

—Outstanding Nebraskan—

Last Day Brings Flood of Nominees

Deadline brought a flood of nominations for Outstanding Nebraskan, as seven students and one faculty member were proposed for the awards.

Miss Esther Meacham, Nancy Copeland, Sharon McDonald, Bill McQuistan, Gary Cadwallader, Dwaine Rogge, Steve Schultz and Dick Shugrue brought the list of nominees to 18.

Kully Ineligible

Also nominated for the award was Sandra Kully, who as a staff member of the Daily Nebraskan, is ineligible.

and Lyle Hansen. One student and one faculty member will be announced as this semester's Outstanding Nebraskan in Friday's Daily Nebraskan. They will be guests at a Friday luncheon, where they will be presented certificates by Ernie Hines, editor.

Selection of the Outstanding Nebraskan is made by the paid staff of the Daily Nebraskan from the names letter of nomination as being "the ideal college instructor who considers each person as an individual and not just been many. She participates in a variety of activities which include: faculty member on the Student Union Board of Managers, faculty adviser for the YWCA, and general faculty chairman for Hospitality Day in 1958.

"Throughout four busy years Nancy has been outstanding scholastically. As a freshman she earned membership in Alpha Lambda Delta. Her election to Pi Lambda Theta, Delta Sigma Rho and Mortar Board show that Nancy has maintained her high scholastic standard."

"Nancy has represented the University on the debate team for four years, and she has worked for AWS since her freshman year, serving now as a senior board member."

"With all her activities and in addition to working all four years, Nancy is never too busy to help anyone. Perhaps her most outstanding quality is her ability to find time for any worthwhile interest."

"But most important of his endeavors has been his constant effort to improve the fraternity system at Nebraska. He did a fine job as scholarship chairman of the IFC."

That same year he did a great deal for the fraternities at Nebraska by his outstanding job as chairman of the Promotion Committee of the IFC, which was in charge of the highly successful Community Service Day. This work did a lot toward better relations between the University students and the people of Lincoln and the State of Nebraska.

Previously nominated were Donald Lentz, Dr. Boyd Carter, Dallas Williams, Dr. William Hall, Louis Crompton, Larry Schrag, John Kinnier, John Glynn, Terry Mitchem

Magazine Pix Steps Into Rag

Al Long Brings Eastern Flavor To NU Campus

By Adam Staib

Typewriters stopped and heads swiveled in the Rag office yesterday as Albert (Vim) Long breezed in, flanked by a pair of cohorts.

The fact that Al has played end for Ohio State and is now out for football at Nebraska did not cause nearly as much commotion as the clothes he wore.

Dapper is the word for Al Long as he prepares to invade the Midwest (in a dignified manner, of course,) with the last word in Eastern masculine finery.

A Fashion Plate

Shore, and straight from a fashion magazine he was, as they say in Erin.

Bowler Hat, Chesterfield coat and a tie with a British Tab knot gave dapper Al an aura of the East and of high masculine fashion. His cohorts, Haskell Hart of Pittsburgh and Jesse Richards of New York brought with them their eastern accents to add further glamour to Al's entrance.

His coat, a Chesterfield, was grey, with part of the collar serving as a black accent to the attire. A black bowler hat, perched jauntily on his head. Hats, he commented, are much more in vogue in the east than here in the Nebraskan midwest.

J. P. Was First

The Chesterfield first caught his eye in a magazine. A short investigation, which turned up the evidence that J. P. Morgan was the first to wear this style, and a hyper-persuasive salesman turned the trick.

So, looking more like a business tycoon than an end on the Husker football team, Al settled down to discuss male fashions.

A gradual break from the Ivy League fashions is in the air and is moving west, he said. Also, a trend toward 2, 3 and 4 button coats was predicted by dapper Al.

No Quitters

Flashing his quick wit and easy humor, it was difficult to get him to stay on the fashion subject, but never one to miss a chance to interview an expert, Rag staffers quizzed him further.

Flaps and buckles seem to be the only Midwestern innovations in the world of fashion, he said.

And the biggest difference he sees between the fashions of the east and here? Two years. Except in the case of the distinctly Ivy League items, he said, midwestern college students are usually about two years behind the east and far west in adopting new fashions.

Anderson Quoted On Hog Prices

Norris Anderson, Nebraska Extension Economist, is one of 30 experts quoted in an article, "What Price Hogs?" in the winter issue of the Farm Quarterly magazine.

Anderson, along with other experts, was polled in a cross-country survey to determine where the price of pork is destined to go in the next 12 months.

Anderson observed 1959 price drop forecasts as "unnecessarily gloomy" and advanced his views on two great needs in agriculture. These needs are 1) "more coordination between production and marketing" and 2) "regularizing and stabilizing the flow of hogs to market."

Dr. Leavitt Awarded 2 Math Grants

Princeton Study In Algebra Planned

Dr. William Leavitt has been awarded fellowships by the National Science Foundation and the University Research Council for advanced work in mathematics next year.

The chairman of the University department of mathematics received one of the approximately 300 science faculty fellowships of the National Science Foundation and a grant from the University Research Council.

Algebra Study

He plans to take advanced work in abstract algebra and to continue his present research on the general area of ring theory and the theory of modules at Princeton University and the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, N. J.

His leave from the University is subject to approval of the Board of Regents.

A member of the University faculty since 1947, Dr. Leavitt has been chairman of his department since 1954.

U. N. Grad

A native of Omaha, he received Bachelor's and Master's Degrees from the University and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin.

He is author of a number of scholarly papers published in the United States and foreign journals and has presented various papers before the American Mathematical Society and the Nebraska Section of the Mathematical Association of America.

Another University faculty member, Donald Haack, associate professor of mechanical engineering, has also received one of the fellowships for study next year at Kansas State College in Manhattan.

Square Dance

An all University square dance will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Ag Union.

The dance is being sponsored by the Ag Union and the Square Dance Club. Tickets are 50¢ a person.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Good Joke Sidney; No?

University student Sidney Jackson found things weren't quite the same about his new car after he'd parked it on campus.

Jackson walked to his car. He opened the door, stepped in, turned on the ignition, and reached for the steering wheel.

But the steering wheel wasn't there. Someone had stolen it. Jackson called the police. The police couldn't think of a thing they could do—but they'd never heard of such a thing before. They just had to laugh.

Jackson probably didn't think it was funny, though. He had to order a new steering wheel, which isn't expected to get here for about 10 days.

Hallgren Says—

Little Grade List Watering Seen on This Campus

By Sandra Whalen

An editorial in the Iowa State Daily discloses that "watered-down" or incomplete Greek grade lists are a problem on that campus, but Frank Hallgren, associate dean of men, and IFC President Gary Cadwallader say that no such problem exists here.

"It's not common on this campus," Cadwallader said. "It would certainly be more difficult because of the way all men are registered at Dean Hallgren's office. He can check on any one at any time."

Lists Recorded

Lists of each student enrolled in the University are filed in the office and each student's name is recorded on IBM cards. These cards remain as long as the student is enrolled in school and names are never permitted to be removed from scholastic lists as long as that person is an active member of the house and still in school.

"There was a time when people could be moved on and off scholastic lists at will, but that time has long since past," Hallgren said. "Now instead of making out new lists each year, we simply have them adjust one continuous list."

Senate Alters Committee on Student Affairs

The Committee on Student Affairs was revised by the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

Suggested in a report from the Committee on Committees, it was decided that the committee consist of twelve, including two advisers to the Student Council, and four ex-officio members—the Dean of Student Affairs, the Associate Dean for Men, and the Treasurer of the Student Activity Fund.

The changes involved are ones of bringing the committee specifications up to date.

The Student Council shall be "invited to nominate its own advisers, whose terms shall not be concurrent."

Policy

The committee shall establish general policy in extra-curricular affairs and "shall not be restricted by any other agency, board or committee unless directed by the Chancellor or the Board of Regents."

The committee will control the establishment and termination of any organization for students with the exception of fraternities and sororities.

The committee will be divided into three subcommittees. The Subcommittee on Student Social Affairs and Activities shall be concerned with the practices, the problems and the regulation of student social functions and activities sponsored by organizations including fraternities and sororities.

Council

The Student Council may select two of its members to serve on this committee, with five members of the Committee on Student Affairs. They will serve for the academic year with voting privileges.

The Subcommittee on Student Publications shall "authorize the existence and operations of student publications issued or sold on campus and shall prescribe the rules governing them. It shall appoint the staffs and execute

45% Faculty Turnover Cited

The University has had nearly a 45% turnover in many teaching and research departments since 1952, Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, dean of faculties, told the 9th annual Fertilizer Dealers' Training Conference in Lincoln Tuesday evening.

The reason, he said, is "that the salaries paid to faculty members at the University are much below those paid at most other comparable universities."

Not All Veterans

"This is not to say that half of the experienced veteran teachers and research people have been lost to the University. Many of the changes have taken place amid the ranks of promising young men whose services the University obtained only to lose again to competition."

$50 for Firsts—

Contests Offer Cash For Poetry, Fiction

First prizes of $50 will go to the winners of two student writing contests.

The annual Ione Gardner Noyes Poetry contest and the Prairie Schooner Fiction contests have been announced by Bernice Slot, associate professor of English.

Other Prizes

Second prize in the poetry contest is $25. In the fiction contest, $30 will be awarded to the second place winner and $20 to the third place winner.

Entries in both contests must be the work of regularly enrolled students and must be unpublished. The poetry contest is limited to undergraduates, but the fiction contest is open to graduate students as well.

Rules in the fiction contest, which is sponsored by Marie Sandoz, include:

Each contestant may enter no more than two short stories, each one approximately 3000 to 7000 words.

Each story is to be typed, double-spaced, in triplicate. The author's name is not to appear on the manuscript.

In the poetry contest, manuscripts are to be prepared in the same manner. Poems may be of any length, form or subject, but each author may enter no more than three poems.

All entries are to be accompanied by a sealed envelope which contains an official entry blank filled out by the contestant and which bears on the outside the name of the contest and the title or titles of the manuscripts entered.

March Deadline

The contests close March 13. Entries are to be left in 207 Andrews.

Formal presentation of awards will be made in April. Winning stories and poems and others of merit will be considered for publication in the Prairie Schooner.

He said that the increased participation in higher education is making satisfactory staff replacements increasingly difficult.

"It is not unusual to find that the University is asked to pay more for the replacement than the department staff member asked."

Dean Breckenridge spoke on "The University of Nebraska, Its Responsibilities and Plans."

More At Stake

He told the group of the concern felt about the shifts and changes in staff people, saying that the strength or weakness of a given department or college is not the only thing at stake.

"What is at stake is the future of the entire University," he said.

Commenting on the discussions about American's educational revolution, he said that "rising college enrollments are intermittently welcomed as a 'good sign' and viewed as a threat to quality education; disputes arise on points of emphasis; discussion centers on the question of who should go to college."

Restless Climate

"It is a restless climate in which our universities and colleges operate today. It is a climate from which the University is not exempt or insulated. It is a climate which grows real problems."

In conclusion, he said that the observer who has a total view of the University is stimulated and encouraged "by the knowledge that the University in its entirety is a strong reflection of the best and most determined intentions of a great state and a great people."

ETA Kappa Nu Elects Paul Smith

Paul Smith has been elected president of Eta Kappa Nu, national electrical engineering honorary society at the University.

Smith, a senior, succeeds Ned Lindsay. Other officers for the second semester are Charles Kress, vice-president; Donald Cox, recording secretary; Gordon Hunter, corresponding secretary; John Kane, treasurer and Carroll Novicki, correspondent for the national publication.

Dr. Clyde Hyde, associate professor of electrical engineering, is the faculty advisor of the society.

NU Tri Deltas Offer Grants

Nebraska chapter of Tri-Delta is offering $100 scholarships to two University undergraduate coeds.

Candidates will be judged on financial need, scholarship, and future service to the community. Junior and senior women will be given special consideration. Applicants need not be affiliated.

Students may pick up applications at Miss Margaret Cannells office, Home Economics Hall 116, Ag Campus, or Dean Marjorie Johnston's office, Division of Student Affairs, Administration Building.

Applications must be returned by March 1, 1959. A committee consisting of a faculty member, Dean Johnston, and a Delta Delta Delta alumna will choose the scholarship winners.
