

Something to Aim For Few Graduate 'With High Distinction'

By Del Hood
The sheep whose skin is stamped "with high distinction" or "with distinction" at graduation time has a lot to haa about, and so does the graduate who gets it.

Few walk away from the rostrum on commencement day with a degree bearing these special gold seals, but those who do have at least one thing in common—brains which they've used.

If you're in the market for one of these special sheepskins, you can do a little comparative shopping at the various colleges listed below. None of them requires perfection.

Arts and Sciences— Graduation with honors is not based solely upon grades, although only those with good over-all averages are considered. Most students vying for recognition must write a paper based upon original research, pass a comprehensive examination in their major field of study, and be approved by the Committee on Graduation with Distinction. A number not to exceed 5 of the graduating class is considered for honors based on scholarship alone.

Business Administration— Not more than six of the senior class is eligible for honors; those with 7.5 or better are considered for high distinction award; all nominations are subject to approval by faculty committee which takes into account general excellence as well as scholarship.

Pharmacy— No specific grade requirements; for high distinction, scholarship must be "unusually high" and the student must write a paper on some topic in pharmaceutical science which must be approved by a faculty committee. About ten of the graduating class is considered for honors.

Graduate College—Students are ineligible for these honors.
Agriculture—A total of six of the graduating class is considered, of which two receive the degree "with high distinction." High distinction requires grade average of 8 or better, distinction 7.5. Student's participation in college activities carries some weight.

Dentistry— No requirements specified. Top students in the College of Dentistry are elected to membership in the dental honorary, Omicron Kappa Upsilon.

Engineering and Architecture—Selections of honor students is based on the faculty's evaluation of a candidate and his grades; high distinction requires 8 or better, distinction 7.4.

Law—No specific requirements; nominations subject to approval by faculty committee.

Teachers—Advisers recommend students for honors; list of prospective candidates is circulated among faculty for approval, and each student must get at least five faculty signatures in order to rate consideration by the selection committee; selection is based upon scholarship (8 or better for high distinction, 7 or better for distinction), professional promise as indicated by grades received in student teaching, advice of the student-teacher supervi-or, and the student's community service activities.

These aren't bargain-counter prices, but the cost really isn't too prohibitive.

Such high honors are "within the range of a lot of people if they'd work a little harder," says John Fristoe, who graduated with high distinction in June 1958.

And apparently graduation with honors is a good guarantee against failure, according to Chancellor Clifford Hardin.

"It has been our experience that men and women who graduate from the University with high distinction continue to excel in whatever walk of life they choose to enter," Hardin said.

'Shrew' Set For Tonight

On Arena Stage; Carlson Directs

The University Theatre production of "Taming of the Shrew" will be presented tonight at 8 p.m. on the arena stage located at 12th and O Sts., according to Jerry Carlson, director of the play.

The play was originally scheduled for May 5, the Lincoln Centennial Culture Day, but was postponed because of rain. Carlson stated that in case of bad weather, the play will be given at Howell Theatre in the Temple Building. Admission is free.

Ann Prentice is the production manager for the play. The leads, Katherina and Petruchio will be played by Bonna Tabo Hays and Bill Baker.

Other cast members are Bianca, Sally Wengert; Lucentio, Steve Schultz; Gremio, Zeff Berstein; Hortencio, Howard Martin; Baptists, John Gerber; Curtis, James MacDonald; Francio, Roy Willey; Biondello, Francis Hamer; Grumio, John Erickson; Pedant, Lee Goodhart; and a widow, Madelyn Miroff.

High school students will play servants and other bit parts, according to Carlson.

Sale Thursday

The Nearly New Shop operated by the Faculty Women's Club and University Dames will be open Thursday evening from 7 until 9 p.m. for the last time this Spring.

Any student may use the facilities of the shop located in temporary A. An ID card is all that is needed.

'Greek Games' to Top Annual Greek Week

Spring Frolic to Be Held Friday At South End of Practice Field

Highlighting the annual Greek Week, from May 11-17, will be the "Greek Games" Friday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the south end of the football practice field.

Sponsored by the Junior interfraternity council, the games are promising to be new and different when the Greeks gather to test their physical prowess.

This year the games will feature a phone booth paka women's hurdles races, a raw egg race, a back to back race and the traditional chariot race.

Four men, instead of the previous two, will be required to pull the chariot in this final race, which will begin at 4:30.

According to the rules set up by the Junior IFC, the wheels for the chariot are to be 26 inches in diameter, with the maximum distance from the axle to the tip of the tongue to be 10 feet. The shape of the tongue is to be a "T" and is not to exceed 7 feet in length.

The girl representing the fraternity must be protected from the wheels in some manner and the chariot must be sturdy enough for her safety. The minimum length between the wheels is to be 3 feet, while the maximum length is 3 feet 8 inches.

The box must be at least 3 feet at its longest point, with its minimum height to be 2 feet 6 inches. The final requirement asks that there be no sharp edges on the chariot.

Starting the games off at 2 p.m., fraternity men will be able to repeat their "cramming" performance at Spring Day activities, only at this event, phone booths will be used.

Strictly on a time basis, two fraternities at a time will compete and try to cram as many men as they can into the booths.

Following this bone-crushing event, sorority women can kick their heels in the hurdles race. Selected in an impartial drawing by the fraternities, the co-eds, dressed in skirts and sweaters, will have to hurdle bales of hay.

One runner from each fraternity house will compete in the raw egg race at 3:30. Covering a track of 220 yards' the barefoot runners in order to win, must still have the egg (intact) in their mouths.

The eggs can be held in the mouth, in the hands, or taped to the body. The last three losers in the race will have to eat the eggs.

Entries in the race will be eliminated if they run off the track, break another's eggs or break their own eggs.

In the back race, each house will submit two entries, a heavy man and a light man.

The runners must wear tennis shoes and run the 60 yards distance first one way and then return. No pushing or any other type of foul play will be permitted.

The Greek competition trophy will be presented to the fraternity accumulating the highest number of points at the conclusion of the chariot races.

The phone booth pak will be scored: 1st, 6; 2nd, 4; 3rd, 2. The chariot races will be scored: 1st, 10; 2nd, 6; 3rd, 3. All other events will be scored: 1st, 5; 2nd, 3; 3rd, 1.

Applications for the "Greek Games" must be submitted to Dick Stuckey at the Delta Tau Delta house no later than Wednesday.
