The Big Eight Basketball Conference is currently a two-team race between Kansas and Kansas State. These two clubs meet tonight at Manhattan in a do-or-die battle for the top spot.

Kansas has won five straight behind the work of Wayne Hightower, and Bill Bridges. In their first meeting, the Jayhawks defeated K-State 64-62, Feb. 10, to knock the Wildcats out of first place. Last week KU toppled Colorado and Oklahoma in its upward surge.

Kansas State will be out for revenge, counting on top performances from Wally Frank, Ced Price and Sonny Ballard. After streaking to five early league victories, Coach Tex Winter's hoopsters have been knocked around a bit, including a 70-60 loss to Nebraska.

Colorado losses Colorado was kayoed out of a share for first via a 84-72 loss to Missouri, Monday night.

Joe Scott and Charles Henke starred for the Tigers, scoring 27 and 26 points respectively. The talented two paced Mizou to a 41-39 half-time lead and the win enabled Missouri to move out of the league cellar. The Tigers have won four and dropped seven and are deadlocked with Iowa State for sixth place.

Colorado's 7-4 record earns the Buffs third place in the Big Eight, but they are in danger of losing two of these wins. Conference athletic directors take action Thursday on a pair of protested Colorado victories by Nebraska and Iowa State.

Oklahoma held on to fourth place with a 50-49 squeaker over Nebraska. The Sooners still have an outside chance for the conference championship.

The Oklahoma State Cowboys are in fifth with four wins and six losses. The OS crew have the toughest defense in the league, limiting opponents to 519 points in 10 games (51.9 points per game).

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State meet tonight in another intra-state rivalry.

Iowa State is suffering from a big letdown after copping the Pre-Season Tourney at Kansas City. Last week the Iowa State losing streak soared to five as the Cyclones were downed by Kansas State and Oklahoma. The Cyclones are tied for sixth

Orwig Enters Protest

Big 8 Officials To Discuss Fate Of Husker-Buff Tilt

By Chip Wood

University of Nebraska athletic director Bill Orwig will make an official protest to the Big Eight conference and Colorado in regard to the Colorado-Nebraska basketball game played at Colorado, January 30.

The protest is being made due to discrepancies in the method of timing the game, which Nebraska lost in an overtime, 62-57.

Orwig said that the Huskers had a 50-50 chance of winning the protest. He is going to Kansas City February 25, to the Big Eight meeting of faculty representatives. It is not known which day, Thursday or Friday, the protest will come before the faculty group.

The dispute arose over the allowance of two extra seconds of play at the end of the game when the clock showed there were five seconds remaining. The official timekeeper explained this by saying that he had allowed the clock to run two seconds after the officials had whistled CU's Don Butler for a foul against Jim Kowalke.

The time clock is the official timing piece in Big Eight games and it cannot be set back unless the officials are notified.

Charles Bitter, who keeps official time on the bench at Colorado games, said in regard to why he didn't notify the officials, "There was such a short time left in the game that I didn't think it would make any difference."

Colorado was able to come down the court and score in seven seconds to tie the game and go on to win in the overtime. Bitter's unimportant alteration cost Nebraska the game.

Winter Air Fails to Halt Baseballers

The cold weather is not holding up the Cornhusker's baseball practice.

According to Gil Dunne, assistant baseball coach, practice is progressing into the fourth week. The first three weeks consisted of calisthenics, however, practice is in full swing this week.

Batting cages have been set up in the basement of the Field House for batting and pitching practice. Fielding practice is also underway.

Sprinter Set For Big 8 Track Meet

Sprinter and quarter miler, Bob Cross, has lived up to pre-season expectations of track coach Frank Sevine by becoming a standout performer for the Huskers this year.

Bob was originally from Alexandria, Va., but graduated from Boys Town in '58 as a three-sport standout. He was a Cowboy regular half-back in football and a starter on the basketball team which won the state title his junior year.

Cross won the 440 in the state meet his senior year and set a new state record of 48.6 which placed him third among all the high school quarter milers in the nation.

As a Nebraska yearling, Bob won the quarter and tied for first in the 60 yard dash in the conference indoor meet.

Although he has been hampered by a leg injury this year, Sevine said Tuesday that Bob is in the best shape of the season.

Cross won the quarter in the Oklahoma State dual last Saturday with a time of 50.3. This is his best time of the season in that event.

Husker Yearlings Add Sooners To Postal Track Scoreboard

The Nebraska freshman track team continued to show brilliant times and good team balance as they defeated Oklahoma's frosh, 94-23. The indoor frosh postal was held Feb. 20.

The Huskers demonstrated overpowering team balance as they won 11 of the 14 events held. NU freshman finished 1-2-3 in the 600-yard run, 1,000-yard run, high hurdles, low hurdles and high jump. The yearlings also shut out the Sooners in the pole vault and mile relay.

Individual NU cinderman equaled or bettered their previous times as the young Huskers chalked up their second win. In their opening postal, NU blasted Oklahoma State, 95-19.

Ernest Gunter, the flying Philadelphian, won the 60-yard dash, high hurdles, 440-yard run and low hurdles. Besides these four blue ribbons he was a member of the winning NU mile relay team which ran a 3:24.1.

Gunter matched his previous 6.8 time in the low hurdles, a time which is a tenth of a second under the Big Eight postal record. Closely following Gunter in the lows was Ron Moore, who turned in a 6.9 time.

Gunter covered the 440-yard course in an amazing 49.7, and equaled his previous top times in the 60-yard dash (6.2) and high hurdles (7.4).

In the high and low hurdles, a tenth of a second separated each of the first three runners, Nebraskans Gunter, Moore and Fred Wilke.

Ray Stevens clipped a second off his mile run time, won the two-mile and NU's Joe Scott finished second in the mile.

Husker John Silveira, Clarence Scott and Bill Kenny were the top three in the 600-yard run.

Kenny won the 1,000-yard run followed by Stevens and Clarence Scott.

Larry Tomlinson took second in the shot put with a 46 foot toss, bettering his previous mark.

Larry Donovan cleared 12' 8" for the pole vault title and Wilke won the high jump and took second in the broad jump.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Unusual Lead Defeats Slam

If you like to make positive statements, bridge is not your game. As fast as you can make rules somebody will find exceptions. For example, take the case of the opening lead against a slam.

SOUTH

♣ None

South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♣ 4 ♥ 4 ♠
All Pass
Opening lead — ♠K

Draws your last trump. Because of the bad diamond break South must give up one of his low diamonds and must ruff the other three in dummy. Eventually he draws the last trump and cashes the king of diamonds, making the slam.

TRUMP OPENING

It takes a trump opening lead to defeat the slam. West gets in with the jack of diamonds in time to lead a second trump. Now dummy can ruff only two of South's low diamonds, and the slam is defeated.

Mind you, a trump is usually the worst possible opening lead against a small slam. It turns control over to declarer and gives him time to develop his tricks without interference.

About once a year, however, you get a hand like this. Everybody at the table is full of bids, just as though the deck had nine aces and seven kings instead of the normal quota. When that happens, it's a cinch that some of the bids are based on ruffing power instead of aces and kings. Lead trumps early and often do weaken your opponent's ruffing power.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, opens with one diamond. You hold: ♠ 9 3 2, ♥ A 10 8 4, ♦ 5, ♣ A 10 6 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You have fine support if partner can bid of his own free will, but you have neither enough high cards for a takeout double nor a good enough suit for an overcall.
