

Jayhawks Use Charity Line To Down Nebraska 79-74

The University of Kansas used the free throw line to grab a 79-74 victory from Nebraska Monday night. The Jayhawk win knots up the Big 8 Conference, with KU and Kansas State each holding a share for first place.

It is believed that a play off will be held Wednesday evening to determine the Championship. If the play-off is held, a coin will be flipped to determine where the contest will be played.

The Jayhawks, behind the calm charity tossing of Wayne Hightower and Jerry Gardner, jumped to a dominating 42-34 halftime score.

Lead Stretched
Kansas stretched the lead to 12 points mid-way through the final period, but a Husker rally attempt cut the margin to three points.

With the clock reading 3:25, Bill Bowers, who entered the game to replace Al Buuck, hit two quick buckets to bring the score to a 71-68 reading.

The Huskers' big chance came seconds later when Jayhawk center, Wayne Hightower fouled Al Roots, giving the Nebraska sophomore a chance to make two points via the one-and-one rule.

Roots' first shot rolled around the rim and dropped into the hands of Bill Bridges, who passed to team mate Hightower. Hightower hit a neat layup to slow down the Cornhuskers.

Jayhawks Stall

Kansas went into a stall with 1:51 left when Bowers once again dropped in a two-pointer for Nebraska.

charity tosses, but Herschell Turner, playing the last game of his college career, hit a jumper to put Nebraska back into the game, as the scoreboard registered 75-72, Kansas leading.

Nebraska, tried to get the ball from the tight grips of the Jayhawk press and fouled KU's Jim Hoffman. Hoffman, who had been scoreless for the evening, hit four straight free tosses in thirty seconds to ice the game for Kansas.

Nebraska was hampered by the lack of man power, mainly in the final minutes of the contest. With 6:45 left in the game, the Huskers lost the services of Jim Kowalke.

Buuck Follows

A minute later teammate Al Buuck followed Kowalke to the bench. Buuck picked four of his personals during the first half, and spent most of the final period on the bench.

After the game Coach Jerry Bush mentioned that Al Maxey played the game with a slight leg injury. Bush said that Maxey had undergone treatment during the day at Kansas.

The Huskers were further hindered with the loss of Bob Harry, who injured his leg during the Nebraska-Oklahoma State contest last weekend.

High scoring honors for Nebraska were taken by Turner, who dropped in 22 points, eight from the field and six from the free throw line.

Maxey followed close behind with 19, while Bowers had eight, all scored in the last four minutes.

Bowers Praised

After the game Bush praised the entire team and singled out Bowers, saying, "Bill came into his own tonight, he did a marvelous job."

Hightower hit 23 points to pace the Jayhawks, nine of which came at the charity stripe. Jerry Gardner, who entered the game with a 7.6 scoring average ripped the nets with 21 points, several on long set shots.

All totaled Kansas hit 31 points from the free throw line, compared to Nebraska's 14 points.

The Huskers out-field goalied Kansas, hitting 30 to KU's 24.

Kansas now has a conference record of 10-4, and is tied with K-State for first place in the Big 8.

Nebraska ended the season with a 4-10 conference record and an over all record of 7-17. One of the Nebraska victories, Stewart Air Force Base, was ruled out by the NCAA.

Yearling Track Team Dumps K-State 91-30

The freshman track team won their fourth straight post-al track meet dumping Kansas State 91-30.

The Husker yearlings swept 11 of 14 events, allowing the K-State squad firsts in the 1000-yard run, two-mile run, and the shot put.

Ernie Gunter once again led the frosh by winning the 60-yard dash, the 60-yard low hurdles, 60-yard high hurdles, and the 440-yard dash. Gunter also aided the mile relay team to win that event in a low seasonal time of 3:22.3.

The Nebraskan's copped every place in the dashes, hurdles and the 600 and 890 yard distances.

Larry Donovan, holder of the state high school record for the pole vault, went 12-8 to defeat his Kansas State rival by more than a foot.

Fred Wilke was Nebraska's other multiple winner. Wilke won the high jump with a leap of 6-1 and the broad jump with a distance of 21-7. He also placed third in the high and low hurdles.

The Huskers are now awaiting the return of the Big Eight postal results to determine the winner in freshman conference circles.

Inside Intramurals by Dave Wohlfarth

Last week's intramural basketball games included some upsets, surprises and oddities.

Top upset of the week was Beta Sigma Psi's 32-23 win over Phi Gamma Delta. However, the next night Beta Theta Pi ended the Beta Sig's threat with a 52-39 licking.

Phi Gamma Delta had been the surprise team of the Fraternity 'A' Tourney. The Phi Gams advanced to the semi-finals before being edged by Kappa Sigma 57-53 in a tight battle.

The high-flying Kappa Sigs currently own a season record of 9-0 and are likely favorites for the tourney. However, going favorites for the tourney.

Hitchcock appears ready to snatch both the 'A' and 'B' Burr-Selleck titles. Both Hitchcock teams are undefeated and in the finals. Especially impressive has been the 'A' team, piling up some decisive scores over opponents.

Dental College really sprang to life in tourney action after holding a so-so season record. The Dents, have knocked off such teams as the Losers, Geographers and Law College in their match to the finals.

Phi Epsilon Kappa reversed an earlier tourney defeat by Law College when it whipped the Lawyers, 34-25, to stay in contention.

Oddity of the week occurred when Jerry Trupp of Delta Tau Delta-B lost his contact lenses while playing against Kappa Sigma-B. The action was similar to Jim Kowalke's loss of his contacts in the recent Oklahoma State-Nebraska game, only Trupp's lenses weren't found as quickly. Delta and Kappa Sigs were scattered all over on all fours searching for the specks and play was suspended for several minutes. The proud finder of the contacts after the inch-by-inch search was, naturally, a referee.

Watch for the Intramural All-Star Basketball Team in tomorrow's Daily Nebraskan. The selection of the team was based upon the votes each player received from the All-Opponent teams recently selected by Intramural Managers.

Upcoming after the basketball tourney ends will be the Rag's final ranking of the top ten teams.

Intramural Volleyball action begins Tuesday, March 15, with 13 games scheduled. Competition will be in Fraternities, Burr and Selleck Residence Halls.

Partner's Double Far From Holy

By Alfred Sheinwold

Some years ago the late H. T. Webster drew a series of cartoons ridiculing the poor wretch who took out his partner's penalty double. The cartoons gave people the impression that it was both dumb and depraved to disturb your partner's double. Wonderful cartoons, but regrettable advice.

times the value of the penalty double!

Expert Rule

The expert rule on penalty doubles is far from rigid. A penalty double is a suggestion, not an imperial decree.

The double shows prospects of a trump trick or two together with a couple of defensive tricks in the side suits. If the doubler's only strength is in the opponent's suit, he passes. Why drive your opponent out of the only suit you can beat?

The doubler's partner accepts the double (by passing) if he has reasonable defensive strength — two or more cards in the doubled suit and acceptable values for his own previous bids. But he tends to take the double out if he has a singleton or void in the doubled suit.

In this case East should take the double out by bidding three hearts. This shows the bid, with considerable side strength. If East had a 2-suit, rather than a 3-suited hand, he would bid his second suit instead of making the cue-bid in hearts.

From here on there should be no holding West. He bids diamonds and drives to at least a small slam.

This sort of thing can easily happen if you bow down and worship your partner's penalty double. You manage to beat South one trick. The penalty is 200 points, but South has 100 honors to cut the loss in half.

Are you satisfied to collect a mere 100 points net on the East-West cards?

You can make seven diamonds against any defense. Even if the grand slam is a bit too risky for your taste, you should still bid a small slam. That would be worth 1,300 points — almost 14

Spring Sports Set For Full Schedule

By Dave Calhoun

Spring sports will soon take over the sporting scene.

With just three weeks rest, the spring sports picture will come into full focus. By the first week in April all of Nebraska's four spring athletic teams will go into action.

In addition to this, the football team will start practice during the last week of March, ending the sessions in the annual All-Sports Day on May 7.

Looking ahead first at the outdoor track team, it's noted that the tracksters will start their season with an appearance at the Texas Relays in Austin, Tex., April 1-2.

Following that the Husker runners will hop-scotch all over the mid-west, completing a nine meet schedule, including the Conference meet at Ames, Ia., in the latter part of May.

Tony Sharp's baseball team will open its season with a two day stand against South Dakota State in Lincoln on March 4-5.

31 Man Squad
Sharp's squad of 31 men will head south during the spring vacation, playing teams in Kansas and Oklahoma.

The baseball team is bolstered by the return of eight lettermen from last year's squad.

Bad weather may hinder the baseball team, but it completely puts the damper on the Husker Golf squad.

Oklahoma Bound
In an attempt to escape the cold north winds, the golfers will travel to Oklahoma to open their season April 9.

Highlight of the 13 match schedule for the linksters will be the Conference Meet at Columbia, Mo. on May 20-21.

Nebraska's tennis team rounds out the spring athletic picture.

Coach Ed Higginbotham's team will be aided by the return of two lettermen and two other squad members from last year's team.

The tennis team also will travel south during the Spring Vacation, playing matches in Oklahoma and Kansas.
