

Biz Ad, Engin College Candidates Tell Views

(Editor's note—In an effort to encourage intelligent voting the Nebraskan is running a series of articles explaining the background of the Student Council candidates, their views on important issues and election platforms. Statements of more than 50 words turned in by candidates have been condensed with the meaning retained.)

Business Administration

Two representatives will be elected.

Barbara Barker, a sophomore, is a member of Alpha Phi, Builders Board and the Cornhusker Staff. She is a member of Phi Chi Theta and Gamma Alpha Chi honoraries.

Cumulative average 6.8.

Miss Barker said that a program should be instigated through Student Council to correct the definite lack of cooperation existing between the University administration and the student body and provide grounds for improved inter-University cooperation.

Jacqueline Collins, a sophomore, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, Union Board, Builders and is a Union committee chairman. She is a member of Phi Chi Theta honorary.

Cumulative average 6.2.

Miss Collins said that Student Council action should receive more publicity before action is taken. She feels suggestions from various Biz Ad organizations would be helpful in presenting opinions to the Council.

Darrell Frenzel, no information received.

Lowell Hansen, a sophomore, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Young Republicans.

Cumulative average 5.9.

Hansen said, "I firmly believe the student is on the short end of a stick being held by the administration and IFC interests. Agreed, these other interests are important, but not to the extreme that they are now. This is why I'm running for Student Council"

Larry Kilstrup, a sophomore, is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, Builders board, Young Republicans and is IFC outstate rush chairman.

Cumulative average 6.2.

Kilstrup wishes to increase the freedom of individual students to conduct their affairs with a minimum of administrative restraints and increase the responsibility of student representatives to the groups they represent.

Dick Newman, a sophomore, is a member of Sigma Chi, Alpha Kappa Psi, Builders and the Varsity Tennis team.

Cumulative average 7.6.

To Newman, the Student Council represents a means of student cooperation with the administration. This cooperation does not indicate being a puppet of the administration but cooperation to solve the problems of both sides.

Engineering

Three representatives will be elected.

William Boggan, a sophomore, is a member of Sigma Nu. He previously attended North Carolina State college.

Cumulative average 5.31 Nebraska; NC State, 7.0.

Jealousy of other campuses enjoying mutual friendship between students, unity between students and officials, and democratic principles in representation and laws has stimulated Boggan's desire to obtain the same for Nebraska.

Roy Cook, a sophomore, is a member of the Marching and Symphonic Band, Phalanx drill squad, American Institute of Architects and Gamma Lambda, band fraternity.

Cumulative average 5.9.

Cook is an architecture student, but he also takes many engineering courses. Because of this dual field of study, he feels that he could better represent the whole department than the average engineer.

ment than the average engineer.

Don Gable, a sophomore, is a member of Delta Sigma Phi, IFC and AIEE.

Cumulative average 5.4.

Gable favors a program for the improvement of parking facilities and the publicizing of Council activities and issues. He stressed the fact that he is soliciting the views and opinions of all those he would represent and does not intend to take the responsibility of a representative lightly.

Dennis Bruce Nelson, no information submitted.

Bill Paxton, a sophomore, is a member of Sigma Chi.

Cumulative average 6.8.

Paxton is running for Council to help make up for the lack of interest the Engineering College has shown relating to student affairs in the past. He feels since Engineering College is one of the largest, it should be a well-recognized voice in student affairs.

Roland Rader, a sophomore, is a member of Acadia and Junior IFC.

Cumulative average 6.34.

Rader believes that it is important that liaison between

Student Council members and the student body be increased. This, he feels, could be accomplished by joining student societies such as AIRE and ASME.

Dick Valdez, a sophomore, is a member of Delta Upsilon, Builders, Corn Cobs, the Blueprint Staff and Pi Epsilon Pi.

Cumulative average 6.2.

Valdez feels that when issues, especially pertaining to Engineering college, come before the Council, the motions should be tabled allowing representatives the opportunity to consult members of their college for opinions.

Winston Wade, a sophomore, is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Corn Cobs, NUCWA and Young Republicans. He is advertising manager of the Blueprint.

Cumulative average 6.4.

A chance to stand up for what he thinks right and what the students want serves as Wade's basic reason for running for Council.

Friday watch for Teachers, Law, and Dentistry & Pharmacy candidates and their views.

How to Catch An Ivy Pixie

Any University students interested in catching one of the members of NU's secret — and Administration-banned fraternities should keep all-night vigil from now until Ivy Day.

Members of Pi Xi, sub-rosa fraternity, usually leave their publication "Pixie Press" on campus doorsteps at some time during the very late night or early morning immediately before Ivy Day.

The Press contains the Pi Xi's selections for Mortar Board and Innocents Society along with various other observations on campus personalities and organizations.

Nebraskans To Observe Home Week

More than 33,000 Nebraskan women will observe the 14th annual National Home Demonstration Week May 3 through 9.

Theme for the Week is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

One of the purposes of the Week is to explain the extension service program in home economics and to emphasize its contribution to home and family living.

This year, family living programs include assistance to families in planning and managing their resources, health, education, human relations, safety and consumer information on foods, clothing and equipment.

Hear Them Bells? You Shouldn't!

Hearing bells? Don't rush out of class. It is another civil defense warning, but this one should be silent.

The radio control system for Lincoln's Civil Defense sirens will be tested between 8 a.m. today and 5 p.m. Friday, but the sirens themselves should not sound, CD Director Richard Vestecka said.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Illac Ball

The White Lilac Ball, Saturday, will feature Jan Gar-

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

May Pole Dance, Queen Part of First Ivy Days

Ivy Day, a 61 year old campus tradition, has changed and expanded since the first spring festivities began.

The present program stems from a Senior Class Day begun in 1898. In 1901 the festivities were called Ivy Day. Then seniors marched to the old University Hall and sang the school song.

A senior dance was held after the senior class president turned over the ivy trowel to the junior class president.

Tackling of the 13 Innocents was added to the Day two years later.

That same year, 16 senior women did a May Pole dance.

The local chapter of Mortar Board, the Order of the Black Masque, was founded in 1905 and the masking of outstanding junior women made the day a bigger occasion.

Fifty girls carried the first Ivy and Daisy chains around the campus in 1910. In 1912 the first May Queen was crowned.

Ivy from Doughboys was planted in 1918 and a large flat of 1403 stars was presented to the University in honor of college men in the armed services.

After the way a Lord of the May was presented, but the practice was discontinued soon.

Ivy Day in 1938 combined Farmers' Fair, E-Week and the grand opening of the new Student Union.

Three years ago Spring Day was added to make the Ivy Day weekend a busy one.

This Saturday all the innovations of the past combine into one big program with new Innocents biting the dust, thrilled junior women being masqued, and warbling fraternities and sororities competing in the Ivy Day Sing.

The traditional ivy, which traditionally never grows, will be planted by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Numerous trophies for scholarship, activities and achievement will be presented to campus organized houses. A senior woman with the highest average also receives a trophy.

Over it all will reign the May Queen and her court of outstanding junior, senior and sophomore women and the two freshman pages. Ivy and Daisy chain members precede the queen and line the path leading to her throne.

Hinshaw to Play Bach's 'Clavier'

Harvey Hinshaw, assistant professor of piano, will perform in the second of two concerts on the complete First Book of Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier," Thursday.

The performance will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Morrill Hall, Gallery B. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Unlucky Thirteen—Looking ahead to the Spring Day competition, 13 Tri-Delts poured themselves in and around a convertible in preparation for the stuffed car competition. The Spring Day Committee has requested that every organized house on campus enter a car in the

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN—Looking ahead to the Spring Day competition, 13 Tri-Delts poured themselves in and around a convertible in preparation for the stuffed car competition. The Spring Day Committee has requested that every organized house on campus enter a car in the Spring Day parade. Contest rules stipulate that the vehicle must be either a standard sedan or convertible and that the riders stay in or on it during the entire parade Friday.

Sandoz' Advice to New Writers—Start Another Before You Finish

"Start something else before you finish one thing," Mari Sandoz, noted author, told aspiring writers at the poetry and fiction awards presentation Tuesday afternoon.

"Just because you've won a prize don't stop writing," she said. "One story has ruined many a writer!"

Miss Sandoz, and Karl Shapiro, English professor and Pulitzer Prize winning poet, spoke on what they expected from fiction and poetry of the future.

"There's a kind of poetry being written today called academic," Shapiro said, illustrating his statement by reading a poem called "The Operation."

"This type of poem is a perfect thing in itself. There's no relevance in it; it doesn't lead into other things."

He said that other type was not ordinarily written today, and illustrated this by reading a revised poem called "Hot Afternoons Have Been in Montana."

"This kind of poem leads into other things, taking in all aspects," Shapiro said. "I'd advise young poets to take the latter path. It leads to more places!"

Short Story

Miss Sandoz said that she thought that "short story writing has to change."

"There's no place in short story writing for these agonizing internal conflicts," she said. "People don't want to hear about the adjustments in the 12th and 13th years."

She added that the more important aspect was the "person's attitude on the world in which we live," explaining that the change would be an "unconscious one."

Centennial On KUON-TV

"A Salute to the Centennial" will be seen on May 8 on KUON-TV.

The program is one of the "Channel 12 Presents" series. Stories of "Lincoln the New Capital City" and of "Prairie Towns A-Boomin'" will be shown.

The programs are from the "Great Plains Trilogy" series which highlights the political and social history of Nebraska and was filmed in cooperation with the Nebraska State Historical Society.

AWS Gives Later Hour on Ivy Day

Hours will be extended until 2 a.m. Saturday, according to AWS president Polly Doering.

Women students will not be able to take overnights for that evening.

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Illac Ball

The White Lilac Ball, Saturday, will feature Jan Gar-

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

May Pole Dance, Queen Part of First Ivy Days

Ivy Day, a 61 year old campus tradition, has changed and expanded since the first spring festivities began.

The present program stems from a Senior Class Day begun in 1898. In 1901 the festivities were called Ivy Day. Then seniors marched to the old University Hall and sang the school song.

A senior dance was held after the senior class president turned over the ivy trowel to the junior class president.

Tackling of the 13 Innocents was added to the Day two years later.

That same year, 16 senior women did a May Pole dance.

The local chapter of Mortar Board, the Order of the Black Masque, was founded in 1905 and the masking of outstanding junior women made the day a bigger occasion.

Fifty girls carried the first Ivy and Daisy chains around the campus in 1910. In 1912 the first May Queen was crowned.

Ivy from Doughboys was planted in 1918 and a large flat of 1403 stars was presented to the University in honor of college men in the armed services.

After the way a Lord of the May was presented, but the practice was discontinued soon.

Ivy Day in 1938 combined Farmers' Fair, E-Week and the grand opening of the new Student Union.

Three years ago Spring Day was added to make the Ivy Day weekend a busy one.

This Saturday all the innovations of the past combine into one big program with new Innocents biting the dust, thrilled junior women being masqued, and warbling fraternities and sororities competing in the Ivy Day Sing.

The traditional ivy, which traditionally never grows, will be planted by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Numerous trophies for scholarship, activities and achievement will be presented to campus organized houses. A senior woman with the highest average also receives a trophy.

Over it all will reign the May Queen and her court of outstanding junior, senior and sophomore women and the two freshman pages. Ivy and Daisy chain members precede the queen and line the path leading to her throne.

Centennial On KUON-TV

"A Salute to the Centennial" will be seen on May 8 on KUON-TV.

The program is one of the "Channel 12 Presents" series. Stories of "Lincoln the New Capital City" and of "Prairie Towns A-Boomin'" will be shown.

The programs are from the "Great Plains Trilogy" series which highlights the political and social history of Nebraska and was filmed in cooperation with the Nebraska State Historical Society.

AWS Gives Later Hour on Ivy Day

Hours will be extended until 2 a.m. Saturday, according to AWS president Polly Doering.

Women students will not be able to take overnights for that evening.

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Illac Ball

The White Lilac Ball, Saturday, will feature Jan Gar-

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

May Pole Dance, Queen Part of First Ivy Days

Ivy Day, a 61 year old campus tradition, has changed and expanded since the first spring festivities began.

The present program stems from a Senior Class Day begun in 1898. In 1901 the festivities were called Ivy Day. Then seniors marched to the old University Hall and sang the school song.

A senior dance was held after the senior class president turned over the ivy trowel to the junior class president.

Tackling of the 13 Innocents was added to the Day two years later.

That same year, 16 senior women did a May Pole dance.

The local chapter of Mortar Board, the Order of the Black Masque, was founded in 1905 and the masking of outstanding junior women made the day a bigger occasion.

Fifty girls carried the first Ivy and Daisy chains around the campus in 1910. In 1912 the first May Queen was crowned.

Ivy from Doughboys was planted in 1918 and a large flat of 1403 stars was presented to the University in honor of college men in the armed services.

After the way a Lord of the May was presented, but the practice was discontinued soon.

Ivy Day in 1938 combined Farmers' Fair, E-Week and the grand opening of the new Student Union.

Three years ago Spring Day was added to make the Ivy Day weekend a busy one.

This Saturday all the innovations of the past combine into one big program with new Innocents biting the dust, thrilled junior women being masqued, and warbling fraternities and sororities competing in the Ivy Day Sing.

The traditional ivy, which traditionally never grows, will be planted by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Numerous trophies for scholarship, activities and achievement will be presented to campus organized houses. A senior woman with the highest average also receives a trophy.

Over it all will reign the May Queen and her court of outstanding junior, senior and sophomore women and the two freshman pages. Ivy and Daisy chain members precede the queen and line the path leading to her throne.

the DAILY NEBRASKAN

Vol. 33, No. 102 The Daily Nebraskan Wednesday, April 29, 1959

NU Would Co-Operate In Law Study—Hardin ...Romans Will Introduce Investigation

By Marilyn Coffey

The University would cooperate with the Legislature if it chooses to investigate the methods and practices of hiring professors, Chancellor Clifford Hardin said yesterday.

Sen. Jack Romans of Ord has announced that he will introduce a resolution in the Legislature today calling for an "investigation of the hiring of professors at the Law College at the University of Nebraska."

Comments Responsible

The comments of Merton Bernstein, associate professor of law, at a recent meeting of the Legislature's Labor Committee prompted the action, Romans said.

Bernstein had denied, at the public hearing of Gov. Ralph Brook's labor bill, that he was ever a member of the Americans for Democratic Action.

Bernstein later informed the committee that he was mistaken in his statement and had been at one time a member of the group.

Hardin's Statement

A statement by Chancellor Clifford Hardin, released last night, said, in part: "The University of Nebraska's historic policy has always been that persons employed by the institution shall enjoy the full rights of American citizenship, including the right to express themselves on all subjects according to their own best judgments."

"Specifically, the By-Laws and Rules of the University's Board of Regents provides that its faculty members shall

"Comment (on Sen. Romans' resolution) would be premature," Merton Bernstein told the Daily Nebraskan.

"The resolution has not yet been introduced.

"My presentation of the bill to the Labor Committee was in my capacity as a private citizen."

always be free to exercise the rights of their citizenship "without discrimination on account of their being members of the faculty of the University."

"Inherent in this historical tradition is the fact that utterances by members of the faculty are expressions solely of the individual concerned and are neither upheld nor condemned by the University."

The school's policy of hiring faculty members is similar to other institutions, the chancellor said.

Recommendations originate in the department or college involved, are forwarded by the dean to the Dean of Faculties, then to the chancellor and finally to the Board of Regents.

Bernstein Reviewed

Professor Bernstein was interviewed and recommended by a committee of three faculty members of the College of Law, including Dean Belsheim.

The Chancellor noted that Bernstein was asked specifically by Governor Brooks to assist in drafting and presenting a labor bill.

The statutes provide that the Board of Regents shall have power to elect the professors of the University, the chancellor concluded, but if the Legislature decides to investigate, the University will cooperate.

Requests Study

Roman's resolution would ask that five state senators be appointed to conduct the investigation, he said.

The move is aimed specifically at the College of Law and not at the entire University, according to the senator.

"We have nothing to hide," commented David Dow, acting head of the College of Law during Dean Belsheim's illness.

Bernstein, in his letter to

AWS Gives Later Hour on Ivy Day

Hours will be extended until 2 a.m. Saturday, according to AWS president Polly Doering.

Women students will not be able to take overnights for that evening.

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Illac Ball

The White Lilac Ball, Saturday, will feature Jan Gar-

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

May Pole Dance, Queen Part of First Ivy Days

Ivy Day, a 61 year old campus tradition, has changed and expanded since the first spring festivities began.

The present program stems from a Senior Class Day begun in 1898. In 1901 the festivities were called Ivy Day. Then seniors marched to the old University Hall and sang the school song.

A senior dance was held after the senior class president turned over the ivy trowel to the junior class president.

Tackling of the 13 Innocents was added to the Day two years later.

That same year, 16 senior women did a May Pole dance.

The local chapter of Mortar Board, the Order of the Black Masque, was founded in 1905 and the masking of outstanding junior women made the day a bigger occasion.

Fifty girls carried the first Ivy and Daisy chains around the campus in 1910. In 1912 the first May Queen was crowned.

Ivy from Doughboys was planted in 1918 and a large flat of 1403 stars was presented to the University in honor of college men in the armed services.

After the way a Lord of the May was presented, but the practice was discontinued soon.

Ivy Day in 1938 combined Farmers' Fair, E-Week and the grand opening of the new Student Union.

Three years ago Spring Day was added to make the Ivy Day weekend a busy one.

This Saturday all the innovations of the past combine into one big program with new Innocents biting the dust, thrilled junior women being masqued, and warbling fraternities and sororities competing in the Ivy Day Sing.

The traditional ivy, which traditionally never grows, will be planted by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Numerous trophies for scholarship, activities and achievement will be presented to campus organized houses. A senior woman with the highest average also receives a trophy.

Over it all will reign the May Queen and her court of outstanding junior, senior and sophomore women and the two freshman pages. Ivy and Daisy chain members precede the queen and line the path leading to her throne.

Centennial On KUON-TV

"A Salute to the Centennial" will be seen on May 8 on KUON-TV.

The program is one of the "Channel 12 Presents" series. Stories of "Lincoln the New Capital City" and of "Prairie Towns A-Boomin'" will be shown.

The programs are from the "Great Plains Trilogy" series which highlights the political and social history of Nebraska and was filmed in cooperation with the Nebraska State Historical Society.

AWS Gives Later Hour on Ivy Day

Hours will be extended until 2 a.m. Saturday, according to AWS president Polly Doering.

Women students will not be able to take overnights for that evening.

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Illac Ball

The White Lilac Ball, Saturday, will feature Jan Gar-

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

May Pole Dance, Queen Part of First Ivy Days

Ivy Day, a 61 year old campus tradition, has changed and expanded since the first spring festivities began.

The present program stems from a Senior Class Day begun in 1898. In 1901 the festivities were called Ivy Day. Then seniors marched to the old University Hall and sang the school song.

A senior dance was held after the senior class president turned over the ivy trowel to the junior class president.

Tackling of the 13 Innocents was added to the Day two years later.

That same year, 16 senior women did a May Pole dance.

The local chapter of Mortar Board, the Order of the Black Masque, was founded in 1905 and the masking of outstanding junior women made the day a bigger occasion.

Fifty girls carried the first Ivy and Daisy chains around the campus in 1910. In 1912 the first May Queen was crowned.

Ivy from Doughboys was planted in 1918 and a large flat of 1403 stars was presented to the University in honor of college men in the armed services.

After the way a Lord of the May was presented, but the practice was discontinued soon.

Ivy Day in 1938 combined Farmers' Fair, E-Week and the grand opening of the new Student Union.

Three years ago Spring Day was added to make the Ivy Day weekend a busy one.

This Saturday all the innovations of the past combine into one big program with new Innocents biting the dust, thrilled junior women being masqued, and warbling fraternities and sororities competing in the Ivy Day Sing.

The traditional ivy, which traditionally never grows, will be planted by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Numerous trophies for scholarship, activities and achievement will be presented to campus organized houses. A senior woman with the highest average also receives a trophy.

Over it all will reign the May Queen and her court of outstanding junior, senior and sophomore women and the two freshman pages. Ivy and Daisy chain members precede the queen and line the path leading to her throne.

Centennial On KUON-TV

"A Salute to the Centennial" will be seen on May 8 on KUON-TV.

The program is one of the "Channel 12 Presents" series. Stories of "Lincoln the New Capital City" and of "Prairie Towns A-Boomin'" will be shown.

The programs are from the "Great Plains Trilogy" series which highlights the political and social history of Nebraska and was filmed in cooperation with the Nebraska State Historical Society.

AWS Gives Later Hour on Ivy Day

Hours will be extended until 2 a.m. Saturday, according to AWS president Polly Doering.

Women students will not be able to take overnights for that evening.

Stewart, Cole Win Cash Prizes

Dennis Stewart was named winner of the Prairie Schooner first place fiction award while James Cole won first in the poetry Ione Gardner Noyes Awards yesterday.

Both awards carried $50 prizes.

Stewart's short story was entitled "Status Quo," and Cole's was called "What of the Suns?"

Judy Truell won second place of $30 in fiction with her short story, "The Cemetery." Eddie Diamond won second place and $25 for his poem, "Return to Dust."

Melvin Eikelberry, Frank Hemphill and Cole were named as Honorable Mention in the poetry division.

the Labor Committee concerning his membership in the Americans for Democratic Action, wrote that his boss, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon is and was an officer of ADA and that he frequently represented Morse at meetings.

He continued, saying that the ADA and other groups mentioned by Romans at the hearing are "composed of loyal Americans. My membership in them was fully disclosed to the federal government and caused no difficulty whatsoever."

How to Catch An Ivy Pixie

Any University students interested in catching one of the members of NU's secret — and Administration-banned fraternities should keep all-night vigil from now until Ivy Day.

Members of Pi Xi, sub-rosa fraternity, usually leave their publication "Pixie Press" on campus doorsteps at some time during the very late night or early morning immediately before Ivy Day.

The Press contains the Pi Xi's selections for Mortar Board and Innocents Society along with various other observations on campus personalities and organizations.

Nebraskans To Observe Home Week

More than 33,000 Nebraskan women will observe the 14th annual National Home Demonstration Week May 3 through 9.

Theme for the Week is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

One of the purposes of the Week is to explain the extension service program in home economics and to emphasize its contribution to home and family living.

This year, family living programs include assistance to families in planning and managing their resources, health, education, human relations, safety and consumer information on foods, clothing and equipment.

Hear Them Bells? You Shouldn't!

Hearing bells? Don't rush out of class. It is another civil defense warning, but this one should be silent.

The radio control system for Lincoln's Civil Defense sirens will be tested between 8 a.m. today and 5 p.m. Friday, but the sirens themselves should not sound, CD Director Richard Vestecka said.

Three-Hour Gala Parade To Open Centennial Week

Lincoln's Centennial Celebration, in the planning for over a year, begins officially Saturday with a marathon race from Elkhorn.

Runners, retracing the route of the covered wagons that brought the first people to Lincoln, are expected to reach Lincoln just before the 3-hour long parade begins.

Leading Parade

Near the head of the parade will march the University's ROTC units. Floats, bands, civilian and military personnel, antique cars and streetcars will wind through the downtown streets while a jet plane escort thunders overhead.

O St. between 11th and 13th will be sodded and trees will "grow" there during the eight-day celebration.

An Armed Forces Centennial Open House at Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday will display the latest in aircraft.

The giant sodded mall down O St. between 11th and 13th is expected to draw more than 100,000 persons.

Ill