

ROTC Honors:

NU Men Turn in Top Honors

Nearly 200 ROTC students, who returned to the campus this fall from six weeks of active military training, brought with them more than their share of honors awarded for top performance.

At a glance here is how their achievements stack up:—The 69 Army ROTC cadets as a whole were awarded first place in overall competition among 18 colleges and universities attending the Ft. Riley camp.

—Air Force cadets captured the highest overall rating of any detachment with eight or more students at Fairchild Air Force Base near Seattle, Wash.

—At least 10 Naval ROTC cadets won top honors on ships on which they were stationed.

There also were many individual achievements which received recognition.

Three On Top

Three Army cadets—Robert A. Wehrbein of Plattsmouth, Gary E. Burger of Neligh and Gene R. Kobza of Lincoln—were awarded ribbons and certificates as top members of their respective platoons. Wehrbein was first out of 39 students, Burger first out of 38 and Kobza first out of 41.

For the Air Force Donald D. Nelson of Lincoln, cadet colonel, was selected as the outstanding cadet from some 200 students at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., and was presented the Commandant's Award. He also was named winner of the North American Aviation Award given by North American Aviation Company.

Carl W. Anderson of Edgar won the trophy for outstanding pistol marksmanship at Fairchild AFB after competing with nearly 200 other cadets for the honor. Jim Anderson of Omaha was designated as outstanding cadet of 25 students in his flight at Fairchild.

Individual honors for Naval ROTC cadets included these winners:

Frederick J. Howlett, senior in the College of Engineering and Architecture, top cadet of seven in his class on the destroyer, USS McDermott.

Top Of Four

Clifford C. Oberlander, senior in the College of Business

Administration, top cadet of four in his class on the carrier, USS Hornet.

Ross McGlasson, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, top cadet of eight in his class on the destroyer, USS Isbell.

George C. Porter, senior in the College of Engineering and Architecture, and Lanny A. Yeske, senior in Teachers College, who both ranked in the upper quarter of cadets on their ships. Porter served on the submarine, USS Sabalo, and Yeske on the submarine, USS Tunny.

Larry P. Schrag, Teachers College graduate, top cadet the carrier, USS Bennington, and William Boggan, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, top cadet in his class of 43 on the same ship.

William D. Dermeyer, sophomore in the College of Engineering and Architecture, top cadet in his class of 20 on the destroyer, USS Taussig.

Marines

Two students who attended the Marine training camp at Quantico, Va.—Charles Taylor, senior in the College of Engineering and Architecture and William J. Danek, senior in the College of Business Administration—won honors for ranking in the top 25 per cent of their 170 man company.

Those who won individual honors were judged on performance in such areas as leadership, tactics, written tests and acceptance of command responsibilities.

Col. Vernon R. Rawie, head of the Army ROTC program at the University, said that to his knowledge the past summer's performance by Army cadets was the best on record.

He voiced belief that pride in not only their work, but in the University was partially responsible for the top performance.

Years Ago

He said that several years ago the students lacked this spirit and self confidence. "Now, however, they are redeveloping it and are undergoing a change for the better."

Col. Willard B. Atwell, professor of Air Science, said the training camps for Air ROTC students had given them the opportunity to learn duties necessary in running an Air Force installation.

"It's a rigorous physical training course and the cadets use the time to develop their leadership abilities," he said.

The 31 participating Air Force cadets were put through activities ranging from survival training to actual flying. A typical camp day began at 4:40 a.m. and ended at 9 a.m.

Tactics

For Army cadets camp activities included working out tactical problems, close order drill and range firing.

On shipboard many of the Naval cadets assumed duties of junior officers who were absent and consequently were responsible for important duties necessary in sailing the craft, according to Lt. Col. E. R. McCarthy, executive officer.

A summer training cruise or camp is required of all ROTC students before they can be commissioned as officers upon graduation.

Faculty Dinner Planned Tonight

The annual faculty homecoming dinner will be held in the Student Union ballroom at 6:30 p.m. today.

Norman Cromwell, professor of chemistry, will be master of ceremonies.

Chancellor Clifford Hardin will speak following the banquet and also will present certificates to faculty staff members with an accumulative 25 years of service.

A turnout of five hundred is expected.

Foreigners Tour State Ag Sights

Eleven men and four women from nine foreign countries are touring Nebraska for three weeks as part of an "Agricultural Home Economics and Rural Youth Extension Training Course."

The course in Nebraska is being conducted by members of the University's Agricultural Extension Service staff.

Extension Study

While in Nebraska, the group is making a study of the agricultural extension service from the country to state level.

The delegation includes representatives of Brazil, British Guiana, Korea, Republic of China, Somalia, Yugoslavia, Sudan, Israel, Indonesia and Kenya.

Members of the group have also visited Cornell University, Pennsylvania State University and the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Hebron First

The three-week tour will take the group first to Hebron where they will see a Thayer County extension program.

From there they will proceed to Fremont to view the Hormel packing plant. They will be in Aurora Friday and Hastings on Monday.

K. C. Fouts, former extension animal husbandryman at the University, is serving as leader while Miss Helen Rocke, former extension clothing specialist, is assisting.

Poet Group Announces Anthology

The National Poetry Assn. has announced the opening of its annual competition in the College Students' Poetry Anthology.

Any student attending college is eligible to submit his verse. There is no limitation as to form or theme although shorter works are preferred by the board of judges. Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet and must bear the name and home address of the student, as well as the name of the college attended.

College Teachers' National Anthology competition is also open. Teachers and Librarians are invited to submit poetry manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in the annual National Teachers Anthology.

Closing date for the submission of manuscripts by college teachers and librarians is Jan. 1 while student competition closes Nov. 5.

Manuscripts and verses should be sent to the National Poetry Assn., 3210 Selby Ave., Los Angeles 34, Calif.

KK To Meet This Afternoon

Kosmet Klub will meet at 4 p.m. today in Room 349 of the Student Union.

Skits for the Klub's Fall Revue will be discussed and all fraternities are urged to send either their skit director or a representative.

The date for the Revue is Dec. 11.

Klub workers will meet at 8 tonight in the Kosmet Klub offices for their first fall meeting.

KK vice president Dave Godbey stressed the importance of perfect attendance.

Classes Offered In Slide Rule

Classes in slide rule instruction are being offered by Sigma Tau beginning next Monday.

Registration forms for the classes are available at the bulletin boards in Burnett, Ferguson, Richards, Stout and Avery Halls.

State Tax Commissioner Addresses Law Institute

State tax commissioner Fred Herrington was the featured speaker Saturday before some 200 Nebraska lawyers gathered at the College of Law for a two-day institute on probate practice.

He predicted that the Nebraska Unicameral will continue to support legislation for severe punishment of persons who fail to report property.

Herrington, who resigned from his state post recently to accept a private tax research position with the Nebraska Citizens Council Jan. 1, said, "For the past 10

AUF Vote Goes Slowly

Voting for the All University Fund choices progressed extremely slow Monday, according to Skip Harris, AUF poll chairman.

At 4 p.m., only about 50 ballots had been turned in to the voting booth in the Student Union front lobby.

Voting consisted of choosing between seven national charities, two international foundations and two state and two local funds, a total of four votes on each ballot.

Organizations such as the Nebraska Heart Foundation, headed by Mrs. Clifford Hardin, wife of the Chancellor, the American Cancer Society, the American Foundation for the Blind, Red Cross, and the Common Cold Foundation represented on the ballot will be assisted by the AUF.

An all-campus indication from Monday's poll was to indicate which charities will receive support.

Key To Color Code Aids All But the Color Blind

Colored ribbons displayed at the neckline, better known as sorority pledge ribbons, have been seen each fall since 1943.

And fellows since that time have been embarrassed because they just don't remember sorority colors.

Art Gallery To Enter First Stages

Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery will go through the drawing and placement stage during October.

A New York City architect, Philip Johnson, whose most recent work is the bronze and gold Seagram Building in downtown Manhattan, will spend several days on the campus studying the placement of the building at the 12th and R Sts. vicinity.

The work done so far on the location has been making the area "less objectionable," according to the building and Grounds Department. The exact site has not been established.

Johnson will also speak to classes in the department of architecture during his stay here.

University High Seniors Emerge Top in Number

Seniors at University High School show their priority as they emerge with the largest class enrollment this term.

There are 67 seniors enrolled as compared to 56 juniors, 62 sophomores, 33 freshmen, 23 eighth graders and 25 seventh graders. Overall enrollment of 271 is down one from last year's total of 272.

Eight new additions were made to the high school staff to fill vacancies, Carroll Sawin, assistant to the principal, reported.

They are Gordon Gerst, science; Leverne Thelen, science; Glenn Crumb, science; John Kunkel, audio-visual aids; Herbert Carson, speech; Robert Frogge, social studies; Robert Harding, mathematics; and Gloria Tye, school nurse.

Deske Will Show Rare Etchings

Previews of new art acquisitions at the university art galleries will be shown on KUON-TV October 2.

Norman Deske, director of the Art Galleries, will direct the 8 p.m. show exhibiting a piece of sculpture by the Italian Medardo Rosso and display art work by outstanding designers of several other countries. Some of the etchings are rare and perhaps the only in existence.

Blueprint Seeks Staff Recruits

An introductory meeting for freshmen and sophomores in Engineering College interested in working on the Nebraska Blueprint will be held at 5 p.m. today in 102 Stout Hall.

Positions on both the editorial and business staffs are available.

Previous journalism experience is not necessary.

Here's the key to solving ribbon trouble:

Alpha Chi Omega's are decked in scarlet and olive green while AOPi's wear the single red. Alpha Phi's wear the silver and bordeaux while Alpha Xi Delta's have gold and double blue.

Chi O's parade by with cardinal and straw, and the silver, gold and blue sash marks the Tri Delt pledge. D G's ribbons are bronze, pink and blue while Gamma Phi's claim the brown and mode.

Kappa Alpha Theta claims black and gold and Kappa Delta olive green and white. Kappa Kappa Gamma's wear two shades of blue and Pi Beta Phi arrows point to wine and blue.

Violet and maroon appear on Sigma Kappa's while Zeta Tau Alphas follow through with turquoise and gray.

Ribbons will be appearing for a few more weeks until formal pledgings take place.
