On the Social Side:
First Week's Classes Keep Cupid Running

By Pat Dean
 The first week of school apparently has produced something besides sighs of "wish I weren't here" and attacks of tonsillitis. Eighteen pinnings and engagements were heralded at Monday night dinners proving that spring isn't the only time of year devoted to romance.

Pinnings
 Sylvia Steiner, a Terrace Hall senior in music from Elmwood, to Bill Johnston, a Sigma Phi Epsilon alum from Lincoln.
 Annie Olson, an Alpha Phi junior in music from Sidney, to Jack Holmes, a Phi Delta Theta senior in Business Administration from Omaha.

Eastman Co. Establishes Fellowship

A fellowship, providing from $1,500 to $2,500 for the recipient, has been established by the Eastman Kodak Company.

The fellowship is for advanced study in the College of Business Administration. It will be awarded to a student who is in his last year of study for his doctorate degree in business.

The amount of the fellowship depends on the recipient's marital status and number of dependents. Travel expenses to enable the student to attend one professional meeting appropriate to his field of study and an additional $1,000 to the University to help defray research expenses will also be provided.

Pre-Med Group Elects Brown

Jim Brown, senior in Arts and Sciences, has been elected president of Theta Nu, pre-medical honorary fraternity.

Vice-president is Vernon Garwood, with Ken Barjenbruch serving as secretary-treasurer. The group's adviser is Dr. Eugene F. Powell.

The purpose of the fraternity is to promote high scholarship among pre-medical students and give an insight into medical careers.

Twelve In For 'Usual' Illnesses

Twelve students have been confined to the Student Health Center during the first one and one half weeks of classes.

The patients are reported to be suffering from what were described as "the usual student illnesses" such as "mono" and virus infections.

This season promises to bring on the usual number of respiratory infections, according to Dr. Samuel Fuenning, medical director of the Health Center.

A relief for sufferers is in sight in the form of a new vaccine which will help prevent these infections.

For greatest effectiveness it is recommended that the shot be obtained before the virus is contracted.

One vaccination will be effective for the period of one year.

Meets Scheduled For Ag Builders

Meeting times for Ag College Builder's committees have been announced.

Ag tours will meet Monday at 4 p.m. and publicity will meet Tuesday at 4 p.m. Wednesday's meetings include parties and conventions at 4 p.m. and tours at 5 p.m.
