—Student Tribunal— Seven Judges To Be Named

Seven student judges will be selected for the Student Tribunal at interviews Saturday.

The judges will consist of four seniors, two juniors and one law college student, who at the time of selection, will have successfully completed at least one year of law.

Chartered Year Ago
The much discussed Tribunal, which had been under consideration at the University since 1956, became a reality April 1, 1958 when its charter was approved by the Board of Regents.

The student body voted on the Tribunal when they paid fees last year. The plan was then approved by the Committee on Student Affairs and the Faculty Senate.

Present Tribunal members are Joe Baldwin, Gary Rodgers, Judy Truell, John Kinnier, Lyle Hansen, Donald Iburg and Frank Wells. Faculty judges are Edmund Belsehim, dean of Law College, and Theodore Aakhus, professor of engineering drawing.

Under Fire

The Tribunal was under Daily Nebraskan fire the first of this year when a reporter was not permitted to attend a hearing. A picture of a closed door and accompanying story adorned the front page of the Daily Nebraskan Oct. 17 issue.

After an investigation by the Student Council a recommendation that the Tribunal submit more information concerning its functions to the students was made.

Students may have open hearings if they present a written request in writing to the Dean of Student Affairs office two days before their hearing comes up.

Recommendations

The Tribunal does not take disciplinary action itself but submits written recommendations to the Dean of Student Affairs office. The recommendations may be expulsion from the University, suspension from school for a term, conduct warning or the dismissal of charges.

At the first open hearing Oct. 22, most of the cases concerned drinking by minors on University property. Since then the Tribunal has tried cases for trespassing, illegal possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages and pilfering.

The Tribunal also tried a student who was arrested in connection with fires in several Homecoming displays.

Counsel Possible

Students appearing before the Tribunal may be represented by counsel if they desire.

The interviews for Tribunal judges will be held in room 305 Union at 9 a.m. Saturday. Interview sheets may be obtained from Room 305, before Thursday.

Student judges must have a grade average which places them in the upper 50 per cent of their college class. No student may serve on both Student Council and Tribunal during the same academic year.

Council Narrows Rules To 5, Office Filings Begin

A five-rule campaign opened yesterday as filings began for the Spring Student Council election.

Former rules limiting newspaper publicity both in number of times possible and total amount spent were dropped from the campaign.

Rules Prohibited

Also eliminated by the council were rules prohibiting use of photographs except by the Council and a rule forbidding handbills.

Present campaign rules state that newspaper publicity must be approved by the Council elections committee and that posters of a limited size may be used.

According to Bob Paine, member of the Student Council elections committee the rule forbidding campaigning on election day includes all forms of campaigning.

One Prohibitive Rule

The only prohibitive rule is one limiting the use of loudspeakers on automobiles and forbidding campaigning on the day of the campaign.

Council members Jack Nielsen and Dave Godby in investigating the May 18 Council action to ease the rules stated that they hoped the new campaign rules would develop increased interest among the student body.

Candidates are responsible for seeing that posters which they have put up are taken down before election day, Paine said.

Registrar's Approval

Paine stated that all posters, handbills or any other campaign literature placed on university bulletin boards required the registrar's approval stamp.

Filing blanks for the election may be picked up in the registrar's office until noon Saturday.

At this time students must make an appointment for a picture to be taken which the council will use in the election. Each application contains
