—Big 8 Talent—

Lack of Entrants Topples Show

Due to lack of entrants from Big Eight schools, the Big Eight Talent Show scheduled for Feb. 14 has been cancelled.

The official decision was made Tuesday night by the Student Union Activities Board after the University of Colorado called Monday and said it couldn't gather enough acts to make the tour.

O-State Out, Too
Friday Oklahoma State cancelled because of a basketball game scheduled on the same night.

With those cancellations only Kansas State and Nebraska were left in the show. The other four schools did not want to take part in the program because of cost factors and regulations placed by their respective Student Affairs agents.

The Union committee said that with all the difficulties incurred that it would be doubtful if this type of show would be tried next year.

"The announcement will come as a disappointment to those who tried out in the local contest and were awaiting the announcement of the acts which were chosen for the traveling show," said Allen Bennett, Union manager.

"It is unfortunate and we apologize to all concerned," he said.

The board hopes this will not discourage students to participate in other future events.

'Unintentional'
Bennett said he wanted everyone to understand it was no intention of the university that this be cancelled until the unavoidable circumstance occurred.

However, the Union board is working on a plan for next year which would lead to a all-campus variety show at which numbers would be selected for touring Nebraska for organizations and high schools. Other Big Eight schools also are contemplating a similar program.

$400 for Tour
The Union board did not know whether such a tour could be organized from talent interviewed earlier this year due to financial reasons. Bennett estimated that a three-day week-end tour for 15 people would cost about $400.

The Big Eight talent show began three years ago. Money to finance the trip was obtained by admission for the show at each school. Meals were furnished at the host's expense but additional finances for traveling were made available by each participating school.

Registration
Progressing
Smoothly
Alternate Courses Often Not Listed

All students who failed to turn in their worksheets last week must now wait until Friday, Jan. 29, to register for next semester classes.

According to Mrs. Irma Laase, assistant registrar, only a few students failed to turn in worksheets during the time allotted.

She remarked that registration was progressing smoothly. The program was simplified further due to the fact that students in Business Administration and Agriculture turned their worksheets in to the office of their college dean.

The worksheets for these two particular colleges were turned in each day in a single group cutting down on the confusion at the desk in Administration.

The only difficulty encountered has been failure of students to list alternate courses, Mrs. Laase said.

New students and returning students may register Jan. 29-Feb. 13. Approximately the same number of new students are expected next semester as compared to mid-term of last year. Approximately 200 to 300 new students are expected next semester. Last year the University gained 243 newcomers at mid-term.

No increase in married students is anticipated second semester in spite of many semester-break wedding plans. According to attendance figures, however, the number of married persons on campus increased from 1,515 last year to 2,906 recorded in this fall's enrollment.

Friday's Paper To Be 8-Pager

Friday's edition of the Daily Nebraskan will consist of eight pages. The issue will be the last of the semester and will feature "Outstanding Nebraskan" award winners.

Late Hour Reaction Is 'Quiet'

First Night
Draws 100-150

Frank Lundy, director of the University libraries, described the student reaction to the late Love library hours as "quiet."

He said there were approximately 100-150 students in the library Monday night until the new late hour of 10:50 p.m. He reported all were quietly studying and were very cooperative and understanding about the system the library has adopted in regard to the late hours.

Staff Assignments
Lundy explained the regular staff would be on hand to assist students with reference help only until 9 p.m. each evening. After nine, student assistants who have had experience working in the library will check out books for students. However, no reference help will be available after the regular staff has left.

Lundy commented, "We feel the students need this service and will use it."

He anticipated the number using the library until 10:50 would increase as they became accustomed to the new hours.

Police Patrol
He explained the campus police were cooperating with the library in regard to the late hours. Campus police will check the library occasionally after 9 p.m. and patrol the surrounding area after 9 p.m. as a safeguard to the students.

"We are trying to provide the student with the service he needs at a minimum cost and with the necessary safeguards," Lundy explained.

He said this is not the first time the library has tried experimental hours at the request of the students. About three or four years ago they opened the library for the first time on Sunday afternoons and evenings. After one semester the evening hours were abandoned because not enough students took advantage of them.

The present 10:50 p.m. hours will be maintained through finals and become the regular library hours next semester.

Ag Exec Board
The Ag Exec Board will meet at 7 p.m. today in the Ag Union.

Interviews For Contest Are Tonight

Five Judged to Pick Best Dressed Girl

Interviews will begin at 7:15 tonight in 349 Student Union for the Best Dressed Girl contest.

Seventeen coeds have been entered in the contest which is being sponsored on campus by the Daily Nebraskan for Glamour Magazine.

The girl winning the title will be entered in the national contest. Ten winners of the national contest will then be flown to New York in June for 10 days of parties, fashion shows, tours and dinners.

Judges for the event include Mrs. Naomi Schleis, buyer at Hovland-Swanson; Mrs. Ginny Hollenbaugh, fashion coordinator at Ben Simon and Sons; Miss Mary Louise Babst, fashion coordinator at Miller and Paine; Jack Nielsen, president of Student Council, and Stan Kaiman, business manager of the Daily Nebraskan.

Candidates should wear street dresses with appropriate accessories for their interview. They will be asked questions pertaining to clothes budget, campus customs, understanding fashion and make-up.

The coeds, their affiliation and interview times are as follows:

Diplomas Handed Out On Saturday

More than 390 graduating students will receive degrees Saturday, Jan. 30, at the University's mid-year Commencement exercises.

Chancellor Clifford Hardin will preside. Dr. Allen Breckenridge, dean of faculties, will serve as master of ceremonies; and the Rev. Charles Wilson, pastor of First Christian Church, Lincoln, will be chaplain.

There will be no commencement speaker this year. The reason for the change in the traditional order of graduation is due to a decision made by the Commencement Committee that more emphasis should be placed on the graduates rather than speakers.

The number of graduates is slightly below last year's mid-term class of 404.

UNSEA Has Meeting Set

The University Student Education Association (UNSEA) will meet at 8 tonight in Love Library Auditorium.

John Lynch, executive secretary of the Nebraska Education Association, will present the program on "The Teacher in Politics." Lynch has served as lobbyist in the state legislature for the NEA for the past several years.

Gov. Ralph Brooks who was scheduled to speak was unable to attend.

Members of the Nebraska Wesleyan Student Education Association will be special guests. The meeting is open to the public.

Installation Set For Builders

University Builders installation of executive board officers and chairmen will take place tonight in 340 Student Union at 7 p.m.

Newly chosen assistants are also asked to attend the meeting, according to Dick Basoco, retiring president. Retiring chairmen are reminded to bring their notebooks to the meeting.

Nominations Reach 15 For Nebraskan Honor

Seven students and faculty members were nominated for Outstanding Nebraskan Tuesday as nominations closed.

This brings total nominations to 15.

Prof. Paul Schach of the German department and Miss Mary Jane Mulvaney of the physical education department were nominated for the faculty award.

Five Students
Nominated for the student award were Bob Blair, Harry Tolly, Norman Rohlfing, Gary "Doc" Rodgers, and Larry Romjue.

Professor Schach was credited with bringing "honor to our University by being invited to lecture and teach at other institutions of learning. In addition, he has written and published several books dealing with the Germanic languages and also translations of Icelandic and Old Norse."

The letter continued that Schach was an "outstanding teacher. He has the helpfulness and understanding necessary for this profession. He excites the interest of his pupils with his own personal enthusiasm for his subject."

Language Understanding
"Not only does he teach the German language, but Prof. Schach gives his students an understanding of the German history and culture and, through this, a better understanding of our own."

Miss Mulvaney's "boundless enthusiasm and energy" were praised in her letter of nomination.

"Taking a course under her is a splendid experience. She is never too busy to help a student or a student organization."

"She has been an adviser of Mortar Board for many years and was made an honorary member of that organization last year. The qualifications for honorary membership are very stringent and require many contentions both academically and activity-wise."

Advising Positions
Miss Mulvaney also has served as WAA adviser, AWS adviser and president of the Student Union Board of Managers. She has been a Coed Follies judge many times.

Bob Blair was nominated because, according to his letter, "there is no one person who has done more for our University in the past year."

His activities include commander of the Army ROTC, Kappa Alpha Mu, honorary photographic fraternity; past president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Student Council, IFC and Innocents Society.

"As a member of Student Council he worked hard to help organize the new system of registration."

Rush Week Revision
The letter credited Blair with revising Rush Week too, in his position as vice president of IFC. He was also elected president of the Big Eight IFC at the convention held in Denver, Colo.

Gary Rodgers' nomination said that he is "known and respected not only on campus but throughout the state for his many contributions to good government."

Rodgers has been vice president of Student Tribunal, Young Republicans and NUCWA, a reporter, columnist and copy editor of the Daily Nebraskan and a member of the campus religious council.

YR Offices
He is rush chairman and secretary of Sigma Nu fraternity. He has been state college director, state organizational director and Midwest college treasurer of the Young Republicans.

The nomination for Harry Tolly said that the reasons for his nomination can "best be summed up in the qualifications required for a fine honor Harry received earlier this year."

Tolly was given one of the National Football Foundation scholar-athlete awards which required "outstanding football ability and performance, outstanding academic application and achievement and outstanding campus leadership and example."

Baseball Player
Tolly has been a member of the baseball team, Student Council, historian of Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education honorary; Pi Mu Epsilon, national honorary mathematics fraternity; Mu Epsilon Nu, local Teachers College honorary scholastic fraternity; president of N club, member of Innocents and the football team. He is president of Sigma Chi.

Rohlfing was credited with doing "much to improve relationships between the Greeks and Independents through his activities and positions on campus."

"Norm gives unselfishly of himself to help solve any problems which may arise with individuals, activities and his fraternity as well as the University."

He is a member of Innocents, Lincoln Project, Agronomy Club and Farmhouse.

'Coveted Honor'
Romjue's letter said that "the Outstanding Nebraskan Award should be considered the most coveted honor at this institution. It is with this in mind that I submit the name of Larry Romjue as a candidate."

He is a member of N Club, the varsity golf team, Student Council, IFC, and is business manager of Kosmet Klub. He was an Eligible Bachelor of 1959 and a member of Innocents.

"Perhaps his greatest honor which most typifies his worthiness of this award, is the fact that he was a recipient of the national Beta Theta Pi scholarship award for his laudible services to both his fraternity and his University."

Other nominations include Chancellor Clifford Hardin, Mrs. Betty Carpenter, Dean Jenkins, Polly Doering, Karen Peterson, John Coates, Karl Shapiro and Dick Basoco.

Chancellor Hardin Departure Rumors Are False Says Chancellor

Chancellor Clifford Hardin again denied reports that he had been offered the presidency of the University of Minnesota.

The Chancellor said that he "hadn't heard a word," adding that he was "very happy here. My family is very happy here. We wish to stay."

He said inquiries have been made locally about him, but he has not requested any job elsewhere and definitely wishes to remain here.

"I expect to be rooting for the Cornhuskers next fall," he said.

University of Minnesota Regents are making no statements regarding selection of a president for the school until the man selected accepts the offer.

A spokesman said he could neither affirm nor deny a report that the University chancellor is one of the top prospects.

Hardin came to the University in 1954 at the age of 38, the youngest in a succession of 12 University chancellors. He had been dean of agriculture and director of the experiment station at Michigan State University.

Chancellor Hardin is among the nominees for Outstanding Nebraskan.

Average-Conscious Chart Study at Grill?—Two Average

Pre-final days are hectic, worried times for some NU students. Many probably already are trying to predict their averages for the semester. In an effort to provide the student with some idea of what average he/she may get for the semester, the Daily Nebraskan offers this chart to make the figuring easier.

Average	8	6	4	2
favorite study place on campus	stacks	house, dorm	Crib	Grill
over the Christmas vacation	finished 3 reports, read 2 books	read on train home	partied most nights	saw parents once
romance situation	married	date around	engaged	pined three times
method of studying for finals	light review alone	group reviewing, study alone	cram	cram and rest night before exam	go to movie	4-5 hours of review	cram	go to movie finish 2-hour final in . . .	1½ hours	2½ hours	3 hours	1½ hours
prefer finals that are . . .	essay	multiple choice	easy	not given
plans for semester break	read book	wash car, clean room	Omaha night spots	rest up for next semester
"Next semester I'm going to get	an 8.0	a 6.5	a 6.0	a job
