

Hustlin' Huskers Skin the 'Cats, 70-60

By Dave Calhoun
It happened again. Nebraska's basketball team, up and down throughout the season, played the role of Jack and knocked off the giant of the Conference, Kansas State, in a tremendous 70-60 victory Saturday for the Scarlet and Cream.

It was one of the fastest games the Huskers have played all season, and like last week's victory over Iowa State, it was a terrific team effort.

As a result of the contest, the Conference lead is knotted into a three-way tie between Kansas State, Colorado and Kansas.

In the early minutes of the game, it looked as though the Wildcats were about to gain their eighth conference victory.

With only five minutes chopped from the clock, Kansas State held a commanding 13-4 lead.

At the half Nebraska was down by just one point, 32-31. Jim Kowalke almost scored the basket of the year in the closing seconds of the first period when he let fly with a half court hook shot that skidded off the boards, hit the rim and bounced to the floor.

First Gain
After the intermission Al Buuck hit a jumper to put the Huskers ahead for the first time. K-State's Long countered with a fielder. For the next three minutes the scoreboard jumped, first for Nebraska, then for Kansas State.

Then, five quick two-pointers for Nebraska, and they were on their way to their biggest upset of the season.

The 10 point spree, climaxed by a jump shot by Buuck gave the Huskers an unbelievable 11 point lead, 48-37.

Charity Adds
Captain Herschell Turner added four more points to the tally, two via the charity stripe. The Wildcats, not used to Nebraska, tried to regain themselves, as K-State's captain, Steve Douglas dumped in six points to bring the score to a 54-48 reading.

Rex Swett, flashy Husker sophomore, hit an overhead layup under the basket to spark the Husker's final push.

Before being etched in the losers column the Wildcats attempted one last stand, behind the straight shooting of Douglas. With 6:05 left in the game Kansas State had cut the margin to just three points.

Maxey hit a 15 foot jumper from the corner and the Huskers entered the last five minutes slowing down the pace, trying to spring someone loose.

Maxey shook himself free under the goal and dropped in another two pointer.

The game almost got out of hand in the last two minutes as the action grew hotter.

Maxey Down
Maxey was knocked to the floor with 1:31 left and floor, referee Ken Pryor called a technical foul on Bob Harry. Coach Jerry Bush left the bench and had a few words with Pryor.

Maxey left the game. Wally Frank missed the technical free throw and Nebraska went on to ice its fourth conference victory. Almost lost in the game's action was Turner's individual goal of 1000 points. H. T. made the final bucket of the contest on a spectacular follow up shot, to bring his evening's total to 12, just two short of the magic number.

Kowalke, hitting mainly from the corners, paced the Huskers with 19 points, while Maxey added with 16.

The Huskers hit 12 for 31 from the field in the first half, at one time going seven minutes without scoring. However, in the fast moving final half, the Huskers ripped the nets, dropping 15 of 24 attempts.

The performance at the free throw line was even better. The Huskers ended the first half, hitting 100 per cent from the line. They continued their perfect mark until a toss by Jan Wall, with eight minutes left in the tilt, rolled free of the rim, snapping an 11 for 11 string.

Nebraska ended the evening hitting 16 out of 20 attempts at the free throw line.

Frank took the scoring honors for K-State with 17 and Steve Douglas chipped in 13.

Nebraska will be looking for its third straight home Huskers face Oklahoma in the Coliseum. Tip off time is 8:05 p.m.

King Reports 'No RE Week'

There will be no Religious Emphasis Week at the University this year reports Jack King, vice president of the Council of Religion.

The council decided to discontinue R. E. Week this year in order to re-evaluate the purpose of the week set aside for religion emphasis.

The council plans to continue R. E. Week next year and hopes that an internationally known speaker will be present.

Language Importance Increases

The importance of language instruction in "critical language areas" is increasing in midwestern universities.

So says Dr. George W. Rosenlof, retired dean of admissions at the University and now regional representative for the division of higher education of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

The State University of Iowa and the University of Kansas—which are emphasizing Chinese—are among 26 institutions receiving grants for language study under the National Defense Education Act.

Dr. Rosenlof said at least 50 languages, each spoken by more than two million people, are not being taught in the U.S.

Hardin Accepts Foundation Post

Chancellor Clifford Hardin has accepted an invitation to serve on the Educational Advisory Committee of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich.

The Committee with counsel with the Foundation in the appraisal of current activities, review major requests of assistance and make recommendations as to activities worthy of Foundation support.

Dr. Hardin was invited to serve by Emory Morris, president of the Foundation.

Mortar Boards Honor 15 Scholars

Mortar Board honored the 15 smartest women—average wise—on campus at a noon luncheon Saturday.

Picked on the basis of accumulative averages at the end of second semester last year, they included the five top coed scholars in each class.

In addition, congratulatory notes will be sent to all women with a seven average or above based on the same records as those honored Saturday.

Those honored include: seniors, Carole Crate, Mary Walters, Helen Hockabout, Karen Peterson and Diana Maxwell; juniors, Sonia Anderson, Thelma Christenson, Mary Schmelzer, Sylvia Rodehurst and Eleanor Kessler; and sophomores, Nancy Carroll, Karen Boesiger, Sharyn Watson, Lynn Wright and Ann Walker.

Miss Crate, Miss Anderson and Miss Carroll have the highest averages in their respective classes.

The five sophomores all

Earth Scientist To Discuss Uses of Water in Industry

Dr. George Maxey, the fifth of eight earth scientists sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday, in Morrill Hall auditorium.

Geology Prof
Dr. Maxey, head of the Ground Water Geology and Geophysical Exploration Section of the Illinois State Geological Survey and professor of geology at the University of Illinois, will discuss "The Geology of Water and Its Importance to Our Industrial Civilization."

Dr. Maxey worked for seven years with the ground water branch of the U.S. Geological

Enrollment Add Tallies Up to 64

Second semester enrollment at the University increased 64 students over the total enrollment for the second semester of 1959, according to University Registrar Floyd Hoover.

A total of 7,964 students have enrolled this semester. Increases in enrollment were in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Dentistry, Law and Medicine.

The Graduate School and the Teachers Advanced Professional also increased.

Decreases in enrollment were in the Colleges of Agriculture, Business Administration, Engineering and Architecture, Pharmacy and Teachers.

The Junior Division and the students-at-large also decreased. The School of Nursing remained the same.

A breakdown of Colleges with their 1959 and 1960 figures is as follows:

College	1960	1959
Agriculture	389	896
Arts and Sciences	1391	1313
Business Administration	865	921
Dentistry	132	128
Engineering and Architecture	1234	1255
Law	127	121
Medicine	369	328
Nursing	92	92
Pharmacy	39	43
Teachers	1371	1430
Junior Division	80	101
Students-at-large	75	86
Graduate	909	850
Teacher Advanced Professional	391	336

In addition, University High School reports an enrollment of 271, the same as last year. The Curtis School of Agriculture shows 200, which is down 18 and University evening class enrollment is 629, up 41.

The total enrollment in all University scholastic activities increased to 9,064, a gain of 87 students over last semester.

Lockwood Files For Regent Post

Russell Lockwood, 38, filed Thursday as a candidate for University of Nebraska regent from District 1.

This is the post now held by Clarence E. Swanson of Lincoln who has not yet filed for re-election. Charles Vogt Jr. of Liberty filed for the post several weeks ago.

A 1951 graduate of the Nebraska College of Law, Lockwood is employed as attorney for the Nebraska Petroleum Council.

Retirement Revisions Are Sought

A new retirement program for all University employees will be introduced to the faculty this spring, University officials announced.

The new program will include improve financial benefits and an adequate funding method with employee contribution for all employees, said Dr. Cecil Vanderzee, chairman of the retirement study committee.

A. C. Breckenridge, dean of faculties, said the need for a revised retirement program is urgent. Greater retirement benefits offered by major universities is another inducement attracting faculty members to other schools, he added.

Follies Race to Perfection

... Kappas Top Practice List with 22 Work Hours

Practice makes perfect and when the Coed Follies show rolls into the spotlight Friday night at Pershing Auditorium, the six sorority skits represented will have had lots of it.

Kappa Kappa Gamma tops the list for the most practice hours spent prior to this week. A member of the skit reported 14 hours practice last week and eight hours the week before. She said they did miss one however, due to a pledge sneak.

'Madame President'
The Kappas have been practicing their "Madame President" skit in several places including the Delta Upsilon basement, Student Union and Kappa house. Skitmaster is Mary Jane Koch.

Alpha Phi, Delta Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Theta report eight, to 10 practice hours per week. They practice in the Union and their houses.

'A Yaktale,' the Alpha Phi's skit revolves around the women "yak-packers" of Tibet. The yak industry is the main occupation of Tibetans and the yaks are used for Santa Claus beards in foreign countries.

Skitmaster is Joan Bailey.

'Rare Moods' of the girls make practices more fun than work reported Alpha Chi Omega co-skit chairmen Sherry Turner and Shari West.

The Alpha Chi Omega skit, "Title Wave," pokes fun at the large number of campus queens. The three types of sorority houses, made up of sweet, sophisticated and allround girls, have each nominated a candidate for "Miss Sixteenth Street." The situation is complicated when it is discovered the judges of the contest are alums from the three houses represented in the competition.

"Mooniversity" is the title of the Delta Gamma skit directed by Sharon Quinn.

Coordination Trouble
The moon girls have trouble coordinating themselves because of the lack of gravity. They are forced to take body mechanics to learn coordination.

Skitmembers report they really do need lessons of this type so they can learn to move as the action in the skit requires.

Melodramatic poetry sets the mood for the Pi Beta Phi skit "Killer Back in Town."

Its characters included TV's favorites Mat Basteron, Marshall Mellon and Baverick. These heroes are engaged in contest for the attention of the barroom floozy, Fanny.

Mary Knoll is skitmaster.

TV Program-Story
Kappa Alpha Theta combines a TV program and a story book tale for their skit, "You Were There."

The event is the fall of flumpy Dumpty. It tells of the great effort which was made to put him back together again.

Barb Anderson is in charge of the skit.

Ag College Runs Test On Turkeys

The possibility of building a turkey-testing facility near Lincoln as a joint project between Nebraska turkey interests and the College of Agriculture was revealed recently.

John Skinner, assistant extension poultryman, speaking before the annual meeting of the Nebraska Turkey Federation, said the possibility emerged from results of a survey on the random sample turkey test.

The test is conducted by the Department of Poultry Husbandry. Eggs sent by growers from Nebraska and several other states are hatched at Lincoln.

The young poulters are wing-banded for identification and reared at a farm near Louisville.

Last year more than 4,000 eggs were sent representing flocks from Connecticut to California and Texas to Canada.

Tickets Available

Tickets are still on sale for the Kingston Trio concert Wednesday night at Pershing Auditorium. A headline in the Daily Nebraskan was incorrect Friday in saying that sales ended last Friday. The tickets may be obtained at the Auditorium.

Air-ROTC Sophomores Tour Base

University sophomores in Air Force ROTC who are applying for the advanced program were flown to Biggs Air Force Base at El Paso, Texas, recently.

Col. Atwell, Maj. Ault and Capt. Paul, Damon and Fosterman were in charge of the flight. The group viewed the Strategic Air Command and its mission.

Also viewed was a B-52, a KC-135 and a B-50 to see how each operates. A simulated bombing of a Russian city with only two in-flight refuelings showed the cadets the capabilities of the B-52.

They observed how pilots and crew members lived when they were on 24 hour alert.

Training School Scheduled Here

A one day recreation school will be held Thursday at the College of Agriculture for students and adults.

One of 12 throughout the state, the program includes training in leading games, stunts, skits, group singing, folk dancing and ideas for party planning, party decorations and leathercraft.

Beginning at 8:30 a.m. the sessions will continue until 3:30 p.m. with five different groups during the day.
