

Thetas, Tri-Delts Capture Top Coed Follies Honors

Humpty-Dumpty and the Kappa Alpha Thetas combined Friday night to win top honors in the 1960 Coed Follies show.

The Theta skit told of the fall of Humpty Dumpty and the great efforts of all the townspeople of "Dumptyville" to get Dumpty back together again.

The skit was a combination TV program and a story book tale and was entitled, "You Were There." Barb Anderson was the Theta skit-master.

Delta Delta Delta won the Traveler Act competition the second year in succession with their presentation of "Uh-Oh." Three small girls danced and sang a song similar to those of the Three Chipmunks.

Taking second place in skit competition was Pi Beta Phi. Their skit, "Killer Back in Town," was presented in melodramatic poetry and featured TV personalities Mat Baterson, Marshall Mellon and Baverick. Mary Knoll directed the skit. "A Yaktale," presented by Alpha Phi, was awarded third place. This skit revolved around the women "yak-packers" of a small country near Tibet. The yak-tail business was the main occupation of these women.

Suspense mounted until the women finally found out that these tails are used primarily for making Santa Claus beards in other countries. Skitmaster was Joan Bailey.
