Junior Division Cards Already Pulled

First Alphabetical Registration Begins in M&N Monday

NU Joins 19 Libraries In Center

For Research Paper Holdings

The University Libraries have joined the Midwest Inter-Library Center in Chicago.

The Center holds more than 1,000,000 volumes of less frequently used research library materials. These include state documents, dissertations from foreign universities, court briefs and records, patents, radio broadcast scripts and reports and newspapers.

The principal holdings of the Center will be recorded on catalog cards at the Lincoln campus. Then materials needed by University personnel will be sent via overnight mail upon request.

The University was elected as the 20th member of the Center. Dr. John Weaver, dean of Graduate College, has been appointed to represent the University on the board of directors.

Frank Lundy, director of University Libraries, will be a member of the advisory committee of librarians.

Lundy said that the universities sponsoring the Center "are interested in assembling in one central place a collection of those less-used research books and periodicals that the separate university libraries do not feel justified in acquiring or housing individually."

Art Galleries Exhibit Contains Student Works

Oil paintings by four University students are included in the 12th annual Missouri Valley exhibition which opened Sunday at the University Art Galleries, Morrill Hall.

The four students are Larry Johnson, Mrs. Laura Pearlstein, Martha Maehr and Michael Smith. Johnson's painting is "Untitled," Mrs. Pearlstein's is "Blue Field With Reds, 1958," and Miss Maehr's is "Toy Soldier."

Smith's painting, "Orpheus Leaving the Underworld," received an honorable mention.

Twelve of the 48 paintings in the show received this rating. The show is sponsored by the Mulvane Art Center, Washburn, University of Topeka and the University Art Galleries. The paintings were selected for the exhibition by Malcolm Myers, professor of art at the University of Minnesota and Forrest Selvig, curator, Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, Minn. The show will continue through Feb. 1.

Tassels Approve Major Changes in Queen Election

—For NU—

Terry Proposes Jr. College Use

Senator Terry Carpenter will propose a bill in the Unicameral which would allow the University to buy or lease the state's four junior colleges.

The Scottsbluff senator said that the four colleges at Scottsbluff, McCook, Fairbury and Norfolk are supported by local school districts.

State Responsibility
Noting that the financial support of the schools is becoming too much of a burden, he suggested that their support should be "the responsibility of the state and not the local taxpayer."

Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, University dean of faculties, said that although Carpenter discussed the bill several weeks ago with Chancellor Clifford Hardin, neither administrator has seen the finished bill.

The bill would cause a major change in state policy, he said, and the decision will be in the hands of the Legislature.

Regents' Opinion

He added that he could not appraise the bill without first hearing the views of the members of the Board of Regents and the Junior Colleges.

Dr. Freeman Decker, chairman of the State Department of Education, commented that he is not aware of other situations in which state universities have purchased junior colleges though other universities, such as the University of California and the University of Wisconsin, operate branches in other areas of the state.

He added, however, that junior colleges in many states receive partial support from the state, while Nebraska junior colleges are locally supported.

Dean Breckenridge said that the Regents plan to attempt to have a bill introduced into Legislature which would allow the University to offer other off-campus college courses, though no action has been taken as yet.

Spilker, Counter Up for YW Post

Ten Candidates Vie for Office; Voting Today in Rosa Bouton

Nancy Spilker and Diane Counter have been slated to run for president and vice-president of YWCA.

Voting will be held today from 1 to 6 p.m. in Rosa Bouton Hall. The girl receiving the highest number of votes will be president with the other being vice-president.

Marcia Boden and Judy Douglas are running for secretary Polly Doering and Jo Rogers are on the slate for treasurer. Student Council representative candidates are Ginny Hansen and Janet Hanson while Kathy Roach and Eileen Santin will vie for Delegate Representative.

Miss Spilker, a junior in Arts and Sciences, is treasurer of Tassels and a member of Chi Omega.

Miss Counter is a member of the Childhood Education Association, University Student Education Association, Union and Kappa Alpha Theta. She is a junior in elementary education.

Miss Boden is a junior in Teachers College. She is a member of Student Council, Hungarian Student Project Committee, pledge trainer of Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Pi Lambda Theta.

Miss Douglas, a junior in Arts and Sciences, is a member of Coed Counselors, Alpha Gamma Delta and corresponding secretary for Delta Delta Delta.

Miss Doering, a junior in Teachers, is a member of AWS Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Pi Lambda Theta and

Ihms Selected Palladian Head

Adrienne Ihms has been elected president of the Palladian Literary Society.

New vice president is Bill Hunt and treasurer is Jeanne Inness.

Other officers are: Dick Seymour, program chairman; John Wier, recording secretary; Alan Heim, corresponding secretary; Paul Fritzen, critic; and Francis Smidt, reporter.

Friday's evening meeting will consist of reading excerpts from "Love and Friendship" by Jane Austen.

Council Approval Next Step

Sweeping changes in the homecoming queen election were approved Monday night by Tassels.

The first reading of constitutional revisions which would alter substantially the methods of selection of the queen and her attendants was passed by the group.

Student Council

It must now be passed by Student Council before going into effect.

Changes included:

1. Letters going to organized houses would not contain the names of junior Tassels, but would state that the house was to nominate two candidates for Homecoming queen who are juniors with at least 3.5 averages.

2. The interviewing board consisting of eight persons would contain two Tassels, the president and vice president, instead of the three Tassels previously on the board. The third Tassel would be replaced on the board by the captain of the football team, or some other representative of the team.

3. The interviewing board would select 10 instead of five finalists. These 10 coeds would be revealed in the Daily Nebraskan 10 days before Homecoming.

4. On Thursday of the week before Homecoming, an all University election would be held.

5. The three coeds receiving the most votes in this election would be announced Friday.

6. Wednesday, three days before Homecoming, the name of the queen would be announced. The other two coeds who had received highest votes in the election would serve as her two attendants.

Half-time

In the past, the queen and her four attendants have not been announced until half-time of the Homecoming game.

In November, Student Council recommended that Tassels give up two of its representatives on the interviewing board. This and other changes recommended by the Council were rejected by Tassels by a vote Nov. 24.

Tassels then sent letters to organized houses on campus asking whether these groups favored making changes in the elections.

Tassel Committee

A committee headed by Sondra Whalen was then selected to study the situation. Miss Whalen's committee, which she said was essentially unanimous in their desire to have changes effected, reported on their findings to Tassels before vacation.

No vote was taken at that time.

"It isn't perfect, but it is an improvement," Miss Whalen said of the changes passed by the group last night.

National Press Photo Group Open to Students

University students who take pictures for on or off-campus publications are invited to apply for membership in the National Press Photographers Association.

Application forms are available from Cliff Edom, NPPA Student Affiliate Chairman, 18 Walter Williams Hall, Columbia, Mo.

A fee of $4 should accompany the application. The application is sent to the National Press Photographers Association, Inc., Box 307, Main Post Office, St. Louis, 3, Mo.

The $4 fee entitles the student to NPPA affiliation until he is graduated or otherwise terminates his college career. Members also receive the monthly magazine, The National Press Photographer, during the school year.
