Jazzy Five To Go to Festival

... Entry Packed in Hersey Box, Apple Wrappers

National honors came to Jim Herbert and the Varsity Five this week.

The seven-man combo has been selected to compete in the National Collegiate Jazz Festival at Notre Dame University March 18 and 19.

Thirty Selected

Thirty combos were selected from all over the United States to participate. National honors, scholarships, and bookings will be awarded to the top groups in the division. The top groups will have a one week's booking at "The Blue Note," in Chicago.

According to James M. Naughton, chairman of the board of directors of the festival, the groups represent what the board feels is the best collegiate jazz in the country.

To enter the contest, the combo had to supply detailed information about the group, a picture, and a four minute tape recording.

Snow Storm
According to Herbert, leader of the group, the entry was made at the last minute and the entry was mailed on the deadline at the time of a big snow storm.

"They must have gotten a surprise when they opened the entry box as the tape and picture were packed with apple papers in a hersey box because the stores were closed due to the storm and proper packing material was not available.

"We're about the happiest guys in the world," said Herbert. "But this will be a real challenge. We know the caliber of talent that the Eastern groups can display," he said. "But we're going out with the idea that we can equal them."

Concert Planned
The group has been playing together just this year but Herbert has had his own Dixieland bands for five years.

Other members are Bob Kokarik, trumpet; Bob Force, clarinet; Dave Kreck, piano; Lee Adams, drummer; Duane Stehlik, bass and Jim Herbert, trombone.

All are also a part of "The Collegians," 12 piece dance band which has been popular at Omaha University and Lincoln city events as well as house parties and campus programs.

Half Hour Concert

The group will play a 30 minute concert before an expected audience of 5000 at the first round of the contest.

Among the Board of Advisors at the festival for the groups will be Steve Allen, NBC television; Lawrence Berk, president of the Berklee School of Music; the Rev. George Bernard, student affairs vice-president of Notre Dame; Duke Ellington, orchestra leader.

Dave Garroway, NBC television; Benny Goodman, Orchestra leader; Dr. Eugene Hall, Michigan State Educator; Frank Holzfeind, proprietor of the Blue Note; Herman Kenin, president of American Federation of Music; Stan Kenton, orchestra leader.

Louis Lorillard, president of Newport Jazz Festival; Jo Maher, chairman, Board of directors of Maher Publication; Kenneth Morris, president of National Stage Band Camp; Marian McPartland Jazz pianist; Rev. Norman O'Connor, Boston University and Fred Williamson, vice-president of associate book- ing Corporation.

Lockers Are Available In Union Basement

Editor's note: This is the first article in a series to be run regularly explaining services and regulations of the Student Union.

Lockers located in the basement of the old portion of the Student Union are now available to any student for a small rental charge, according to Walter Stockton, operations manager.

A total of 80 large and small lockers are available at present, he said, and 58 additional ones will be ready later.

Sixteen of the lockers are located in the women's restroom, room 40 and 39 and in room 41 the men's room.

Showers are also available in the men's restroom, he noted.

There are also 25 small lockers for use in the Commuters Lunchroom located near the barber shop.

Students wishing to check out a locker for the second semester should register at the main desk.

A fee of $1.50 is charged with 50 cents returned at the end of the semester, Stockton said.

As soon as locks are available, he explained, 58 additional lockers will be ready for use in the corridor between the Daily Nebraskan office and the barber shop.

Holders of continuing scholarships, such as the Regents, must submit an application for renewal of the award.

Application forms are available in 207 Administration or 202 Agricultural Hall.

'Service To Students' Said Aim Of Bookstore In Report To Council

By Mike Milroy
"The University Bookstore is not there to make money."

R. Bruce Campbell, manager of the University Bookstore, made this statement before the Student Council Wednesday.

Campbell, University graduate and former personnel director of the Elgin Watch Co., told the Council that the University Bookstore was established by the state at the same time the University was founded.

To Serve Students
He told Council members that the bookstore is a part of the University and is

"there to serve the students."

Campbell presented the Council with a small background of the bookstore and its procedures and then held a short question session.

He stated that the first step in the procurement of books was in the form of an inquiry sent to the "text-book coordinators" in the different University departments. This inquiry includes an estimate of students; books to be used in the course and the question of possible reuse of the books in that course.

Data Gathered

The information is then compiled and purchases are made according to the data compiled. This data is also made available to competitive bookstores, Campbell said.

He stated that prices of new books are set by the publishers and the University Bookstore mark-up on these books is 20 per cent of the new book price. He also stated it is "impossible for a profit on a straight 20 per cent mark-up."

This 20 per cent covers the overhead expenses of the bookstore and this income is supplemented by a 33 per cent mark-up on supplies. The bookstore added the line of supplies in 1952, largely due to the efforts of the Student Council.

Used Books

Used books, if they are to be used again, will bring the student 50 per cent of the original new book price. The book is then placed back on the shelf at 70 per cent of the new book price. Campbell pointed out that the University Bookstore benefited the students here since up to 1949, a book was resold at 75 per cent of the new book price.

Campbell said that a book which would no longer be used at this University would be purchased from the students at exactly the same price that the bookstore could get from various book wholesalers.

Those which could be used and were in demand at another campus would bring the students a slightly higher resale price.

Price Equalizer
Campbell remarked, "new students lose the fact that the University Bookstore is there to keep prices down. University Bookstore is a price equalizer. We try to keep the prices fair for the students. If we find a competitor's prices lower than ours, we immediately lower them."

In the question session, one Council member asked about any pressure to keep the University Bookstore from underselling the competitive bookstores.

Campbell stated that the University Bookstore is "not trying to undercut anybody." He further asserted that capital was necessary to obtain an inventory with which to operate.

Pres. Nielsen Warns Members On Cuts

In other business before the Student Council, President Jack Nielsen warned Council members against accumulation of excessive absences.

It was pointed out to the Council that, according to the Constitution, a Council member is considered absent if he is not at the meeting at exactly 4 p.m.

The Council approved the constitutions of the University Wildlife Club, the University Young Democrats Club, the University Student Education Association, the University Club and the Vocational Home-making Education Association.

In the Executive Council report, Jack Nielsen stated that a letter had been received from Chancellor Clifford Hardin asking the Council to be luncheon guests of the University when the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools visits the University Feb. 23.

The Association is an accrediting association, but it was stated that this visit will not be for reasons of accreditation.

Sunday Crib Speedier Says Head

The crib will also add two hot meat entries on its menu. The hot food service will start at 4:30 p.m. and will be available till 7 p.m. each Sunday in an effort to relieve part of the rush hours.

"We are making a concentrated effort to bring Crib service and menu up to standards set by students at the University," continued Kohlgligian, "and we hope this will get the movement started."

All suggestions from students concerning all food service in the Union will be welcome and every effort to fill these suggestions will be made, added Kohlgligian.

Coed Counselor Filings Close At 5 Today

The Board consists of 10 members plus the president and vice-president and each board member serves as a group leader with seven to 10 Big Sisters in addition to being in charge of some phase of the Coed Counselor program.

Interviews will be held in 349 Union from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Feb. 13.

Closing Hours Conform To Community Patterns

Most coeds and fellows, too, usually agree women's closing hours could be extended a little, at least on weekends.

However, there is a very logical explanation for the present hours.

Dean of Women Helen Snyder said the present closing hours conform to the social and community patterns of Lincoln. She pointed out that the age of the student is not a determining factor.

Present hours are simply a reasonable time limit set for safety and designed to comply with community entertainment, according to Dean Snyder.

Special events warrant special hours. The Military Ball, Homecoming, fraternity and sorority formals and other "specials" are granted 2 a.m. closing hours.

One coed remarked that closing hours were fine except more 2 a.m. nights could be granted. Another said Friday and Saturday nights should have the same hour, preferably 1 a.m. or later and Sunday hours should be extended to midnight.

A budding young romanticist (boy type) remarked, "ours could be set at 1 a.m. on Friday and 2 a.m. on Saturday, especially in the spring."

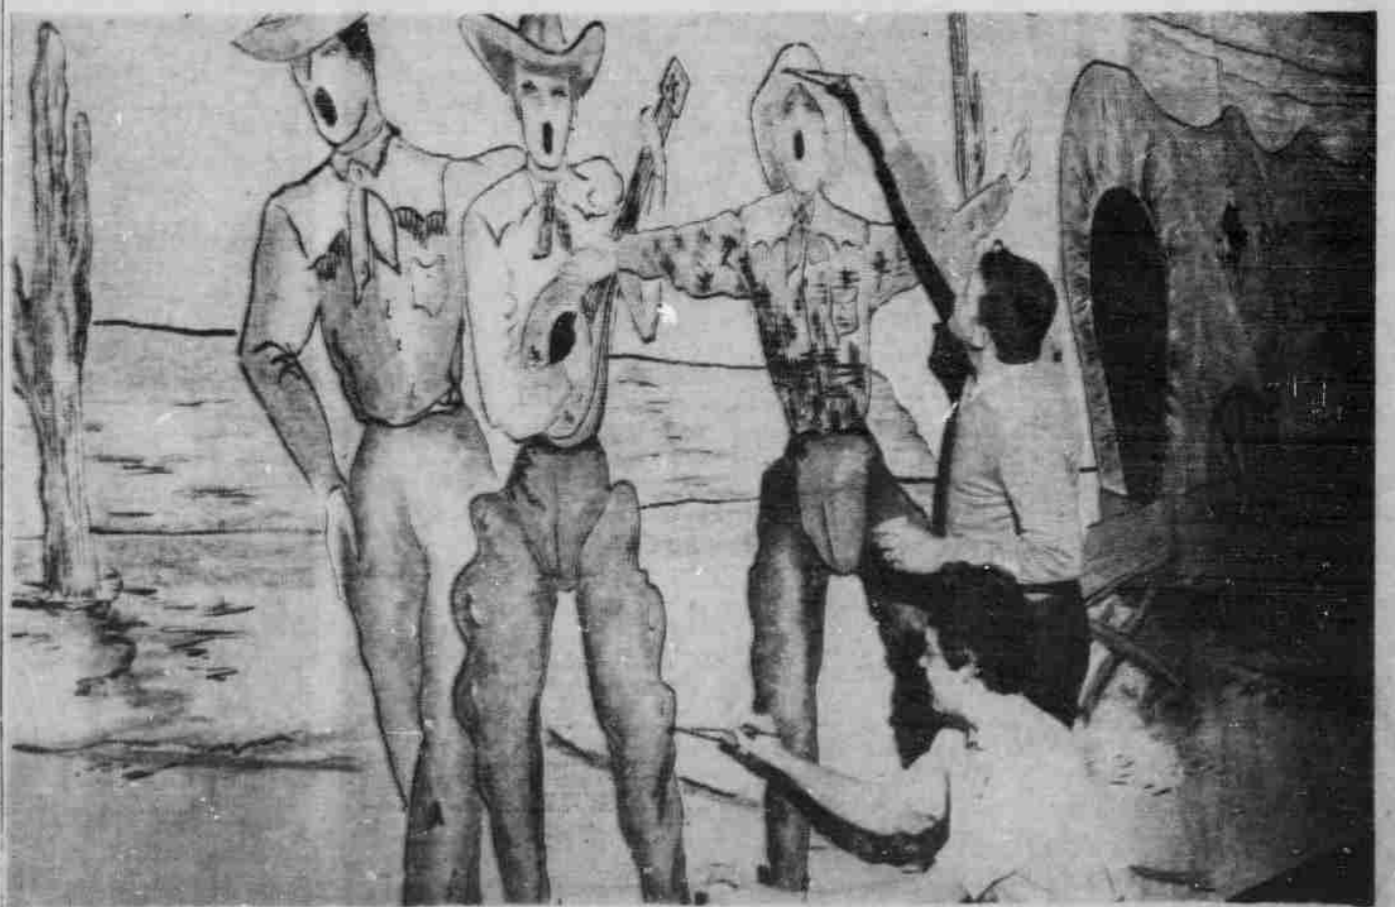

Seniors should receive special privileges, suggested one senior.

There are also those who think closing hours are fine as they stand and in some cases could even be earlier. Often weekend hours present a problem, according to one coed. For instance, you are practically obligated to stay out with your date until reasonably near the time limit. But what if you are not having a good time? The sudden headache excuse no longer is convincing even when it is the truth. Later hours only serve to extend the misery.

In comparison to other schools, Nebraska coeds fare pretty well. At Arizona University closing hours are the same with the exception of a Sunday curfew at 11:30 p.m.

Closing hours at Iowa State University are 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 12:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

A "key privilege" system is used by Ohio State University. Junior, senior and graduate students are granted the privilege of signing out keys to the dormitory for an evening. They must indicate their destination, escort and expected time of return before leaving.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Chauncey Nelson and Kathy Thomazin put finishing touches on a 72 foot mural being painted in the Ag Union in preparation for an all-campus Ho-Down tonight at 8:30 featuring Hadley Barrett, Barrett, who proved to be popular at a house party this fall, will provide a floor show along with dance music. The Ho-Down will take the place of the Ag campus Sno-Ball which had been an annual February dance.
