Registration Rush Begins Monday in ROTC Building

Monday in the Military and Naval Science Building. Cards will be pulled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

No Early Registration
 Students may register after their names come up, but not before. Any students not registering earlier may do so Wednesday afternoon.

Junior Division students who have not completed their worksheets with their advisers will pull cards Wednesday from 2-5 p.m. or Jan. 30.

Social Side—Weekend Rest Ahead

Frantic Co-ed Follies practices and sinister finals haven't frightened all University students out of having some fun. A few have found time for eating, dancing and partying.

Friday
 Alpha Phi, dinner dance, 7 p.m.
 Gamma Phi Beta, pledge party for actives, 8 p.m.
 Kappa Delta, pledge formal, 9 p.m.
 Saturday
 Sigma Phi Epsilon, pledge hour dance, 2 p.m.
 Ag Men, dinner dance, 6:30 p.m.
 Sunday
 Delta Gamma-Theta XI, pizza dinner, 5 p.m.
 A few pinnings were omitted from Tuesday's column. They are:
 Sandra Shur, Fedde Hall sophomore in Home Ec, to Don Arnesher, junior in Agriculture from Valentine.
 Arlene Buck, Fedde Hall sophomore in Home Ec from Corning, Mo., to Keith Miller from Craig, Mo.
 Connie Weichert, Fedde Hall freshman from Lincoln, to Burdette Cooley, freshman at Doane from Walton.

Children's Art Exhibit May Get Federal Backing

An international exhibition of school child art organized by a University staff member may get backing from the federal government.

Mrs. M. E. Vance, retired director of art in extension at the University, has been invited to a conference in Washington, D.C., Friday and Saturday, sponsored by the U.S. Commissioner of Education.

The meeting is to survey existing programs of international exchange of art and to study more effective ways of broadening the program under federal and private sponsorship.

Mrs. Vance organized the first international exhibition of school child art with the assistance of the University's Extension Division and the Nebraska Art Association in 1952.

Four exhibitions have been held since. The last exhibition, in 1958, attracted 300 entries from 35 countries.

Similar exhibitions have been set up elsewhere in the nation.

Newman Club

Newman Club officers for the coming year will be elected Sunday.

The meeting will begin at 6:15 p.m. at the Student Center, 16th and Q.

Second Edition of Scrip Out Soon 'Controversy' May Result—Schultz

The second edition of "Scrip," a literary magazine containing articles by University undergraduates only, will be on sale Monday in Andrews Hall, Miller's Bookstore and the Union.

"I think this issue is going to be more popular than the one last spring," said editor Steve Schultz, "but at the same time, I think we have a couple of articles that will be rather controversial."

Costs a Quarter
 The magazine will be similar in size and make-up to the first edition published last April. It will sell for 25 cents, causing a 15-20 cent loss per copy due to the desire for wide distribution, said Schultz.

Some 750 copies of the magazine will be on sale this year, an increase of 250 copies due to the large demand following the sell-out last year.

The short stories, poetry, special articles and essays included in this issue will concern themes in which college students are interested, said Schultz.

Masquers Writing Contest—Experimental Theatre To Show Student Plays

Two new plays written by University students will be presented in Howell Memorial Theatre, Jan. 15 and 16, as part of the Experimental Theatre series.

"Didn't He Ramble?", first play in the program, is by Andy Backer of Scottsbluff, Backer, a junior, majors in Speech and English.

Grad Student
 The second play in the series, "Elijah," was written by Wilma Wolfe, graduate student in Speech and Dramatic Art from Lincoln.

Both scripts were chosen from plays submitted to the Nebraska Masquers 1958 original playwrighting contest. Winners in the contest will be announced Thursday after the second play, "Didn't He Ramble?"

concerns a group of ill-assorted people, somewhat down on their luck, who find themselves working together as part of a magazine subscription crew.

Jazz Celebration
 The play tells what happens when this group finds themselves caught up in a jazz band funeral celebration in New Orleans.

Miss Wolfe's play is about a rural religious fanatic who believes he receives direct inspiration from the Divine Power who has chosen him as prophet, and about his effect upon the people about him.

After the performance, Masquers will serve coffee. The audience is also invited to Room 201, Temple for a discussion of the plays with the writers, directors and casts.

Tickets for the production are 50 cents and may be obtained at the University Theatre Box Office, Temple Building.

Food, Hoopsters Added to KUON

Two new series have been announced by KUON-TV, Channel 12.

The first series will be Varsity Basketball, which will be shown on Thursday nights. The Tuesday series, Gourmet, will feature cookery.

Lessons in Japanese brush painting are being given presently on the station. They are telecast Mondays at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 9 p.m.

Viewers wishing to participate in the 13-week series may send $3 to "Japanese Brush Painting" at KUON-TV to receive kits containing necessary supplies.

'Frozen Toe Stomp' Planned

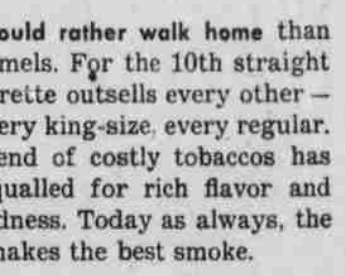

The Union Dance Committee is sponsoring a "Frozen Toe Stomp" from 9:30 to 11:30 after the Oklahoma State game Saturday.

Dancing will be done to stereophonic sound in the Ballroom. Refreshments will be served.

Tryouts Planned For Matchmaker

Tryouts for "The Matchmaker," the third University Theatre production, will be Tuesday through Friday of next week.

Rehearsals for the four act comedy will start at the beginning of second semester. The play was written by Thornton Wilder, and will be directed by Dallas Williams, director of University Theatre.

There are 9 males and 7 females in the cast. The roles are evenly balanced, Williams said. Tryouts are open to all regularly enrolled students, and will be held in the Arena Theatre, Room 303, Temple Building.

Times for trying out will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, as well as 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Scripts are available before tryouts in Room 105, Temple building.

The play will be given Mar. 11 through 14.
