

Gymnasts Host KU Saturday

Nebraska's gymnasts will still be without the services of captain Chuck Ellis as they entertain Kansas at 2 p.m., Saturday, in the PE building. However, Ellis will be ready to go in the All-College Gymnastics Meet at Boulder, Colorado next weekend.

The Huskers defeated Kansas at Lawrence, 75-37, earlier this season. "That victory was with Ellis, however, and we don't expect to be that good Saturday," commented Jake Geier, NU gymnastics coach.

This will be the first time Nebraska and Kansas have met in Lincoln as Kansas didn't have gymnastics until last year.

Nebraska Hoping for Better Balance Against Jayhawkers

Coach Jerry Bush's cagers will be trying to get back into the winning column as they travel to Kansas for an encounter with the Jayhawks Saturday night.

The Huskers will be out to avenge last Saturday's defeat to the same Jayhawks. Nebraska is hoping for a little better balance in their scoring attack which has been led by Herschell Turner and Al Maxey.

Turner is leading the NU scoring with 305 points for a 16 point per game average. He is closely followed by Maxey, who has 302 points for a 15.8 point per game average.

Dick Harp, Kansas coach, will undoubtedly assign his ace defensive guard, Bob Hickman, to stop one of the Husker's Twin Trotters. Oklahoma State is the only team in the league that has held Turner and Maxey below double figures in the same game. Turner scored 19 and Maxey added 11 the last time Kansas and Nebraska met.

Husker Indoor Trackmen Pitted Against Okla. St.

By Hal Brown
The Nebraska indoor track team will host Oklahoma State, Saturday, as they try to start a new winning streak. The Husker's dual and triangular winning string was snapped at nine by Oklahoma and Colorado last week.

"We expect a real close meet, which might be decided on the last event of the day, the mile relay," Coach

Frank Sevigne said. Sevigne said he expects the mile to be the outstanding race of the afternoon. Miles Eisenman of Oklahoma State, who ran the mile in 1:15.1 last week, will be pitted against Joe Mullins and Joe American Horse of Nebraska.

Another top contest should develop in the pole vault where Ken Pollard and Jim Kraft of Nebraska will be vaulting against Aubrey Dooley and Jim Graham of Oklahoma State. Dooley is the defending Big Eight indoor co-champion.

Pollard will not run the high hurdles, Saturday, to conserve his strength for the vault. In last Saturday's triangular, he ran the preliminaries and finals in both the high and low hurdles but was only able to vault 13 feet.

The Huskers will be counting on Milt Haedt and Roger

Brede to pick up points in the high hurdles. Both have looked real good in workouts this week, according to Sevigne. Sevigne added, "If we can just about break even in the high hurdles and the 440, we will be all right."

OU Injured

Oklahoma State is hoping that Jim Graham and Vernon Haddox will be ready to go at top speed, Saturday. Graham, a top pole vaulter, was hampered by a chest injury last week and managed to vault only 13 feet against Kansas and Kansas State. Haddox, who was bothered by an ankle injury, runs the high and low hurdles and also a leg on the mile relay team.

One encouraging thing in last week's triangular were the sprinters. Sevigne is counting on another good performance from Don House, Don Phillips and Tom Hodson, Saturday.

BOB HICKMAN, 6-2 junior guard from Terre Haute, Indiana, will be trying to saddle either Al Maxey or Herschell Turner in Saturday's game at Kansas.

Coach Sevigne Will Be Guest On Radio Show

Frank Sevigne, University track coach, will be the guest on the first "Spotlight on Sports" on KNUS at 7:30 tonight.

Bob Wirz and Steve Greenberg are alternate moderators for the show.

The show will feature interviews with Nebraska coaches and athletes, other Big Eight coaches and other sports personalities.

Wrestlers To Face SoDaks

The Nebraska wrestlers will be after their second straight win of the season when they host South Dakota State tonight at 7:30 in the Coliseum.

Last year the Jackrabbits defeated the Huskers. This year Coach Bill Smith expects his grapplers to give the Staters a run for their money even though the Huskers may have to forfeit the 137 pound class.

As of late the South Dakota team has placed second in a quadrangular which Minnesota won and finished first in another meet that included several colleges from South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Saturday, the Huskers will be on the road as they face Iowa State Teachers at Cedar Falls, Iowa. The Tutors are generally credited as being the small college wrestling power in the country. It was at Iowa State Teachers that Nebraska coach Bill Smith won national titles at 167 pounds for two years and the AAU title for three consecutive years.
