

Thinclads In Dual Saturday

Oklahoma State To Test Huskers

Coach Frank Sevig's indoor track team will be looking for its second victory of the young season when they host Oklahoma State Saturday at 2 p.m. on the indoor track.

The Husker thinclads were victorious in their opening meet, a triangular with Drake and South Dakota State last Saturday. NU scored 93 2-3 points, followed by Drake with 43 1-8 and SDS with 13.

Six champions will be defending their crowns from last year's initial meet between the two teams.

NU captain Joe Mullins and Bob Knaub were double winners in last year's meet. Mullins won the mile and 1,000-yard runs and Knaub doubled the broad jump and low hurdles.

Al Wellman, Husker shot-putter, won his event last year with a 46' 8" toss. In the triangle Saturday Wellman had a heave of 51'2".

Ken Ash of Nebraska won the 600-yard run a year ago. From Oklahoma State, returning titlists a year ago are Sammy Pegues, who won the high jump at 6' 3", and Miles Eisenman.

Eisenman, the Cowboys' outstanding distance runner who is defending champion in both the Big Eight indoor and outdoor 2-mile run, won this event last year. Saturday's action will see him competing in both events.

Besides these two, the Cowboys have other top track men, particularly in the pole vault. In this event Aubrey Dooley, a 15-foot vaulter, and Ray Graham, a sophomore, and a brother of Jim Graham who won the NCAA pole vault crown here last June, will be in action for the Oklahoma Staters.

Nebraska Athletes Face Big Weekend

Nebraska's gymnastics team puts its undefeated dual record on the line Saturday when the Huskers clash with Kansas and Colorado College of Education.

The event will be scored as a triangular and a double dual.

As far as the dual section with Colorado College is concerned, the Huskers will be an underdog, as the Colorado team defeated Nebraska in the All College Tourney in Colorado. Nebraska has won this tournament six times out of the eight years it has been held.

The ten man Cornhusker team will be out to win their fourth and fifth dual meets.

Coach Jake Geier said that Co-Captain Phil Hall and Dennis Anstine will be held to limited action due to injuries.

Anstine and Virgil Kubert are tied for high point honors, scoring 28 points in the last three meets. Hall is following close behind with 27.

Geier announced the following squad for Saturday's meet: Dennis Anstine—Side Horse; Hiah Bar; Parallel Bars; Free Exercise; Don Bell—Free Exercise; Tumbling; Don Brass—Rebound; Tumbling; Karl Byers—Side Horse; Phil Hall—Free Exercise; Parallel Bars; Flying Rings; Tumbings; Rebound; Tumbling; Herbert Hanick—Rings.

Nebraska's wrestling team will attempt to snap their losing streak this weekend. The Husker grapplers take on the Air Force Academy in a 7:30 p.m. match at the Coliseum, Friday, and journey to Brookings, S.D. for a dual meet with South Dakota State Saturday.

Coach Bill Smith will have only six varsity wrestlers on hand as 167-pounder, Bruce O'Callaghan was declared ineligible this week. Earlier Smith lost Roland Wallick (177) and Phil Johnson (130). Best Husker hopes for a victory in these meets are Heavyweight Jim Raschke, who has a 3-1-3 record, and Wayne Reeve, 137-pound matman.

Probable NU lineups: 123—Ted Rethmeier (1-6) 130—Forrest 137—Wayne Reeve (0-6) 147—Jim Faimon (0-6) 157—Garry Harkey (0-4) 167—Forrest 177—Dan Hoevet (0-4) Hwt.—Jim Raschke (3-1-3)

Coach Dick Glass' Husker swimmers have two meets slated this weekend. The NU finnen go against Northwest Missouri Friday night at the Coliseum pool and travel to Ames for a dual meet against Iowa State Saturday night.

Klaas was pleased with several NU performances in an 88-11 loss to Oklahoma last Saturday. "The score at OU was not bad if you consider we were swimming the fifth ranked team in the nation," he said. He praised the fine times turned in by Larry Ferrell, Lincoln sophomore, Mihara and Larry McClean on the southern jaunt.

Ferrell, Lincoln sophomore, clocked a 2:23.7 in the 200-back stroke against OU, his best time as a Husker. Senior co-captain Bucklin cut two seconds off his best time in the 200-individual medley.

Mihara, sophomore from Omaha, trimmed nearly nine seconds off his 440-free style time and McClean, Fremont junior, bettered his season's top performance by 18 seconds against OU.

The Northwest Missouri team, scheduled to perform at 7:00 Friday, are in their first year of competition. Klaas noted, "We are helping them to establish a schedule."

Concerning the Iowa State dual, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., the NU swim coach stated, "From all indications, IS has several outstanding swimmers, and they have had some outstanding competition this season, swimming the two top teams in the nation this year. Paul Witherell, sophomore Cyclone performer, is an All-American in any event he swims."

"We will give them a good battle for firsts in several events," he said.
