

Glee Club to Perform Tomorrow; Dolly Swift, Roger Hanke to Solo

Dolly Swift's soprano voice will be featured at the Men's Glee Club Concert tomorrow night at the Union at 7:30 p.m.

The 55-member Glee Club under the direction of Prof. Dale Ganz, has just returned from a two-day tour of central Nebraska.

Their program, which will include classical as well as modern music, some spirituals and folk songs, is open to the public.

Miss Swift, a junior in Teachers, will sing "Yonder, Yonder" by Gaines.

Roger Hanke, a freshman in agriculture, will solo in the number, "Jerry," arranged by de Paur.

"The Nebraskans," a male quartet, will sing a collection composed of Kermit Erickson, sophomore in BizAd; John Lindell, a junior in BizAd; Don Epp and Richard Timmerman, both sophomores in Ag.

Selections "I Dream of You," "Brothers, Sing On," by Greig; "The Shepherdess," by Schubert; "The Creation," by Richter and "Honor, Honor," by Hall Johnson are among the selections to be sung by the Accompanying the group will be Byron Dillow, freshman in Arts and Sciences and Patricia McIntyre, sophomore in Teachers.

The group is composed of undergraduate students that are non-music majors. They have existed for five years. An earlier male glee club was discontinued during World War II, because man-power was scarce.

The group received a "terrific response" from the towns they toured, according to Prof. Ganz. Concerts were given in Grand Island, Kearney, North Platte, McCook and Hastings last week.

In addition, the club has performed at about 20 different places this year, including high schools, basketball games, various clubs and conventions and have appeared over KUON-TV twice.

Voice Beams Sluggabeds, Anti-Mental Health Words

By Sondra Whalen "Help to Stamp Out Mental Health," the Greenwich Village newspaper "Village Voice" advertises itself.

Someone must have decided that The Daily Nebraskan should have a part in this campaign, as some kindred soul has given the paper a subscription to the "Voice."

For Sluggabeds Complete with public notices, the paper now arrives weekly at the office. A prominent notice in this week's edition was the advertisement for Sluggabeds.

"I will sing, shout, curse or coo to get you out of bed," the ad proclaimed, "at a cost of $4.50 per month." Socialites were invited to "Parties Galore," in another notice. These were to include "music, dancing, interracial, intercultural, diverse social contacts and good fun."

An author advertises himself as a "mature writer weary of PR idiocies" who will swap "deep broad knowledge of people and products for living wage". Who could ask for more?

Under a column called "What's For Free", an "Unwed Mother" has advertised her five little kittens.

A necessity for every home, "a lonely hippo, 20' x 26'" announces it would like to "hang in your house". Price? $2.

Khrushchev Another ad features "An Open Letter to Khrushchev. Re: Geneva" from a "liberal minister" by the "serious liberal church."

Leading news in the paper was a group of protestors to a local Civil Defense exercise. Calling themselves pacifists, the editor of the "Catholic Worker", the son of a Vermont congressman, the editor of the "Liberatorion", a real estate man and a gardener refused to take cover as the alert sounded.

All were placed under ar-

LSU, Too, Has Alphabet Difficulties

Alphabet soup is a common dish—served in different flavors.

NU had their share of the fare, flavored with registration problems.

But Nebraska's campus is not the only one plagued by a desire to play alphabet soup.

The flavor that concerns the Louisiana State campus might be called GROWL or TAPP or even CTIPOFOAOC!

Traffic conditions and workshops, rather than registrations, are the concern of these alphabetical conglomerations.

The TAPP deals with the Committee on Traffic and Pedestrian Problems (does the light dawn?) while GROWL is a little trickier to explain.

GROWL, believe it or not stands for the Committee to Investigate Prices of Business on and off Campus.

It beats me, too. Don't ask me why it isn't CTIPOFOAC

AWS Plans 'Idea' Meet Tomorrow

An AWS Workshop will be held Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Union to allow leaders of organized houses to express their ideas to the AWS Board.

All University women may attend, but the attendance of the president, pledge trainer, standards chairman, social chairman and AWS representative of each house is requested.

Helen Snyder, associate dean of women, will speak at the meeting. The main topic for discussion will be "What are the standards and values of our university women? Are these values being followed in actions as well as in ideas?"

A panel will answer questions pertaining to the rules of AWS, the point system, Coed Follies and any other areas of interest.

High School Girls Shown 'Olympiad'

New type Greek activities occupied some female high school visitors to the campus Saturday.

The Sports Management Class held their 1959 Olympiad for 73 high school students and their teachers in Grant Memorial Hall.

'Springitis' Hits Campus, Classes

Springitis, a new disease, is beginning to frequent campus circles.

Dr. Samuel Fuenning, Medical Director of the Student Health Center, reports that large numbers of absences are due to that malady rather than the flu.

Science in Agriculture Explained to Prepsters

The second annual "Science in Agriculture" conference for high school students attracted over 218 persons last Thursday at Ag Campus. Forty-five counties were represented.

Students in the top 25 percent of their high school class were invited. The purpose of the conference was to acquaint young people with the increasingly scientific and complex approaches to all agricultural fields and the challenges and rewards of an agricultural career.

NU Scientist Develops New Theory

A hypothesis that would alter a former concept concerning the nervous control of muscle has been offered by a University scientist.

Dr. A. McIntyre, chairman of the department of physiology and pharmacology at the College of Medicine, developed the theory.

He said that an agent which causes muscle contraction remains present in damaged muscles, greatly impairing expansion. This further causes uncontrolled activity or absence of activity in damaged muscles.

The new hypothesis was presented in the publication "Postgraduate Medicine." Full details of the work appear in the new book "Curare and Curare-like Agents," which summarizes the findings of the International Conference on Curare held recently in Argentina.

German Movie To Be Shown

"The Devil's General," a German movie, will be shown Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Love Library Auditorium.

The film, with German subtitles, concerns a heroic German general who opposed the Nazis in the World War II and foresaw the disastrous consequences of their policies.

"The Devil's General" was based on the life of General ace flyer Ernst Udet and stars Curt Jergens.

The showing is sponsored by the German Club, Delta Phi Alpha and the department of Germanic languages and literature.

No admission will be charged, but voluntary contributions will be accepted.

Ag Talent To Vie

The Ag College YMCA will present a talent show at the Pentzer Park Center tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The Center is located at 27th and Potter. The show is free and open to the public.
