

'Voice' Features—Politics to Poetry Fare Is Varied in Village Weekly

By Don Bennett
New York City's Greenwich Village, an assortment of individualistic individuals, has long been in the nation's spotlight as a stronghold of the free-thinking artistic, dramatic, and literary types. The reputation for individualistic nonconformity exists even today, despite commercialism and the exploitation of the tourist.

Informing the villagers is the "Village Voice," a weekly newspaper with a combination of politics, poetry, beatnik wisdom and community enthusiasm, quenching the residents thirst for the beat and the off-beat.

Theories and Humor
Well-known New York writers, comics, critics and artists weekly contribute their various theories and humor to provide a conflict of ideas mellowed with laughter.

Advertisements proclaim poetry contests for "the beats and the bards, scops and skalds." Beer ads try to win the hearts of the villagers with take-offs on classical literature.

Announcements inform the public of upcoming open air art shows and jazz concerts. An article was published upholding a congressman for his stand against banning obscenity.

One of the features for the uninitiated is the Letters-To-The-Editor column, which pours forth pro and cons concerning the most recent thorn in the side of the American way of life, the beat generation — or degeneration — according to some opinions.

Weekly arguments of offense and defense flicker back and forth in an issue that has forced its way into the thoughts and conversations of America — hipsterism.

Occasionally a straight news story is noted. But, one small item might bring disappointment to the Mid-Western who has dreamed of "roughing it" in the big city, living in the Village for little expense and great experience.

According to the classified ad section, unfurnished two-room apartments run anywhere from $105 to $150 a month.

Accelerated Math Class Planned for Top Frosh

Thirty freshmen have been selected to take an accelerated math course for the coming semester.

Picked from more than 1,000 first year math students at the University, they will complete more mathematics in three semesters than the average student receives in four.

Graduate Work as Juniors
The students will be doing graduate work in math when they are in their junior year in college, Dr. Douglas Guy, assistant professor of mathematics, explained.

The honor course was established last year under the direction of Dr. Guy and Dr. Walter Mientka, assistant professor of mathematics.

Leatherneck Interviews Coming Up

Students interested in obtaining commissions in the Marine Corps after graduation will be interviewed in the Student Union Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 by Captain Darrell U. Davidson, Marine Corps Selection Officer.

The Marine Corps offers the platoon leaders class for college underclassmen and the officer candidate course for seniors and graduates. Pilot training as an officer is available to graduates of both programs.

College women in their junior and senior year are eligible for the Women Officers Training Course which qualifies them for a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Women Marines.

Sears-Roebuck Scholarships Go To Ag Students

Twenty-three freshmen enrolled in the College of Agriculture have been named recipients of Sears-Roebuck Foundation scholarships.

The students chosen from the upper one-fourth of their high school graduating classes will each receive a check for $200 for the academic year 1959-60. The scholarships are jointly sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and the Lincoln Sears-Roebuck store.

The 23 winners, seven girls and 16 boys, are Sherry Bergh, Jane Fauquet, Marilyn Pollard, Sandra Weiher, Sharon Stevens, Connie Vavra and Nona Jacobitz.

John Anderson, Arlo Bieri, Donald Blecha, Thomas Corkle, Donald Ehlers, Ted Evans, Paul Imm and James Jackson.

YW Meets To Begin This Week

Upperclass women who did not sign up at the Activities Mart Wednesday may attend YWCA group meetings beginning this week in the Student Union.

The following topics will be discussed:

Community Service, Karen Long, leader, Monday at 4:30 p.m.; Love and Marriage, Carol Vermaas, leader, Tuesday at 4 p.m.; Social Questions, Kathy Roach, leader, Tuesday at 5 p.m.; Christmas Bazaar, Jo Rogers, leader, Wednesday at 3 p.m.; Religion, Ginny Hansen, leader, Wednesday at 4 p.m.; and Chat and Chew, (bring lunch), Linda Picard, leader, Friday noon.

Rifle Group Sets Smoker On Thursday

Pershing Rifles will hold its annual smoker Thursday to acquaint potential members with the group's activities and organization.

The smoker will be held in Union 314 and 316 at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments and free smokes will be provided in addition to a movie of Pershing Rifle history.

Pershing Rifles National Headquarters, which controls and coordinates the program throughout the United States, is located here.

The organization features social activities — which include dances, parties and stag functions — as well as nationwide drill competition and weekend field problems.

Pershing Company Commander is Cadet Jim Pangborn and military adviser is Captain Charles J. Svoboda.

Those unable to attend the smoker are invited to attend any Rifle meeting. They are held each Monday and Wednesday at 5 p.m. in the Military and Naval Science Building Drill Hall.

ROTC Men Win Grants

Navy ROTC scholarships have been awarded to 25 students at the University this year. The scholarships cover tuition, fees, books and subsistence pay of $50 per month.

Those who received scholarships are:

James Argo, Wilbur Bentz, Robert Burrell, Richard Creighton, Joseph Edwards, John Haberstrill, Michael Hewlett, John Hildebrandt, Kent Hildreth, John Horalek, William Hurd and Phillip Isaacs.

Lacy Speaks To Foundations

Breakfast and luncheon programs at Wesley Foundation today enabled students to hear Henry A. Lacy tell of his experiences in the remote United Provinces of India.

The breakfast meeting was held this morning at Wesley Foundation and the luncheon was scheduled for 11 a.m. to noon at Ag Foundation.

Lacy, a lay missionary for 15 years, has been considered one of the outstanding Christian missionaries contributing to the solving of extensive industrial, agricultural, medical and educational village problems in the United Provinces.

Mademoiselle Has College Board Jobs

Applications for Mademoiselle magazine's college board are now being accepted.

Girls on the college board do at least one assignment during the year about campus life, art work or fashion, feature, fiction or promotion ideas for possible use in the magazine.

They also have a chance to win one of 20 guest editorships, which is a month on the staff of Mademoiselle. The guest editors are brought to New York during June to help write, edit and illustrate the August college issue.

They are paid for the work plus round-trip transportation to New York City.

Deadline for applications is Nov. 30. Further information may be obtained from the College Board Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, New York.

Law Profs Tell Pros 'No Work'

No homework was assigned by professors in the College of Law for their two hundred "students for a day."

Many of these men were in the classroom for the first time in 10 years when they sat down for an institute for Nebraska lawyers.

Some showed hesitancy in finding seats when the 10 o'clock bell rang while others were found with a cup in one hand and doughnut in the other. Professor David Dow brought the tardy attorneys into place for the opening lecture by Daniel Stubbs of Alliance.

Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin said in his welcome speech, that the institute provided lawyers a chance to mix business with pleasure when by coincidence it was held on the first football weekend.

For many it was homecoming, since it was the first time they had returned to Law College since graduation. Many said they were impressed with the number of changes made on the campus.

New Fellowship To Be Started

A kickoff banquet to establish a Baptist student fellowship is scheduled Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Baptist students have been combined with the Disciple group at Cotner School of Religion and will now start a separate group.

Bill Adams, a Minnesota high school coach, will speak on "The Game of Life." Meryl Burner and Larry Neilson, assistant pastors at First and Second Baptist Churches, also will speak.

Larry Neilson, graduate student, will be master of ceremonies.

U.S. Accounting Jobs

Applications for written examinations for accounting clerk and supervisory accounting clerk jobs with federal agencies located in this area are available from Gerald W. Vallery, civil service examiner, U.S. Post Office, Lincoln, or from the Ninth Civil Service Region, New Federal Building, St. Louis, Mo.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

'NAAM, I AIN'T WORRIED ABOUT THIS 'O'. MOST OF TH' CLASS GOT ONE AN SINCE YA GRADE ON TH' CURVE I FIGGER IT'S WORTH A 'C.'

Off-Campus Classes Taught in 27 Towns

Twenty-seven Nebraska communities are participating in off-campus classes this fall.

Miss Rosalie Farley, coordinator of the Teachers College in-service education program, said that more than 47 courses are being offered. Between 1,400 and 1,500 persons are expected to participate.

Certification Higher
More of this year's courses are of the junior, senior and graduate level than in the past, she said, adding that the classes will start within the next two weeks.

"Because teacher certification is higher, many instructors in Nebraska are better prepared and are thinking in terms of earning master's degrees," she said. "Consequently they demand the graduate courses."

Requests from persons outside the teaching profession are also mounting, she noted, explaining that the shift indicates that persons are using their spare time to improve their education.

Minimum of 20 Students
A minimum of 20 students is required to organize an off-campus course. The program is supported by fees from off-campus courses.

Courses and towns in which they will be offered during first semester include Albion — art, English and geography; Beatrice — speech; Broken Bow — political science; Burwell — history; Butte — history; Central City — sociology; Columbus — education and sociology; David City — speech and political science; Fairbury — education; Fremont — education; and Fullerton — political science and English.

Others are Geneva — sociology; Grand Island — art, English and education; Hastings — education; Nelson — physical education; Norfolk — education; North Platte — political science, art and education; Ogallala — education and political science; O'Neill — geography; Ord — education; Osceola — English; Pierce — physical education; Schuyler — history and music; Plainview — speech; Tekamah — education; Wahoo — political science, and York — education.

Agronomists Tour State Ag Sights

The University Agronomy Club recently completed a two-day tour of central Nebraska's top agricultural sights in a motorcade of station wagons.

Their first stop was in Clay County where they visited a minimum corn tillage sight. They then continued on to Hastings where they were luncheon guests of the Hastings Seed and Supply Co., after which they viewed the company's sorghum seed production lots.

At Lexington, they visited the hydro-electric and steam plants on Johnson Lake and were later the dinner guests of the Dawson County Dehydrating Association.

The second day of travel took the tour to Holdrege where they visited a liquid fertilizer plant. They later viewed the Phelps county sugar beet fields near Holdrege.

Their next stop was the Tri-Co Feed Mill in Minden where they saw dehydrating units and choppers in action. They then visited the Walter Bendfeldt farm near Minden where they saw leveling cuts made for irrigation purposes.

The final stop was in Webster County where they visited the Rosemont Hydrology Station. This station is the scene of many important tests taken to determine rainfall, run-off and silt loss.
