Last year's scholarship winners were Toni Tucker and Judith Turek.

Moot Court Competition Ends Today

The final round in the annual Allen Moot Court competition will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Supreme Court room in the State Capitol.

Finalist in the Law College competition, will be Lawrence Sandberg Jr. and Frank Carroll as one team against Richard Fellman and Alvin Ross.

These seniors will argue a Federal income tax case. Nebraska's Supreme Court Judges will determine the outcome of the case.

The winners' names are to be inscribed on a permanent plaque in the Law College.

The public may attend the competition.

From the participants in the Moot Court contest, a three-man team will be selected for regional and national competition.

The regional round will be held in St. Louis and the finals in New York with a Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court presiding.

In 1953, Nebraska won national competition and in 1956 won national honors for presenting the winning brief and oral argument.

Hey Mr. Devil: Lost a Tongue?

The botany department, for the first time in 40 years, now has a new plant in bloom which has to be kept in a glass cage.

Devil's Tongues, or amorphophallus rivieri, smells like "a carload of dead fish, or "a dead mouse behind a refrigerator," according to some flower fanciers.

The maroonish-purple blossom is two and one half feet tall and was originally the size of a walnut when first obtained ten years ago.

The Devil's Tongue, native to Indonesia, was given this odor so that it would attract beetles that feed on carrion. The beetles in turn transport the pollen from one plant to another.

L&M is Low in tar

with More taste to it

Don't settle for one without the other!

"L&M is kindest to your taste because L&M combines the two essentials of modern smoking," says TV's Jack Lescoulie.

LOW TAR: L&M's patented filtering process adds extra filter fibers electrostatically, crosswise to the stream of smoke . . . makes L&M truly low in tar. MORE TASTE: L&M's rich mixture of slow burning tobaccos brings you more exciting taste than any other cigarette.
